ELECTION WON BY HINDENBURG IN REICH FIGHT

Polls 19,000,000 Ballots to 13,000,000 for Adolf Hitler.

NATIONAL SOCIALIST IS KILLED IN CLASH

Bruening's Prestige Greatly Enhanced by Reelection of President.

Berlin, April 10 (A.P.).—A grateful German nation, casting well above 19,000,000 votes for him, today decided that the venerable President Paul von Hindenburg should guide the ship of state for another seven years.

Adolf Hitler, his Fascist opponent of the National Socialist party in the run-off presidential election, although he gained a goodly portion of the Nationalist votes from the first election on March 13, fell short of reaching the 15,000,000 ballots he had claimed in the campaign. He obtained less than 13,500,000.

Ernst Thaelmann, Communist, and the other candidate this time lost overwhelmingly. He received only 3,705,000 votes, as compared to his nearly 5,000,000 four weeks ago.

One Man Is Killed.

Tentative final returns of the election, marked by minor fights in which one man was killed, another dropped dead from excitement and a number were wounded, were announced by Wolff's News Agency as follows:

Von Hindenburg, nonpartisan, 19,367,000; Hitler, National Socialist, 13,417,000; Thaelmann, Communist, 3,705,000.

A National Socialist was shot and killed in a clash between the Fascist Nazis and Communists at Hamburg and several were wounded there, with a few others injured elsewhere in minor clashes, but alert police kept down the disturbances.

That the Hitler movement apparently came to a standstill would seem to be indicated by the fact that, although his increase from 31.1 per cent today was substantial, yet the difference did not equal the vote cast for Lieut. Col. Theodore Duesterberg, the Nationalist candidate of four weeks ago, which was 6.8 of the total in the first election.

Increases Own Percentage.

The uselessness of today's run-off was demonstrated, not only by failure of all the Nationalists to swing to the Fascist nominee, but also by the fact that Von Hindenburg increased the percentage of his own vote from 49.6 to 55.9.

Perhaps no public man in Germany was happier over the result than Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, who sat in solitude in his study, drawing on his inseparable black cigar, as the returns were delivered by messengers, the telephone and the radio.

The chancellor plans to leave Berlin Wednesday night for negotiations of vital interest to Germany at Geneva and must soon face Germany's creditors at Lausanne.

One of his chief pleas during the campaign had been to indorse President von Vindenburg as a symbol of Germany's unity and determination by peaceful means to win back a place in the sun. The indorsement gave the president a victory which in the blief of German officialdom, greatly enhanced Chancellor Bruening's prestige.

Gain of 717,000 Votes.

A government spokesman said the National Socialists evidently had

Police Hold Julian, Former Oil Man

Secretary and "Gangster" Also Investigated in Big Gem Theft.

San Francisco, April 10 (A.P.).—A man who said he was Courtney C. Julian, former Los Angeles oil promoter; his secretary, Mrs. Juanita Campbell, and Frankie Foster, reputed Chicago gangster, were arrested in Foster's apartment here last night. Police said they were holding all without formal charges, pending investigation of a $100,000 jewel robbery in the Palace Hotel Friday.

Julian and Mrs. Campbell declined to discuss their acquaintanceship with the gang leader, and they were taken to the city prison booked "en route to Los Angeles."

Bernard Landau, London and New York gem salesman, said he was sure none of the trio under arrest was present when he was robbed in his hotel room.

Julian said he had been engaged in mining ventures since the collapse of the Julian Petroleum Corporation after a $100,000,000 overissue in its capital stock.

Hurley Safe In Indiana Plane Crash

Richmond, Ind., April 10 (A.P.).—A trimotored plane carrying Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley and a party of friends crashed here this afternoon but no one was injured. They were en route to Washington from Indianapolis.

The plane was badly damaged.

Hurley and his guests continued by automobile to Dayton, Ohio, where they were to take a train for Washington. Lieut. C. W. Cousland remained in Richmond with the plane.

The accident occurred when the pilot, forced down by the low ceiling, attempted to land at the air field. He overshot the field and the plane, sliding in the mud, crashed into a pole and a fence.

FIRM STAND ON OATH REITERATED BY IRISH

De Valera Discounts Rumors Nation Weakened in New Note to Britain.

Ennis, County Clare, Irish Free State, April 10 (A.P.).—President Eamon De Valera, of the Irish Free State, vigorously restated today his position that his country would stand firmly for abolition of the oath to the king and against payment of land annuities.

Those who heard the fiery Republican in a vigorous speech here today interpreted his assertions as disposing of all rumors that the latest Irish note to Great Britain had showed a weakening of the Irish attitude.

"Ireland is not a British colony, it is one of the oldest nations in the world, with all the rights of nationhood," the new president declared.

"At this moment British statesmen have a great opportunity. All they need is courage to be just and abandon an insane ambition to dominate the Irish people.

"That ambition has been the curse of Great Britain and this country for 750 years and, as far as we are concerned, there is no going back."

De Valera said that not a penny of the land annuities, which have been collected from Irish farmers for repayment of loans they were given to buy their land, would be paid until Great Britain proved her right to them.

"I am convinced she can never prove this," he concluded.

Man, Jugular Vein Cut, Rushed to Aid

While a volunteer fireman held together the edges of his jugular vein, severed in an auto crash beyond Rockville, a Montgomery County ambulance last night hurried Bert West, of Seneca, Md., 17 miles to Emergency Hospital.

At the hospital West's condition was reported critical and five more firemen volunteered their blood. Ten other members of the Rockville department were also summoned and came to town to offer their blood for the injured man. Credit for saving West's life was given to Chief Val Wilson, of the rescue squad, who kept his fingers on the wound and prevented greater loss of blood.

West was reported to have been riding in a car driven by Jack Rice, of Darnestown, Md., when it left the Rockville-Gaithersburg road and struck a pole. Flying glass sliced deep in West's throat, cutting both the vein and the windpipe. Rice was only slightly hurt, receiving a laceration of the lip, but was taken to the Montgomery County General Hospital, at Sandy Spring.

ONE BILL SAVING $200,000,000 IS HOPE OF HOOVER

Decision Expected Today on U. S. Furloughs or Pay Cuts.

SENATE DUE TO ACT ON BUREAU SLASHES

Appeal for Nonpartisan Work to Speed Economy Made by McDuffie.

(Associated Press.)

The full weight of administration influence was felt throughout the Government yesterday in a concerted drive with Congress to effect economies to help the revenue bill balance the 1933 budget.

President Hoover was reported as "extremely hopeful" that Congress could create a single, huge omnibus bill—labeled "A National Economy Program"—by which at one stroke at least $200,000,000 may be saved through legislative changes at this session.

Members of the House economy committee who attended the White House conference Saturday and agreed to a tentative plan of retrenchment made known they expect to submit three broad bills, calling for curtailment of expenditures through legislative changes, consolidations, and appropriations.

Meeting Set Today.

Chairman McDuffie called the group to meet today with J. C. Roop, budget director. They will consider President Hoover's proposed five-day work week for per diem Federal employes and the furloughing for one month without pay of regular workers, along with McDuffie's plan for a wage cut. The first House battle on the salary issue comes tomorrow when the legislative supply bill, including pay for members of Congress, is considered.

The Alabama Democrat said he would ask the committee to decide on whether it would sponsor the Chief Executive's plan, expected to save $45,000,000, or his projected 11 per cent cut, with a $1,000 exemption, estimated to net $67,000,000.

Driving hard on its own program to slash expenditures, the Senate today is to act on the flat 10 per cent cuts ordered on the supply bills for the Interior, State, Justice, Commerce and Labor Departments, estimated to save about $17,400,000.

Favors Lump-Sum Bill.

House leaders close to the Chief Executive reported yesterday that he was firmly convinced that unless the items agreed upon Saturday to save betwen $160,000,000 to $210,000,000 are rounded out into a single bill, the program would emerge emaciated, with parts of it smothered under individual protests and delayed by legislative technicalities. They said Mr. Hoover would exert his full power to gain this end and to create public sentiment for it.

Speaker Garner of the House has taken a similar position. But McDuffie said he felt it best to separate legislative changes, reductions in appropriations and consolidation proposals.

"By dividing the program," the Alabama Democrat said, "we would be

Santiago Hears Volcano Erupt 135 Miles Away

Santiago, Chile, April 10 (A.P.).—The volcano of Tinguiririca, near San Fernando, about 135 miles south of Santiago, erupted today with heavy explosions of lava which rumbled like heavy guns in the suburbs of Santiago.

First of Cherry Blooms Are Inspected by 35,000

Growth of Famous Blossoms Is Retarded by Cold Rains, But 13,384 Cars Make Trip to Potomac Park to View Them.

More than 35,000 persons yesterday traveled into Potomac Park to view the opening buds of the world famous cherry blossoms showing a vague pink against the gray skies.

According to the U. S. Park Police, 13,384 cars crossed the Fourteenth street bridge which was the only inlet into the park. Hordes of persons on foot left their autos on the outskirts of the park and waded through rain-pools to vantage points around the Tidal Basin.

Thousands of cars with out-of-town tags were in the procession which wended a slow but steady way around the Tidal Basin and the Lincoln Memorial. The blossoms had been expected to be at their best today, but the cold rains have retarded their development. In spite of this, persons from other sections had appeared and made the best of the show.

There appeared no prospect last night that the blooms would be at their best before the latter part of this week. A day or two of sunshine would bring them to perfection, but only cold weather is promised by the Weather Bureau. A few of them are half open now, but most of the branches show only a slight pink tinge.

Railroads which had expected the buds to be in full blossom brought

$1 a Year Pay Is Acceptable To President

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover has offered to become a $1-a-year man.

Members of the House who attended Saturday's protracted economy conference at the White House reported yesterday that Mr. Hoover stated he would waive his constitutional right against a salary cut and accept whatever reduction was suggested.

Chairman McDuffie, of the House economy committee, said yesterday he had pointed out to the President the unconstitutionality of such action by Congress and had suggested as an alternative that whatever sum Mr. Hoover thought best be returned.

A President receives $75,000 a year and this sum can not be reduced while he is in office. Those at the conference Saturday, however, said Mr. Hoover asserted any objection to such an action ordinarily would come from him and that he would interpose no objection to a cut of $74,999.

Those close to the White House through several administrations report that only by rigid economy can a President live within his salary of $75,000 because of social and charity requirements and expenses of the executive establishment not provided for by special congressional appropriations.

SHORT SALES QUIZ WILL BEGIN TODAY

New York Exchange Head Will Be First Senate Hearing Witness.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Wall street, that narrow and tortuous canyon of lower Manhattan, which supplies all the ticker tape for Broadway's dizzy homecomings, has sent its head man to town to tell the Senate banking and currency committee today about the seamy side of life around Trinity Church.

Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange, will be the first witness. The hearing, scheduled to begin at 10:30 this morning in the Senate Office Building, is calculated by its sponsors to piece together the story of organized bear raiding on the Stock Exchange during the last two years, and to determine whether the abnormal and unwholesome selling pressure exerted by the in-and-out depredations has operated against the national welfare.

Under the Senate summons served on Saturday, Mr. Whitney will bring with him detailed accounts of the short position of all members of the exchange, as of Friday night. From this hitherto unobtainable information committee members hope to trace out the primary sources of the recent inexplicable volume of selling, with a view to determining whether some

Springfield, Mass., April 10 (A.P.).—Five persons were killed and two critically injured in an explosion in a four-story brick building early today in a congested section of the city. Mrs. E'a Boudry, William Dahdah, Eva Dahdah, his sister; Anna Sady and Mrs. Peter Frangeia were the persons killed. Two other tenants of the building, Rose and Eva Karam, were taken to hospitals.

Peter Frangeia, husband of one of the victims, was at Boston when the explosion occurred and hurried to this city only to collapse when he learned of the tragedy. He was taken to a hospital and could not be questioned by officials.

The building, situated in Perry street, was wrecked and the windows of stores and dwellings in the vicinity were shattered. Officials were seeking to determine the cause of the explosion which they estimated did damage of $100,000.

Joseph Leiter Improves; Pneumonia Crisis Over

Chicago, April 10 (A.P.).—Joseph Leiter, capitalist and sportsman, seriously ill at his home here following an attack of pneumonia, was reported "considerably improved" today. The crisis was passed early today, physicians said, adding prospects for recovery were good.

Mr. Leiter developed pneumonia while recuperating from heart ailments which had confined him to a physician's care for several months. Mrs. Leiter, their son, Thomas, and an adopted daughter, Audrey, are with the merchant. A sister, Lady Marguerite Hyde, Countess of Suffolk and Berkshire, is in England.

HOOVER AND CABINET ARE TO BE PRESENT

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

Baseball catches up with the course of human events again today and will wrap a mighty arm around the Nation's proceedings for the next six months.

The Washington Team and the Boston Red Sox will fire the opening shot in the American League pennant scramble this afternoon at Griffith Stadium, a foretaste of the general skirmishing along both major league fronts starting tomorrow, when teams of every city will swing into action.

The advance inaugural in Washington is by special concession of both major leagues in deference to the domicile here of President Hoover, whose presence will lend an official dignity to the raising of the 1932 curtain on what the magnates are pleased to call the national pastime. The regular schedule called for the Nats to open their season in Bostn tomorrow.

Assisting President Hoover and the members of his official family, including the Cabinet, to depopulate the stock of hot dogs and peanuts in the concession stands, granting that hot dogs and peanuts are not beneath the official dignity, will be upward of 25,000 genus fans, back for the start of the six months' panic that will find them in the tentacles of baseball's grip all summer.

Weather Threatening.

But even the great god baseball is subject to the whim and fancy of the weather man, and that gentleman last night was not overly encouraging with his prediction of cloudy weather and possible occasional showers for today. Nothing short of a shower at game time at 3 o'clock, however, will force a postponement of the inaugural.

The business office of the Washington Club reported last night that several hundred grand stand reserved seats were still available and that 13,000 "rush" seats would be put on sale this morning at 9 o'clock, these latter seats comprising the concrete bleachers in center field and in the right field pavilion, which will be disposed of to the first fans making application.

Thus having disposed of the marginal notes of the situation, we can get down to the business of the ball game proper, which finds Walter Perry Johnson embarking upon his fourth term as manager of the Nats, with a team that is hailed as more powerful than any club to come under his management.

Crowder vs. MacFayden.

Manager Johnson has nominated the ace of his staff, Alvin Crowder, to shoulder the pitching burden against the Red Sox today, and has set the stage for a hurling duel in the inaugural, for Danny MacFayden, accomplished right-hander, is the mound nominee of the Boston Club, which Manager John Collins lifted

Girl Is Strangled; Four Are Quizzed

Whiting, Ind., April 10 (A.P.).—Alberta Knight, 12, daughter of the late Rev. Oscar Knight, Baptist minister of Crossville, Ill., was found strangled today in bed at her mother's rooming house. A piece of electric lamp wire was twisted about her neck.

The body was found by John Mihok, 27, a lodger, when, he said, he went to the room to call her for Sunday school. Mihok and three other roomers, John Mihalik, 22; Jack Gibson, 26; and Ira Cooper, 32, were questioned by police.

Officials also are seeking a man known only as "Blackie," who was to have occupied a room in the house last night. The room had been rented to Douglas Shore, listed as helper to "Iron Man Jack" Goodman, who, as an advertising stunt, has been sleeping on a bed of spikes in the window of a clothing store near the house for the last five days. Shore and Goodman, who came here from Montevideo, Minn., said the former's room had been loaned to "Blackie." They could not furnish the suspect's full name but supplied police with his description. Shore and Goodman were not held.

Serial Numbers of Notes Turned Over to Kidnapers

New York, April 10 (A.P.).—The text of the circular distributed by the Treasury Department in an effort to trace the $50,000 in currency paid by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh as ransom for his kidnaped son, as released tonight by a representative of the Treasury, is as follows:

Treasury Department,
Washington.

Office of Treasurer of the United States, April 6, 1932.

To the president of the banking institution addressed.

Sir:

There is inclosed a list of the serial numbers of certain United States notes of the $5 denomination, United States gold certificates of the $10 denomination, and United States gold certificates and Federal Reserve notes of the $20 denomination.

If any of the currency so listed is received by your bank, it will be appreciated if you will take note of the source from which you received it and immediately notify the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C., by telegraph.

Very truly yours,
W. O. WOODS,
Treasurer of the United States.

STUDENTS BEATEN BY HARLAN POSSE

Arkansas Group Flees Into Virginia; Kidnaping at Pineville Charged.

Big Stone Gap, Va., April 10 (A.P.). Bearing welts across their backs which, they charged, were inflicted by sticks in the hands of Harlan County "vigilantes," five students and instructors from Commonwealth College, Mena, Ark., were safe in Virginia today after being summarily ejected from Kentucky.

The students, who made their crosscountry trek in a coupe with an improvised rumble seat, had gone to Kentucky to "inspect" the strike area, distribute food and clothing, and to make speeches on the bill of rights, copies of which they took along.

After spending the night at Corbin, Ky., they proceeded serenely enough as far as Pineville, in the heart of the troubled area. At Pineville, their objective, they were met by a posse of "vigilantes," who offered no violence, but who ordered them to "keep going," and went along with them to see they obeyed orders.

And so the procession moved across Bell County—the coupe carrying the students, two cars carrying four newspapermen and several carloads of Kentuckians.

At the Harlan County line, the Bell County citizens relinquished their charges to a waiting posse of Harlan County men and the steedy trip con-

Scott Bullitt Dies; Democratic Leader

Brief Illness Is Fatal to National Committeeman at Seattle Home.

Seattle, April 10 (A.P.).—A. Scott Bullitt, Democratic national committeeman and the party's candidate for United States senator and governor at recent elections, died unexpectedly at his home here today. He was 54 years old.

Stricken early in February with a severe attack of influenza, he failed to recover satisfactorily and was operated upon for gall bladder trouble. The operation developed a cancerous condition and he was removed to his home, which he never left.

After his marriage to Miss Dorothy Stimson, of Seattle, which resulted from a visit here in 1916, Mr. Bullitt lived in Louisville and Washington, D. C. The couple returned to Oregon in 1919.

KIDNAPED CHICAGO PHYSICIAN IS FREED

Blames Mistaken Identity, but Authorities Think Ransom Was Paid.

Chicago, April 10 (A.P.).—Dr. Alford E. Budde, city physician of North Chicago, reported kidnaped Friday, returned to his home today.

The physician said he had been released by his abductors in Lake Forest, a neighboring suburb, without payment of ransom.

After taking him prisoner, Dr. Budde said, his abductors discovered he was not the man they had intended to kinap and decided to free him.

Authorities, however, said several points in the physician's story failed to check, and they were of the opinion ransom had been paid. They planned to question the victim further.

Dr. Budde said he was summoned from his home late Friday night by a man who told him over the telephone that there had been a serious auto accident. Driving to the place designated, he said, he found four men in an auto. They forced him into their car, blindfolded him and drove to Chicago, where, he said, he was held prisoner.

When Dr. Budde's disappearance was first reported officials expressed the opinion that he had been kidnaped by gangsters who sought his services for a wounded comrade. Saturday, however, a relative received a letter purporting to be from the doctor. The letter said: "For God's sake, don't follow me, or I'll be killed."

The kidnaping has aroused North Shore communities, where the physician was active in church, fraternal and professional circles. A mass meeting was held at Waukegan yesterday in which strong action was demanded of Lake County authorities.

Comdr. Alfred Gaither Is Suicide in San Diego

San Diego, April 10 (A.P.).—Lieut. Comdr. Alfred Long Gaither, 39, United States naval medical officer and a member of the staff of the Naval Hospital here, committed suicide in his apartment at a fashionable hotel today. He cut his wrists and apparently took poison.

Coroner Chester Gunn, after making an investigation, said the body had been turned over to naval authorities. Lieut Comdr. Gaither was born in Statesville, N. C., and was assigned to his post here two months ago. Naval authorities refused to give further information. The coroner said he had learned the officer had been despondent, but had not determined why.

Infant Is Found Abandoned In Architect's Parked Car

A 3-week-old baby boy swathed in expensive clothing, was found early yesterday in an automobile owned by Willard B. Gebhart, prominent landscape architect, which was parked across from his home, at 2802 Twenty-seventh street northwest.

The infant was found by Edward Cavin, 12-year-old newsboy, of 2816 Connecticut avenue, who heard the baby's cries when he was making his morning paper deliveries. He notified the Eighth Precinct police and Sergt. G. I. Hellmuth and C. R. Murphy took the child to Children's Hospital.

There were no marks of identification on the child's clothes, nor on the blanket in which it was wrapped. Detectives began a search of hospital records in an attempt to locate the parents of the waif. Nurses said the child apparently suffered no ill effects from its exposure to yesterday's dampness. The infant has been temporarily named "Carl Doe."

Mr. Gebhart told police that a friend had parked his car in front of 2807 Twenty-seventh street, about 7:30 Saturday night. The doors were unlocked, he said. Police were investigating a report last night that a young woman and a child had been seen in the automobile early yesterday.

Means of Identification Was Set Forth in First Demand.

SUBSEQUENT NOTES CONTAINED SYMBOL

New York Character Is Put Under Surveillance as Alibi Is Checked.

Trenton, N. J., April 10 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh tonight authorized a statement that means of identification set forth in the original note left in the nursery of his kidnaped son had been used to satisfy him that the persons to whom he paid $50,000 ransom were the real kidnapers. The statement said:

"At the time the baby was kidnaped a ransom note for $50,000 was left in the nursery. For obvious reasons it was necessary to withhold information concerning the ransom note. A means was offered in the ransom note of positive identification of the kidnapers thereafter. Subsequent notes received were identified by this means and at the time the ransom was paid over the kidnapers used the same means to positively identify themselves as the ones who had carried off the baby.

Reasons for Secrecy.

"This is the only means by which Col. Lindbergh can know for a fact that he is dealing with the kidnapers. It has been withheld and will be withheld by Col. Lindbergh for future identification. It must be remembered that the baby has not been returned and it has been and still is the policy of the police authorities that the primary motive is to accomplish the safe return of the baby and all efforts are and will be bent in this direction."

It was believed that the "means of identification" referred to in the statement was a cryptic symbol used by the kidnapers as a signature in the original ransom note left in the nursery. Neither the note nor the signature ever has been made public.

Man Under Surveillance.

Hopewell, N. J., April 10 (A.P.).—Parents and police, puzzled alike by the stunning failure of a $50,000 ransom payment, ran through a varied assortment of new suggestions today in the hope that one might lead to the kidnaped Lindbergh baby.

Police activity centered in the apprehension in New York of a man described only as a "noted character." An alibi and explanation he offered were being subjected to the closest scrutiny and the man, himself, was being kept under police surveillance.

Few automobiles arrived at or left the rain-swept stone house of the Lindberghs, but within it was known that the colonel and his advisers were canvassing the entire 40-day-old mystery.

John Hughes Curtis, member of the Norfolk, Va., trio seeking to obtain the baby's return, left his home by plane to come here and learn from Col. Lindbergh what effect the ransom failure would have on negotiations they have been conducting with persons whom they believe to be the kidnapers.

Theory of Amateur Gang.

From the language of his formal statement and information from other sources it was clear that Col. Lindbergh, himself, was convinced the persons who took his $50,000 and failed to surrender the child were the real kidnapers.

In Washington a high administration official said that Federal detectives were convinced the kindapers were amateurs and that their view was supported by events surrounding the unsuccessful ransom negotiations.

An unconfirmed report, circulated here during the day, said Col. Lind-

TWO PARTIES START MAPPING TAX PLANS

(Associated Press).

In a determined move to push the billion dollar tax program through the Senate quickly, leaders of both parties yesterday began drafting comprehensive plans pending conclusion of the committee hearings.

The hearings will be resumed today and it was definitely agreed to limit these to two weeks. Anxious, however, that the budget balancing legislation be enacted before the start of the new fiscal year on July 1, the party workers were already working on tax schedules.

The Senate contest will focus on the oil and coal tariff duties put into the bill by the House and the efforts of a considerable group to add import taxes on copper, lumber, wood pulp and manganese.

As for internal taxes, the most likely controversy centers on the surtax rates applying to incomes over $100,000 and on the stock and bond sales levy.

The manufacturers' sales tax, which the House rejected after a veritable storm of debate, appears doomed. Senate Democrats are ignoring this levy in their deliberations over the revenue legislation. Only a handful of Republicans even consider it now.

Democrats have offered to help the Republican majority revamp the House bill on nonpartisan lines, and this aid will be accepted. The Democrats will meet again this week to obtain views of individual members.

A test of strength on the tariff controversy is in sight early in the week. Senator Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, will call for a vote on his resolution to have the Senate direct the finance committee to eliminate and exclude from the revenue bill all tariff items.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, is supporting the movement to ban import taxes. He believes sentiment is growing to incorporate these rates in separate legislation.

RED CROSS TO OPEN CONVENTION TODAY

1,000 Delegates Expected to Attend Four-Day Meeting; Trips Planned.

Discussions of the work of the Red Cross during the last year, a reception at the White House, bus trips to nearby points of interest and a dinner Tuesday will mark the annual convention of the American Red Cross, which starts today and lasts through Thursday.

About 1,000 persons, representatives of various branches of the altruistic organization, are expected to attend the sessions of the convention. Headquarters will be established in the Red Cross Building, on Seventeenth street. The Junior Red Cross delegates will hold their convention at the same time.

General sessions will be held each morning of the gathering, while special discussions are planned for the afternoon. Tuesday a round-table talk on unemployment is scheduled. It will be led by Clement M. Biddle, chairman of the Westchester County, (N.Y.) Chapter. The White House reception will start Wednesday at 5 o'clock. All other activities have been arranged so as not to interfere with attendance at this function.

Spat Stocks Would Dive If Embassies Lost Out

By JOHN J. DALY

TO meet an economy demand it is now proposed to close temporarily some dozen American embassies, a like number of legations, and as many American consulates. This is offered as an alternative to a 10 per cent reduction in the operating costs of the State Department.

Off-hand, the American people will say, "Take the reduction and keep the embassies and legations going full blast, for old times' sake."

Think what the closing of embassies and legations would mean, not only in the social whirl, but in the realm of economics. It might even bring about strained international relations.

The closing of embassies naturally means the retirement of a certain number of diplomats. First to feel any reduction in the ranks of diplomats would be the cane manufacturers—not the sugar cane people, but those who make walking sticks.

THEN, the spats men—manufacturers of sport spats, dress spats, garden spats, tea spats, streamline spats, morning, afternoon and evening spats, night club and cabaret spats and spats for cross country flying. Stocks for spats companies would not be worth 2 cents on the open market if the embassies went out of business.

Abolition of the afternoon tea hour in embassies would affect three important markets in far separated corners—the tea trade in China, the lemon growers of Florida and California and the sugar plantations of the Philippines and Cuba. That, too, is only another phase of the threatened catastrophe.

There is the book market to be considered, and the writers of tomes on etiquette: What is the proper seating arrangement at a formal dinner, especially when a duchess is present? Or, if not a duchess, a baronet? And who goes before whom in the procession that leads from the drawing room into the salon? And what is the difference between a drawing room, a sitting room, a salon and an old fashioned parlor? Silent on their shelves, these books that once told everything will then tell nothing—if the embassies are to be closed.

* * * *

IT WAS not a happy thought that the Secretary of State advanced when he said in his formal note to the Senate committee on appropriations, that although politically it is important to maintain our prestige in some countries by having ministers, from the practical point of view it is not vital. The American consular officials, in some countries, have good diplomatic training and are really America's diplomatic representatives. A consul general with adequate diplomatic experience could easily do the work of a minister.

By the same process, a minister could do the work of an ambassador, along with his own, which reduces the status of diplomacy to the level of the old-time minstrel troupe "doubling in brass." By that system, a minstrel man who played the trap drums, in the street parade blew a cornet or sang a song at the night performance in the op'ry house. Is that the way to run a state department?

These are serious questions in serious times. All sorts of dire possibilities lie ahead.

EXPERTS ON FINANCE WILL COMBAT BONUS

Soldiers' Onslaught for Cash to Be Opposed Today at House Hearing.

(Associated Press.)

A counter-attack by Government money experts was planned last night to meet today's first official onslaught of advocates for cash payment of the soldiers' bonus.

As proponents of the $2,200,000,000 payment in new money issues marshaled their strength for the opening hearing before the House ways and means committee, Acting Chairman Crisp announced he will call for replies from Secretary Mills of the Treasury, Gov. Eugene Meyer of the Federal Reserve Board and Comptroller of the Currency J. W. Pole.

Next in the list of opponents that Mr. Crisp plans to bring before the committee is Henry L. Stevens, national commander of the American Legion, whose public statements already have created a controversy in that organization.

"My idea is to let those favoring the bill testify first, and then to call on Government experts," said Mr. Crisp, an announced opponent of the bill, who has just returned from a week's vacation after the strenuous tax fight.

Meanwhile, Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, predicted passage of the legislation, while Darold D. Decoe, commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, arrived to direct personally the bonus fight.

Senator Thomas, in a letter to Bernard M. Baruch, New York financier and prominent Democrat, said he believed a bonus bill will pass the House and that with 27 senators already pledged to its support, the measure could not be stopped in that branch.

Mr. Decoe said that 95 per cent of "the rank and file of the veterans" are for the bonus. He exhibited in partial evidence a communication from Port Arthur, Tex., which he said was 71 feet long and contained more than 1,600 signatures urging the bonus payment.

"I am for any bill that will pay the bonus without raising taxes," Mr. Decoe said. "I do not think the issue of new currency would hurt the national credit."

Mr. Decoe plans an early conference today with Representative Patman (Democrat), Texas, who will open testimony for the bonus. He said 180 House members have said they will support the bill while 176 are noncommittal and only 16 definitely opposed.

Senator Thomas, who favors the issuance of Federal Reserve notes to pay the bonus, wrote Mr. Baruch that he considers the Patman plan, an issue of Treasury notes, "most serious."

"Such a bill," he said, "if enacted, would drive the Federal Reserve money out of circulation and if this should be done the Federal Reserve System would be without means for continued existence save through appropriations secured from the Congress."

DR. RYAN ATTACKS TAXATION ON SALES

Catholic U. Professor Says Salary Reduction Also Would Hurt U. S.

A general sales tax would violate the fundamental moral principles of taxation, Dr. John A. Ryan, of Catholic University, said yesterday in a speech to the Holy Name Socie. of St. Thomas parish, during which he advocated long-time borrowing instead of heavier taxes at this time. Dr. Ryan has been professor of moral theology and industrial ethics at Catholic University since 1915.

He was speaking on "Federal Taxation in the Light of Moral Principles" at a communion breakfast at the Wardman Park Hotel. He expressed his disapproval of any reduction in salaries, contending that this would deepen the depression.

The underlying basis of equitable taxation is that each man should be taxed in proportion to his ability to pay, Dr. Ryan said. The sales tax would ignore this rule and take the same amount from a man who earns $2,000 as from one who earns $50,000. The higher paid man would have to lessen his investments, and might have to reduce his purchase of luxuries, Dr. Ryan said, but such a tax on the poorer man would reduce his purchasing power in the matter of necessities.

Dr. Ryan does not see the necessity for balancing the budget at once by heavier taxes, he said. During the war it was not balanced, long-term borrowing being resorted to. "If the Government could borrow during the war for such a long period she can do it now, and should do so rather than tax the people to have a balanced budget at once," he said. These loans could be gotten by using one-tenth of the advertising used to sell the war loans, he added.

He also supported heavier inheritance taxes on the ground that it was easier to sacrifice unearned money. He divides the people of the country into three classes: Those who have the power and the desire to buy, those who have the power but are afraid to buy, and those who want to buy but do not have the money. The majority of the country, he said, is in this third class, and wage cuts would increase the number.

more able to prevent blocs joining blocs in a united effort that might kill the entire program."

Mr. Hoover also was hopeful yesterday that in addition to the $200,000,000 legislative program, Congress would save at least $100,000,000 through reduced appropriations, and from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 through consolidations of Government agencies.

Urges Nonpartisan Work.

Although McDuffie said he did not agree to all the items in the program outlined in the White House statement Saturday night, he appealed yesterday to both Republicans and Democrats to lay aside politics and accept joint responsibility for effecting economy.

"This is no time to play politics," the Alabaman said. "Both parties should take the responsibility for effecting economies. It is time to be patriotic, not partisan. Both parties should share the dissatisfaction that will come from about the country over the curtailment of expenditures.

"The economy committee has tried to avoid politics and will continue to try to work in harmony with the Administration. Times like these demand such drastic remedies that the Government employes and the citizens must be deprived of much that they have enjoyed in the last ten years. It is difficult to readjust ourselves to normal or prewar times. We would not cripple necessary Government functions, but cutting down of expenses is absolutely essential."

Cites Storm of Protests.

McDuffie said "high-powered propagandists and organized minorities" were seeking to block efforts of the committee to make savings and were "bombarding the members with telegrams and letters of protest."

"It looks like the organized minorities and the high-powered propagandists are about to destroy representative government, and that they are changing it into government by bureaucracy," McDuffie said.

Neither administration nor congressional leaders could forecast what compromise could be reacher on the wage cut proposals. Hoover plans to insist upon a five-day week per diem employes and a "stagger system" of furloughs without pay for the others.

McDuffie said the furlough plan was "impractical and will result in discrimination" and that it would be less preferable than a reduction in salary to Government employes.

"With a reasonable reduction, the employes could readjust their budgets, be assured of regular jobs and a steady income," McDuffie said.

Hoover's Opinion.

Mr. Hoover was represented, however, as feeling that the per diem employes themselves would rather assume a greater burden of work, with shorter hours, and that the regular workers would prefer a lay-off to cut in salaries.

The Chief Executive's stand upon the general subject of economy was outlined by one of the conferees as follows:

Out of a budget of about $4,500,000,000, only $1,800,000,000 is subject to the economy tax, with the remainder a fixed charge due to war obligations.

If $200,000,000 could be saved as suggested by the administration program of amending existing laws; $100,000,000 through reducing appropriations and a possible $100,000,000 more through consolidation of Government departments, this, with the original budget reductions of $300,000,000, would make a huge total of nearly $700,000,000 out of the $1,800,000,000 available.

The Chief Executive feels that such a huge cut would not only insure a balanced budget when coupled with increased taxes, but would set a helpful example of States and municipalities in reducing their expenditures.

McDuffie said President Hoover's program submitted to the conference Saturday "showed striking similarity to the program we submitted to him."

Says Plan Was Changed.

"Of course, there were some differences in a few items, and there was a difference of approach in bringing about the proposed retrenchments," he continued. "Under the plan tentatively agreed upon, the committee agreed to take under consideration such additional items he proposed, including the suspension of operation of shipping lines in 1933 by the Shipping Board and the discontinuance of allowances for rural mail carriers.

"We had considered a cut in salaries for the rural carriers, and putting the Shipping Board under the Commerce Department.

"Mr. Hoover, at the morning session proposed a salary reduction to be placed into effect through the Personnel Classification Board. He proposed salaries in excess of $1,800 a year be reduced to the prevailing wage scale of industries in the various communities throughout the country, no salary to be reduced below $1,800. But, at the afternoon session, he withdrew that proposal and advocated the staggering system and the five-day week plan."

Testimony Begins Today in Honolulu

Darrow Ready to Continue Trial of 4 Defendants in Slaying.

Honolulu, April 10 (A.P.).—A jury composed of six nationalities tomorrow will begin hearing evidence in the trial of Mrs. Granville Fortescue, Eastern society matron, and three naval men charged with the lynching of Joseph Kahahawai, young Hawaiian.

Clarence Darrow, leader of the defense, refreshed by a swim at Waikiki Beach, has indicated he is ready for the prosecution to open.

There was no further hint today of the possible use by the defense of two alienists who arrived here Thursday from the mainland. They are Dr. Edward Huntington Williams and Dr. James Orbison, both of Los Angeles. John C. Kelley, public prosecutor, indicated he was ready for alienists if the defense sought to prove Mrs. Fortescue and her companions were insane or temporarily unbalanced when they shot Kahahawai.

Girl, 21, Student Pilot, Hurt as Planes Crash

San Francisco, April 10 (A.P.).—Miss Afton R. Lewis, 21 years old, student pilot, was probably fatally injured here today when the plane in which she was making a solo flight over Mills Field collided with another ship at an altitude of 200 feet.

Paul Sanmartino, transport pilot, was flying the other ship, which also contained two passengers. Sanmartino landed safely although the right wing of his ship was crushed.

HITLER IS DEFEATED BY VON HINDENBURG

reached the limit of what they could obtain from the middle class and that further gains, if any, must be obtained from the Communists, who apparently already had gone over in part to Hitler. President von Hindenburg's gain of 717,000 votes over his total of March 13 could only have come from the Duesterberg camp, the spokesman said.

Hitler's gain of roughly 2,000,000 votes over his former total came chiefly from the districts where Duesterberg's "steel helmet" organization of war veterans is strongly organized, such as in Potsdam and Thuringia. In the opinion of the government this did not represent a permanent gain for Fascism, but most of the voters in elections to the Diets would vote for Alfred Huegenberg's German Nationalist slate.

Prussian Election April 24.

With the presidential election out of the way, political interests centered upon the Diet elections in Prussia and other states on April 24, which it is felt will give a true measure of political strength to the Fascist movement. On that date elections will be held to the Diets, or state assemblies, of Prussia, Bavaria, Wurttemberg, Hamburg and Anhalt.

So far as President von Hindenburg is concerned, official circles tonight thought it unlikely that he would take the oath of office for a second time, as the German constitution does not require it. The cabinet also does not intend to go through with the formality of presenting its resignation.

Hitler Turns Eyes To Prussian Vote

Election to Be Held April 24; Pleased With Increase in German Run-Off.

Munich, Germany, Monday, April 11 (A.P.).—Adolf Hitler, Fascist leader of the National Socialists and defeated candidate for President of Germany, issued a call today for his adherents to gird for the Prussian Diet elections on April 24 in an effort to march a step further toward the goal he calls "German liberation."

He expressed pleasure with the number of votes given him in yesterday's run-off presidential election. Before retiring early this morning, he sent to leaders and party workers the following message:

"Victory obliges me to thank all who worked to create the basis of the victory. The confidence of 13,500,000 Germans is the highest reward of our work, but it carries a heavy obligation to continue. The National Socialists know not what rest is and must not tarry until the goal of German liberation has been reached. Our work begins tomorrow."

Spain Hails Birthday of Republic.

Madrid, April 10 (A.P.).—The capital was bedecked in flags today as it began a week's celebration commemorating the first anniversary of the republic on April 14. A score of bands paraded the streets, and all the military garrisons fired military salutes of honor. The press heralded the anniversary with appropriate interviews with prominent government officials.

KENTUCKY VIGILANTES WHIP PARTY OF COLLEGE STUDENTS

tinued. Ten miles inside Harlan County the procession was stopped, the four newspaper men were ordered to wait and "don't follow inside a half-hour."

They obeyed orders, and when the time elapsed, took a short cut to the Virginia border, where they intercepted the students. They found them disheveled and very wrathful. Lucien Koch, director of the college and their leader, told the story, assisted by interjections from the others.

"Just before we reached the Virginia line," he said, "the 'Vigilantes' stopped the procession and one by one we were taken into the woods. Our wrists were bound with a piece of chain, the men cut heavy boughs from trees, forced us to take off our coats and beat us heavily.

"They struck me several times on the face, possibly because I was the leader, and Harold Coy (one of the students), received a hard blow on the jaw."

Coy, 20-year-old instructor, was the most severely hurt. His back from the shoulders to the knees was a mass of welts and his jaw was swollen. The others exhibited minor bruises.

"Once they threatened to lynch us and to shoot us," Koch continued. "One shot was fired behind us but apparently not at us."

The three other members of the party are Sam Sandburg, 30, Isaac Greenberg, 22, and Leo Grulilow, 19.

The five were taken into custody by Deputy Sheriff Orb Purcell, of Wise County, Va., who asked them if the beatings were administered on the Virginia side.

Koch said they occurred on the Kentucky side, within view of the State line marker at the top of the mountain.

Legal Aid Assured.

The students left here for Cave City, Va., where they had lunch and announced they would go to Knoxville, Tenn., and get in touch with the American Civil Liberties Union, which, Koch said, has assured them legal aid.

"We will exhaust every legal method before abandoning our attempts to go into Bell and Harlan Counties unmolested," Koch said. Other plans, he said, had not been made.

Harlan, Ky., April 10 (A.P.).—Circuit Judge D. C. Jones said tonight he will instruct the grand jury to investigate beatings of Arkansas students in Harlan County today, if official reports indicate the charges are true. He said he had not been advised of the reported beatings.

Pineville, Ky., April 10 (A.P.).—Charges that he was kidnaped on a street here, taken into the country, severely beaten and warned not to return to Pineville under pain of death were made here tonight by James Price, 37, of Philadelphia, representative of the general defense committee of Chicago.

Price, who has been in Kentucky since last summer defending coal miners charged with murders in connection with disorders in the southeastern Kentucky mine area, said he was walking along a downtown street, "100 feet from the police station," when an acquaintance approached and asked him where he was going.

"I said I was going to my rooms," Price told the Associated Press.

Forced to Enter Car.

He said the man, whom he named as Hayes Page, then asked him to enter an automobile parked nearby.

"What for?" Price said he inquired.

"Just for a little ride," he quoted Page as replying.

Price said that when he refused the offer and Page insisted that he enter the car, three other men in the automobile helped force him into the vehicle and struck him with their fists. He named two of the other men as Ed Asher and Henry Jackson. He said he did not know the fourth man.

"They struck me in the nose and bumped my head against the automobile," Price said.

Leaving Pineville, Price related, the men drove him to Log Mountain, about two miles away, where several other cars joined them. They then started toward Harlan, he said, but stopped en route and he was transferred to one of the other automobiles.

Abused in Woods.

After driving on the road toward Harlan for some time, Price claimed, the men stopped and dragged him into the woods. He said they beat his legs with switches, struck him with their fists and told him they would shoot him if he returned to Pineville.

Price said the men accused him of being connected with Communists and "Reds" and would not listen to his explanation of his connections. He said there were about eight men in the crowd that beat him and several of them were armed with pistols. Several of them, he claimed, had been drinking.

Leaving him in the woods, Price said, the men departed. Price said he returned to Pineville in the automobile of a friend who passed by.

Pending a conference with his attorney, Price said he had not decided on what course to pursue in connection with the attack.

SENATE SHORT SALES QUIZ WILL START THIS MORNING

sections of the speculative community have been guided in their operations by motives not directly connected with the profit-or-loss rule which sustains and justifies the whole theory of speculation.

For several months official Washington has heard ugly rumors to the effect that depressing forces in no wise related to the normal free play of economic judgments, have been at work on a wide sector in Wall street. Without a pronounced judgment, the banking committee wants to ask about these matters, and, if the stories prove true, to determine the source of the huge bear pools and to catalog the motives, political or otherwise, which have called them into service against business recovery.

President Hoover first urged such an investigation about six months ago and the Senate authorized it, with a $50,000 operating budget, early in March. Until the second Glass bill was out of the way, however, the banking and currency committee declined to proceed with the inquiry. But the repeated new lows registered in both stocks and bonds last week, following the disastrous break in prices which followed the tax debacle in the House, fanned the smoldering embers of official discontent in Washington to a new flame and the committee, under the leadership of Acting Chairman Brookhart, of Iowa, decided suddenly Friday afternoon to make a beginning.

Although informed opinion in Wall street now holds that the long delay in the banking committee has enabled the real culprits to cover their short commitments and get out of the market, leaders in the investigation still are hopeful that they may expose the system employed in the distressing bear raids, particularly those of 1931, and thereby safeguard the country against similar abuses of the exchange machinery in the future. In this program, the committee has the good will and earnest cooperation of practically all of the responsible leaders in the financial world.

Hoover Urges Full Inquiry.

Senator Frederic C. Walcott (Republican), of Connecticut, who has taken the lead in pressing for the stock market inquiry, conferred with President Hoover for several hours at the White House yesterday afternoon. Neither White House officials nor Senator Walcott would discuss the conference. It was learned, however, that the President again urged a vigorous and exhaustive inquiry into the whole system of short-selling. He regards the recently exhibited weaknesses of the stock market machinery as a vital defect in the national economy, which should be corrected while the costly experience of the last eighteen months still is in mind.

The inability of the Stock Exchange to place its own house in order by means of new trading rules is regarded as having forced the Senate inquiry.

Legitimate Trading Suffers.

The extent to which the hit-and-run bear raids have demoralized legitimate trading on both the big board and the curb exchange is indicated by the fact that many prime stocks, which sold in 1928 and 1929 for 20 to 23 times their annual earnings, now are priced as low as 6 to 8 times the annual net—and still are being pounded down. The reason, say those officials who have followed price trends studiously for more than six months, is that the great volume of speculative and investment buying which ordinarily would come into the stock market when prices are so ridiculously low has been driven to cover by the everpresent threat of organized bears operations.

Millions throughout the country would be happy to buy some of Wall street's blue-chip leaders at prevailing prices—even at the prices of six months ago—this theory runs. But repeated bear assaults upon even the most alluring investment bargains have hung like a sword of Damocles over the entire country. This state of affairs has tended for months to scare every potential buyer away from the market.

Needless Distress Caused.

The evils and needless distress flowing from this unnatural depression of stock values have been aggravated by the fact that stock market sentiment traditionally exerts an often dominant influence upon all the minor markets of the country, and this has tended to project Wall street's distorted sentiment into every avenue of commerce and finance. The result has been a continued pressure of gloom and misgiving in every phase of trade at a time when the real indices of basic economic conditions present the most promising picture in months.

There is no quarrel on Capitol Hill that stock market judgments often reflect the national psychology rather than the real underlying facts about the economic position of the country. Let the tail wag the dog if that's what the country wants, this view runs. But let it wag it in a free and open market, in which everybody can have a look at the pea under the shell before he puts down his hard-earned margin.

Every effort will be made by the better minds in the banking committee to avoid turning the hearings into a hysterical orgy of bombastic senatorial investigation.

But Wall street apparently is to stand before the bar of public opinion and give an account of itself. It has been playing parchisi with the national economy for wellnigh two years, and Mother America appears now to be in a mood to send a note through the swinging doors to suggest that the spree be declared ended.

Credit Extension Voted For 3 Danube Countries

Basel, Switzerland, April 10 (A.P.).—Governors of the central banks represented in the Bank for International Settlements decided today to prolong existing credits granted to Austria, Hungary and Jugoslavia. Their decision was subject to approval by the board of directors of the World Bank, which will meet tomorrow.

Italian Prince to Wed American Society Girl

Rome, April 10 (A.P.).—The engagement of Miss Anne Marie Wallace, daughter of Mrs. Allen Wallace, of New York and Paris, and Prince Rudolfo Del Drago, member of an old Roman family, was announced today.

Business High Players Are Rehearsing Drama

"Green Stockings," the play which has been the stand-by of Washington amateur players for years, will have another showing here on April 19 and 21, when it will be given by a group of Business High School players. The Hilarodes Dramatic Club of the school, under the direction of Miss Esther Galbraith, is preparing the performance. The name of the play is derived from the English custom of unmarried girls wearing green stockings to the weddings of their younger sisters.

Those who have parts in the show are Margaret Mackin, Yerby Pannill, Stuart Donnan, Thomas Callahan, Evelyn Smith, Elizabeth Jett, Ruth Eisinger, Lillian Thomas, Mildred Stimmel, Frances Werner, Arthur Harrison and Fred Kitchener.

Liquor Tax Memo Is Sent to Smoot

Crusaders Estimate That Hundreds of Millions Could Be Raised.

(Associated Press.)

Rufus Lusk, executive vice commander of the Crusaders, prohibition repeal advocates, yesterday sent Chairman Smoot of the Senate finance committee a computation figured to show how a tax on liquor "would raise a sizable sum even in these days of alleged sobriety of our Nation."

From records of the Wickersham Commission, Lusk said he took figures showing "the official Government estimate of the amount of illicit liquor produced" during the year ended June, 1930. Multiplying them by taxes now collected on medicinal liquor and figuring "the old tax rate on beer," along with a dollar-gallon tax on wine, Lusk estimated spirits taxes for 1930 would have yielded $469,674,995; wine, $118,476,200, and beer, $132,479,382; total, $720,630,577.

"Your committee is now holding hearings on the House tax bill," Lusk wrote Senator Smoot. "* * * We hope our tax muddle will produce enough courage and leadership to throw overboard this disastrous and bankrupting prohibition."

Woman's League To Ask Dry Plank

Democratic Leaders Will Meet Here Saturday to Plan for 1932.

(Associated Press.)

A conference of the officers and executive committee of the National Woman's Democratic Law Enforcement League will be held here Saturday to request Democratic party leaders to name as their candidate a constitutional Democrat with a dry platform.

In announcing the executive meeting, the organization said its members made a similar request in 1928 and when it was ignored they refused to support the Democratic nominee. In their forthcomnig meeting they will formulate plans for carrying out their wishes in 1932.

After adjournment of the conference, the members will participate in the prohibition fair sponsored by the National Women's Committee for Law Enforcement.

additional thousands to the city on excursions. Most of them returned to their homes last night without seeing in all their perfection the cherry trees which are Japan's most beautiful gift to the United States.

Today Japan's representative here will explain the meaning of the cherry blossoms in his native land, and the service will be broadcast over the Ntional Broadcasting Co. chain. The ceremony will be staged under the pink-tinged boughs at 4 o'clock. In addition to the talk by Ambassador Debuchi, the Marine Band will play and Sol Bloom, director of the Bicentennial celebration, will speak.

Park police yesterday inaugurated the traffic regulations which will be in force on all holidays until the annual pageant of spring is over. Entrance to the park is allowed only over the Fourteenth street bridge, traffic from both Seventeenth and Fourteenth streets being sent into the park over this route.

South of the bridge the stream of traffic turns to the west and goes around the Tidal Basin, leaving the park section in the vicinity of the Lincoln Memorial. Suitable arrangements have been made to take care of the cars which want to go around Hains point. There was no tie-up of traffic yesterday, due to the large extra force of policemen who kept the cars in the way they should go. Movement of the vast motorcade was reported to be slow, but there were no stoppages.

AUTHOR WHO TOOK POISON SUCCUMBS

Mrs. Bjorkman, Daughter of Capital Resident, Dies in France.

Nice, France, April 10 (A.P.).—Mrs. Ella Mae Bjorkman, 32, of Asheville, N. C., died today in a hospital here from loss of blood and from poison swallowed Friday night.

The actress and author was found by a chambermaid in her hotel room with her left wrist slashed, and police said they had established she had drunk two bottles of a toilet preparation containing poison.

A note found in her room said: "If today there is nothing else left, I will exist no more," and authorities theorized that the woman had lost money over the gaming tables.

Mrs. Bjorkman arrived from Genoa, Italy, last month, and as far as could be ascertained, was without relatives in Europe. The American Consulate was in communication with her family.

Mrs. Bjorkman was the wife of Edwin Bjorkman, Swedish author, translator and editor, who resides in Asheville. She formerly was Miss Ella Mae Pratt, of Asheville, and until her marriage in 1930 was advertising manager for several large department stores there.

Bjorkman, who is engaged in translating Swedish works into English, said he knew of no reason for his wife's act unless she was out of funds "and ashamed to ask for them." He said his wife had gone to France on March 16 to do some literary work, and expected to return to the United States next month.

Mrs. Bjorkman was the daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Pease, of 121 Third street, northeast, and had sailed to France, according to her mother, as a secretary to a writer on women's fashions. On arrival she planned to write on her own account.

Washington's Richmond Visit Is to Be Reenacted

Richmond, Va., April 10 (A.P.).—The visit of George Washington to the Richmond City Council in 1791, will be reenacted in the council chambers Tuesday afternoon. Councilman W. C. Carpenter will appear as George Washington, and Mayor J. Fulmer Bright, representing Richmond's mayor of that time, will greet the distinguished visitor.

SENATOR CORDELL HULL.

SENATOR CORDELL HULL, of Carthage, Tenn., is as serene and courteous a statesman as one could meet. Nevertheless, he is responsible for a vast amount of profanity every year. It was Hull, you see, who wrote the income tax law.

That was in 1913. Hull was in the House then, and already was recognized as one of Democracy's outstanding economists. Woodrow Wilson had great respect for his judgment, and frequently called him in for conferences. Especially was this so once the United States got into the World War.

Hull, a member of the ways and means committee, had much to do with the legislation dealing with Liberty bonds, and he was one of the first to advocate a surtax on these bonds. Thus he prevented them from flowing into the hands of the wealthy after the war.

Like so many of the Democratic leaders in Congress, Hull began his political career early. He was only 22 when he was elected to the Tennessee Legislature. That was in 1893. When this country went to war with Spain, Hull went to Cuba as a captain in the Tennessee Volunteer Infantry.

Afterward he practiced law for a while, served as a district judge for a while and then, in 1907, was elected to the Sixtieth Congress. He was elected to every succeeding Congress until 1920, when he went down to defeat in the Harding landslide.

However, even then he was not to get a respite from politics. He was made chairman of the Democratic national committee, and it was he who was in charge at the Madison Square Garden convention in 1924. It was that experience that now makes him shudder when he contemplates a Roosevelt-Smith battle at Chicago.

In 1924, Hull was sent back to the House by his penitent constituents. In 1930, he was elected to the Senate. Thus his term does not expire for four more years.

Device Enables Blind Deaf Mutes to "Feel" Sounds

Evenston, Ill., April 10 (A.P.).—If you were struck deaf, mute and blind tomorrow, you could learn to feel music or speech within six months.

This possible replacement of man's sensory organs has been brought about by the development of a strange little machine called the teletactor, upon which Dr. Robert H. Gault, professor of psychology at Northwestern University, has been experimenting for eight years.

Dr. Gault measures his results in a somewhat unusual manner. Although many of his instruments are in use at the Illinois School for the Deaf at Jacksonville, Ill., no "genuine" opportunity to test the apparatus appeared until he discovered Miss Helen May Martin, 38, who has been a blind deaf mute since she was 4.

Miss Martin, who—oddly enough—has been using her big toe as an ear, taught herself to play a few pieces on the piano by pressing that big toe against the middle pedal of the instrument. Her music was halting and a trifle weird. Nevertheless, she eventually pieced together "A Perfect Day."

The teletactor consists of a small vibrating disk, upon which the deaf person places his finger. It is connected with a microphone through a battery and amplifier. With this outfit sounds of spoken language can be felt. Inasmuch as no two sounds feel alike, a deaf person's understanding developes as he differentiates between the intensity of the vibrations.

By patient application, Dr. Gault is teaching Miss Martin the differences in sound. The woman has learned only 30 basic words, but her progress in music has been better.

Miss Martin is but one of three or four of subjects with whom Dr. Gault has been working. Another is Tad Chapman, 16-year-old Redfield (S. Dak.) youth.

"The teletactor," he said, "is still in its crude stages. It's too burdensome to carry around now, but someday we'll develop a smaller and more compact outfit.

"Since there are 3,000,000 children in the schools of America who have defective hearing, 100,000 deaf mutes and 900 blind deaf mutes in the Nation, there seems to be a real need for something like the instrument upon which we are working," he said.

Capital Youth Wins Scholarship.

Edward Shippen, of 3007 Q street northwest, has been awarded a four-year scholarship at the University of Pennsylvania, it has been announced by George F. Snyder, in charge of awarding the scholarship. Young Shippen, who is 18 years old, is senior prefect and president of the student council at St. Alban's School.

BARRING OF KOO IRKS LEAGUE INQUISITORS

Commission Will Not Visit Manchoukuo if Chinese Can Not Go Also.

Peiping, China, April 10 (A.P.).—The Earl of Lytton tonight announced that the League of Nations commission on Sino-Japanese affairs would not visit Manchuria unless the Chinese assessor of the commission, Wellington Koo, was permitted to go along.

The chairman of the commission made his statement in reply to inquiries of Japanese reporters about repeated rumors that authorities of the newly formed state of Manchoukuo planned to bar Koo on the grounds that China had not recognized it.

"Wellington Koo will accompany the commission into Manchuria," the earl said, "or the commission will not go at all."

The earl explained that Koo had exactly the same status on the commission as the Japanese assessor, Shigeru Yoshida, but the chairman stressed the fact that the commission had heard nothing officially to indicate the Manchoukuo intended to object to Koo's accompanying the league investigators to Mukden, Harbin and the other cities to be visited.

Follows Reception.

The earl's statement was made after a colorful reception given to the commission as a formal gesture of welcome to Peiping.

The city's Wai Chiao-Pu, the foreign office, came back to life for a few brief hours today with a splash of splendor remindful of the days when this ancient city was the nation's capital.

Shanghai, April 10 (A.P.).—On the heels of the Earl of Lytton's statement in Peiping tonight, the Kuo Min (Chinese) News Agency today said the Chinese government at Nanking had been advised that Koo would be barred by the State of Manchoukuo.

Refuse to Receive Message.

Kuo Min said the message was received from the foreign minister of the "puppet government of Manchoukuo," and addressed to Lo Wenkan, foreign minister of the National government.

The news agency added Lo had refused to receive the message and it had learned that Koo would proceed to Manchuria with the commisssion.

Harbin, Manchuria, April 10 (A.P.).—A Rengo (Japanese) News Agency dispatch today reported that Gen. Ting Chao, commander of the Chinese irregulars who have been fighting Japanese and Manchoukuo troops in eastern Kirin Province, had been assassinated at Alan, Manchuria, last Wednesday, by his own henchmen.

Ting Chao's aids were reported dissatisfied with the general's attitude toward Japan.

4,000 Reds Reported Killed.

Shanghai, April 10 (A.P.).—Reports from Hankow today from Chinese sources said the Nationalist forces in oppposing the Communist armies of Ho Lung, west of Hankow, had scored a big victory and killed 4,000 Red troops.

Ho Lung, avowed Communist, with 60,000 troops reported to be under his command, formerly was a confidant of China's principal generalissimo, Chiang Kai-Shek.

Canton, China, April 10 (A.P.).—The Daily News, a local vernacular newspaper, today ceased publication after a protest from the local Japanese consul to the mayor had charged the paper had published an article derogatory to the Japanese emperor.

Filipinos Protest Shift In Expenses of Scouts

Manila, P. I., April 10 (A.P.).—Filipino leaders said today that a proposal by the United States Government to shift the burden of the upkeep of the Philippine Scouts to the insular government as an economy move, would mean a crushing impost just when the Philippines are facing a deficit.

Drastic salary cuts already have been ordered by the Philippines government as a means of meeting the threatened deficit. Gov. Roosevelt, who Friday signed an order reducing the salaries of 2,500 government employes and providing other economies, was concerned but declined to comment officially.

REFORM LEADER

MRS. C. BAKER CLOTWORTHY, Baltimore business woman, who will be prominent in the convention of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform. She is chairman of the Maryland branch of the group.

NATIONAL WOMEN'S GROUP MEETS TODAY

60 Branches of New England Society to Elect Officers on Wednesday.

Representatives of 60 branches of the National Society of New England Women will meet at the Washington Hotel today for their nineteenth annual congress. The convention will be featured by an election of officers on Wednesday and a trip to historic homes near Fredericksburg on Friday.

The Washington Colony of the society is acting as host to the convention, which will last until Thursday night. Mrs. Fred A. Fernald, of 803 Taylor street northwest, is president of the local chapter. The meeting will include trips to Arlington, Mount Vernon and Annapolis during the convention, as well as that to Fredericksburg after it has closed.

Mrs. Natalie R. Fernald is the only local woman on the slate of national officers to be chosen at the annual election. She is a candidate for the post of registrar general, being opposed by Mrs. Eugene L. Webber, of Boston, Mass. After the election the delegates will go to George Washington University to dedicate the bronze marker on the elm tree which was planted last year in honor of George Washington by the society.

Representative Hamilton Fish, of New York, will be the principal speaker at the banquet to be held in the rose room Tuesday evening. Representatives of other patriotic organizations will also be present.

11 Sailors Rescued From Lost Vessel

18 Others Aboard French Steamer Rouzic Not Yet Reported.

Paris, April 10 (A.P.).—The defense ministry today announced that 11 of the 29 men aboard the French steamer Rouzic, wrecked in the North Atlantic last week, had been picked up by British and French ships.

The destroyer Lion was ordered from Brest to the area of the wreck, the exact position of which was unknown at the moment.

(Associated Press.)

The British steamer Deerpool Saturday informed Lloyd's by radio, that the Rouzic, bound from St. Malo to St. Pierre, had foundered in a storm last Thursday in the Bay of Biscay.

The Deerpool said it had picked up four castaways after they had been afloat in a small boat for two days, and was heading with them for Cardiff.

ECUADOREAN REBELS RETREAT IN 2 SHIPS

Navy Abandons Fort and Goes to Island Commanding Harbor Entrance.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, April 10 (A.P.).—Rebels in Ecuador's naval mutiny abandoned their latest stronghold in the Gulf of Guayaquil tonight and sailed on to a new haven in the country's only two gunboats, leaving the government forces powerless to pursue them.

Fresh troops arrived from the interior today to combat the rebellion, which the authorities optimistically had thought was over with the capture of the fort at Punta Piedra by loyalists yesterday.

But the revolution apparently was by no means ended. The authorities indicated it could be prolonged because the government had no ships capable of opposing the Tarqui and the Cotopaxi, virtually its entire navy, which still were in the possession of the rebels.

The insurgents, led by Ildefonso Mendoza, who said they were fighting for principles of liberty which had been denied by the Conservative (government) party, were driven out of Punta Piedra, which they had occupied for two days, by federal troops and fled in the gunboats to Puna, an island in the gulf commanding Guayaquil's port.

There they continued to control the port until they abandoned Puna today, taking on provisions and sailing toward Port Bolivar.

When they left the Tarqui was towing the Cotopaxi because the latter's engines were disabled. The government forces, with only the motor launch Colon for river transportation, said they would leave Guayaquil and reconnoiter the river as far as Puna to reestablish traffic.

The port had been closed since the mutiny broke out, although authorities said for a time that it was open. The rebels also were in control of the radio station at Puna until they left, and it had not answered since last night.

Demand to Quit Chaco Is Ignored by Bolivia

(Associated Press.)

Bolivian delegates yesterday said flatly they would not consider further Paraguay's demands that Bolivia evacuate most of the disputed Chaco area in the negotiations here.

They added that their instructions from La Paz were to discuss a pact of nonaggression and that they were without any authority to go further into the fundamental question of territory.

At the same time, press reports reaching here that Paraguay's reply to the last Bolivian memorandum would merely defend the Paraguayan counterproposal to which Bolivia objected were found to reflect the prevailing expectations here of the Paraguayan reply. The reply is ready, and the date for the next meeting of the two commissions is expected to be set within a few days.

A slight thread of hope for continuation of the negotiations was seen in Bolivian assurances that that delegation would remain to discuss Paraguay's answer if there appeared anything in it compatible with their instructions. It was added, however, that the delegation had no authority to consider the fundamental question of arbitration, which many observers believe the only means of producing lasting peace in the Chaco.

Nursery Guild to Meet With Mrs. Darby Today

The Nursery Guild, a committee of the women's board of the Garfield Memorial Hospital, will meet at the residence of Mrs. John J. Darby, jr., at 1605 Buchanan street northwest, at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, according to an announcement by Mrs. Cabot Stevens, president of the board.

Assisting Mrs. Darby as hostess will be Mrs. Louis J. Battle, Mrs. Jefferson Myers and Mrs. Wallace Whitcover.

"JAFSIE" DEPLORES RUMORS ABOUT HIM

Instructor at Fordham, 70, Says He Felt It Duty to Aid Baby Hunt.

(Copyright, 1932, by the United Press.)

New York, April 10 (U.P.).—Dr. John F. Condon, a kindly, white-haired man of 70, told the United Press today in an exclusive interview that he had entered the negotiations to attempt the restoration of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's kidnaped baby "as a good American citizen."

Dr. Condon admitted that, signing the name "Jafsie," he had inserted a series of advertisements in New York newspapers which led to contact with the supposed kidnapers and the payment by Col. Lindbergh of $50,000 ransom.

The doctor, a lecturer on pedagogy at the Graduate College of Fordham University, was interviewed at his modest home in the Bronx, just before the gathering of a Sunday school class that meets with him each week.

Resents Speculation.

Dr. Condon denied that he had entered the case at the request of Col. Lindbergh, and was inclined to resent much of the newspaper speculation regarding his interest in it, particularly regarding any suggestion that he was himself fooled by racketeers.

"I believe it is the duty of every patriotic citizen to do everything possible to restore the Lindbergh baby to his parents," he said simply. Two large American flags, in standards of his front porch gave testimony of his patriotism.

Dr. Condon also denied a previous report that his name was brought into the case because he had assisted in teaching various branches of sports to the prisoners at Sing Sing.

"That is a complete fabrication," he said. "I can give you none of the details about my first connection with the case, or any of the later specific details regarding what we have done without jeopardizing the negotiations further."

Frank Admission.

Dr. Condon is a man of high intelligence, as shown by his ownership of a Phi Beta Kappa key, practically his only adornment in the way of jewelry.

He admitted frankly, at the outset of the interview, that he was the man who, signing the name "Jafsie" to a series of 13 personal advertisements inserted in New York papers since the kidnaping, finally succeeded in putting Col. Lindbergh in touch with persons to whom he paid $50,000 in bank notes.

He refused to discuss a report that he had himself offered the kidnapers $1,000 as a definite proof of his own reliability, nor would he say anything of the original dealings through which Col. Lindbergh became convinced he was in touch with the actual kidnapers of his son.

"I can only say to you, that there have been stories about me. I've had people come here and beg for information on a promise of complete confidence, only to find them gossiping about it later," he answered.

Many Visitors.

Neighbors of the doctor have been interested in the unusual activities at the Condon home recently. It has been noticed that an unusual number of visitors have walked up the steps of the home, and that for many nights the lights have burned almost until daybreak. Ordinarily, it was said, the doctor goes to bed early, and generally his house is dark by 9 or 10 p. m.

Dr. Condon is a soft-spoken professor, robust for his age, and has long been devoted to the more vigorous of outdoor sports. Students in his classes at Fordham are said to regard him affectionately.

Dr. Condon admitted that the word "Jafsie" with which he signed his messages in the newspapers, was coined from his initials, "J. F. C."

Dr. Condon is married, and has one son, John F. Condon, jr., who is an attorney with offices in Wall street.

Theater to Show Growing Gardens

Exhibit at Fox to Aid Jobless and George Washington Bicentennial.

A one-week exhibit of growing model gardens and floral decorations in the lobbies of the Fox Theater, April 14 through 23, is expected by the theater, the local employment committee and Bicentennial Commission to stimulate the employment of 500 unemployed gardeners.

In addition to the display of various types of garden spots, a movietone address by Dr. Luther A. Reichelderfer, president of the Board of District Commissioners, urging the planting of gardens and the employment of the qualified gardeners, is expected to increase interest in the Bicentennial Commission's garden tribute to George Washington and the relief efforts of the employment committee.

Col. E. G. Bliss, chairman of the committee, believes the exhibit will be productive of valuable unemployment relief, with small expense to individual employers. "The effort of the Fox Theater to stimulate interest in finer gardens and more beautiful home surroundings is particularly timely. In this, the Bicentennial year, every Washingtonian desires our many visitors to carry away with them a lasting impression of the beauties of this city," Col. Bliss states.

Inquest Ordered On Suicide in Cell

Police Seek in Vain for Relatives of Man Who Hanged Himself.

Coroner Joseph D. Rogers will hold an inquest at 11 o'clock this morning into the death of Neil V. Johnson, 32, of 427 Fourth street northwest, who hanged himself Saturday night in a cell at the First Precinct Station.

Police have not been able to locate any kin of Johnson and last night were inquiring at rooming houses and hotels in an effort to find some clew through which they could notify relatives of his death.

Johnson, who was charged with intoxication, wrapped his shirt around his neck, tied it to the roof of the cell and jumped off the bunk. Two men who were also in the cell said they twice prevented the act before it was successful.

TARIFF RECASTING IN BRITAIN IS SEEN

Some 30 Per Cent Increases Expected to Be Asked by Chamberlain.

London, April 10 (U.P.)—A "wholesale" recasting of the British general tariff was predicted in political circles tonight in connection with the forthcoming budget speech of Chancellor of Exchequer Neville Chamberlain.

Chamberlain will present the budget in the House of Commons April 19, when he is expected to make important announcements in regard to changes in the tariff schedules which went into effect this year.

The changes are expected to include reduction of duties on manufactured articles under the normal importations act from 50 per cent to 30 per cent.

At the same time, the general tariff on partly manufactured articles probably will be increased from 10 per cent to 20 per cent, and the duty on fully manufactured articles from 10 per cent to 30 per cent.

Chamberlain is not expected to make any change in the 10 per cent tariff on raw materials, but several minor modifications in the horticultural duties are likely. In addition, the tariff advisory committee, created March 1, has been studying the antidumping duties of 50 per cent on various classes of manufactured goods. These duties automatically expire on May 19, and the committee must recommend what duties, if any, should be applied on the articles thereafter.

In view of the present situation, the committee is expected to recommend continuance of the 50 per cent rate until it has had an opportunity for further study of conditions.

Presbytery's Auxiliary Meets Here Tomorrow

A pageant, a talk on missionaries, and other addresses will mark the meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of Potomac Presbytery tomorrow at 9 o'clock. The meeting will be held in the Central Presbyterian Church, Sixteenth and Irving streets northwest.

After a general discussion, Mrs. Margaret Russell will speak at 11 o'clock on "How to Study Hebrews." At 7:30, the pageant, "Looking Unto Jesus," will be given in the lecture room of the church, and at 8:15 the Rev S. Dwight Winn will tell of his missionary work in Korea.

2 Killed While Making Forced Plane Landing

Monongahela City, Pa., April 10 (A.P.).—Two young men were killed instantly today when their monoplane crashed on a hillside near Monongahela City. They are Sam Natalie, 26, of Gallatin, and David Hamilton, 29, of near Monongahela.

The accident occurred on the Cratz farm, as Hamilton, who was at the controls, tried to make a forced landing. The ship nose-dived from a height of 500 feet. Hamilton owned the plane and had flown it for about three years.

CARDOZO WILL GIVE FIRST RULING TODAY

32 Cases Awaiting Decision; Reapportionment Takes Prominent Place.

(Associated Press.)

Associate Justice Cardozo is expected to render his first opinion as a member of the Supreme Court when it reconvenes today to announce decisions in a number of important cases.

Thirty-two have been argued and await decision. They can be disposed of in 23 opinions. Cardozo, the newest member of the court, recently succeeded Oliver Wendell Holmes, who resigned at the age of 90.

Outstanding in public interest and in political importance among issues awaiting decision are reapportionment cases from New York, Minnesota and Missouri, which will determine whether State Legislatures in redistricting must submit their acts to the governor for his approval.

The oil industry is interested in having finally decided how far States can go in curtailing oil production, an issue presented in a case from Oklahoma brought by the Champlin Refining Co.

The 12-year-old dispute involved in the consent decree under which Swift & Co. and other packers were restricted to the meat industry may be decided today. The trial court recently modified the decree to permit the packers to handle unrelated lines over the protest of the National and the American Wholesale Grocers Associations.

Another interesting controversy, involving President Hoover and the Senate, is over the right of George Otis Smith to serve as chairman of the Federal Power Commission. The court has been called upon to say whether the Senate had authority to recall its confirmation of Smith's nomination after it had advised the President of its approval and Smith had taken the oath of office.

Gulf ports have been watching with great interest for the court's decision on the validity of orders of the Interstate Commerce Commission fixing rail rates in and out of New Orleans on commodities moving in coastwise and foreign commerce on a parity with those charged on similar commerce moving in and out of Texas gulf ports.

Another case which has attracted attention challenges the validity of an act of the Texas Legislature authorizing the Democratic executive committee in that State to determine who may vote at Democratic primaries. It is claimed this has resulted in Negroes being excluded from voting at such elections.

Tardieu Launches Drive For Return to Chamber

Belfort, France, April 10 (A.P.).—Premier Andre Tardieu of France made a series of campaign speeches for reelection to the Chamber of Deputies from this Far Eastern department over the week-end. The second district of Belfort "Republicans of the left" named the premier as their candidate some time ago. This district is only a few miles from Basel, Switzerland.

The premier continued on to Geneva today for the reopening of the disarmament conference sessions on Monday, expecting to return to Paris in the middle of the week. He expected, however, to be in Geneva when Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson arrives from the United States.

Man Who Helped Build Monitor Is Dead at 96

Copenhagen, Denmark, April 10 (A.P.).—A man who helped build the first Monitor, which soon after construction, was victorious in the historic American Civil War battle between the Merrimac and Monitor, died here today in his ninety-sixth year. He was Julius Kopp, who as a youngster emigrated to America and aided John Ericsson to build the Monitor. Kopp later was wounded in the battle of Gettysburg and returned to Denmark, where he became a merchant.

Kopp always remained an ardent American citizen, and only recently had his portrait painted by one of this country's famous portrait artists, Gudmund Ventze—and the Stars and Stripes were the background.

POST TEST REVEALS CAPITAL HAS VOICE

Home Recording Competition Brings Rush to Stations Throughout City.

The District of Columbia may not have a vote but it certainly has a voice—and not figuratively speaking, either.

Since the announcement that The Washington Post would record the voices of any man, woman or child on one of the new "home recording" discs of the RCA-Victor Company, there has been a rush at many of the stations scattered throughout the city, where the auditions are being given free of cost during regular store hours of any day, up to and including Saturday, April 23.

One enthusiastic Washingtonian entered his entire family in the contest for $700 in merchandise prizes, so that he might preserve the voices of his wife and two children for future generations. A woman "spoke" a letter to her husband, now located in the West, and a child insisted that the barking of her pet dog be recorded.

Children are especially welcomed in this contest, but of course, it is necessary that they be accompanied by a grown person when applying for records.

5,000 Records to Be Made.

Five thousand of the little "home-recording" discs are available without any red tape and with positively no cost or obligation. It is only necessary to step before a small microphone, at any of the stations listed below, and speak, sing, or play any musical instrument that you may select. Your recording will be played for you as soon as you have finished.

The record will then be submitted to a committee of judges and after they have rated it on the quality of registration—whether vocal or instrumental—it will be sent to you to keep. If the record proves of exceptional merit, however, The Washington Post reserves the right to retain it until the conclusion of the contest.

In every case the decision of the judges will be final and in the event of ties duplicate prizes will be awarded. Only one record will be given to each person and they will be divided into an amateur and a professional classification. Each person will compete in his own particular class.

Not only are the audition and the records given free, but in addition $700 in merchandise prizes will be awarded.

Plan to Enthrone Briton In Jugoslavia Is Denied

London, April 10 (A.P.).—A member of the staff of Prince Arthur of Connaugh, nephew of King George, said a report that he would be offered the crown of Jugoslavia was not true.

The Sunday Express yesterday said it understood that a delegation of Jugoslavian deputies was coming to London to make such an offer, and that the present king, Alexander, did not feel any too secure on the throne.

CONFERENCE BACKS IRISH INDEPENDENCE

Delegates From Republican Organizations Pledge Aid to De Valera Party.

Moral, political and financial support to Eamon de Valera, to his government, to Fianna Fail and the people of Ireland "in resisting any attempt by the English government, by any means whatever, to overcome the peacefully expressed will of the Irish people to abolish the oath to the king and end the annuities," was pledged here yesterday at a national conference of delegates from Irish republican organizations in the United States "and American friends of the Irish republic."

Delegates to the conference, which was held at the Hamilton Hotel, also pledged support to the national race convention planned to be held in New York.

The conference also planned a national organization "to resist British propaganda in the United States," and adopted another resolution, warning the American public "not to believe derogatory or injurious reports cabled from abroad about the new Irish administration.

A cable was sent to De Valera, telling him of the action.

The conference attended by representatives from every part of the country, was opened by John F. Finerty, temporary chairman, with a statement of the existing situation in Ireland, the decision of the Irish people to abolish the oath of allegiance and to end the payment of the annuity tribute and of the apparent purpose of the British government to resist the people's will "through military and economic force and terrorism."

Charles Edward Russell was elected permanent chairman. Speakers from different parts of the country discussed "the apparently hostile motions of the British government," and the attitude of American opinion should there be an attempt to coerce the Irish electorate.

End of Receivers Asked by Bankers

Supervising Board Urged by Illinois Financiers as Substitute.

Chicago, April 10 (A.P.).—Abolition of bank receivers and creation of a banking board for closer supervision of Illinois State banks was recommended today by the committee on legislation of the Illinois Bankers Association.

The legislative program of the association was announced by William J. Rathje, chairman of the committee and president of the Mid-City Trust & Savings Bank of Chicago. The proposal to depart from past practice is a sequal to a series of bank failures in Illinois in 1931. Many of these banks are still in the hands of receivers.

The banking board, under the committee's program, would consist of a representative each of labor, agriculture and industry and two bankers "to supervise the department and to establish safe and sound methods of banking for protection of depositors and stockholders."

Radio Plea for Amity Is Made by Jusserand

Paris, April 10 (A.P.).—Jules Jusserand, former French Ambassador to the United States, in a transatlantic broadcast today pleaded for less sarcasm and more brotherly love between France and America.

M. Jusserand was inaugurating the International Radio Forum formed by Ira Nelson Morris, of Chicago, last week, with eminent Frenchmen and Americans on its committees. The forum was organized as a nonpolitical, noncommercial organization to "stimulate intelligent public thinking on a wide range of problems in both continents."

3 Prisoners, in Second Break, Kidnap 2 Couples

Monroe, Wash., April 10 (A.P.).—Three convicts staged the second break in 24 hours from the State reformatory here last night, escaping through Seattle after kidnaping two couples and commandeering their automobile.

Led by Chester Duckwitz, of West Seattle, the men got a full night's start by leaving dummies in their bunks, the superintendent said. Their absence was first discovered when inquiries about the kidnaping by three men in prison garb were telephoned to the institution.

Volcano Erupts as Earth Trembles in Argentina

Mendoza, Argentina, April 10 (A.P.).—Several slight earth tremors, with underground noises accompanied by an eruption of the Descabezado volcano, were felt around san Rafael, in Mendoza province today.

Earthquakes and strong underground noises were reported from Villa Atuel, while at Villa Ollarge, near the volcano, hot ashes fell through a pall of smoke so thick that it darkened the village. No casualties were reported.

MRS. GEORGE STOWE, of Whitestone, N. Y., president of the New York City Colony of the National Society of New England Women, will be the chairman at the reception given by the president general of New England Women, Mrs. Gilbert Leslie Lewis, Monday evening at Hotel Washington.

DEMOCRATIC PARLEY IS SEEN AS LARGEST

Reservations Assure Biggest Crowd Wednesday; Smith and Others Coming.

The Jefferson Day rally here Wednesday will bring together the largest number of Democrats ever assembled for a celebration of its kind, according to an announcement last night by the Democratic national committee. Reservations already received, the committee said, made this a certainty.

The decision of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York not to come here has caused much disappointment and also some criticism. However, even with Roosevelt and three other celebrities missing, there still will be a quorum of the party's notables on hand.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland is coming here with 150 of his boosters. Another party of 50 is coming from Virginia. In fact, every State in the Union will be represented.

Wednesday morning at the Willard Hotel, Chairman John J. Raskob will call a meeting of the party's "minute men." The political situation in each of the States will be canvassed, and battle plans drawn up. Afterward reports will be made on the "victory fund" drive.

At 1:30 there will be a luncheon. Jouett Shouse, chairman of the national executive committee, will preside, and the orators will be Senator Joe T. Robinson, of Arkansas, minority leader of the Senate; Representative Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, majority leader of the House; Representative Mary T. Norton, of New Jersey; former Gov. Nellie Tayloe Ross, of Wyoming, and Gov. George White of Ohio.

At 3 o'clock Claude Bowers will talk on "Thomas Jefferson, the First Democratic President." Then the visitors will journey to the tomb of Woodrow Wilson at the Washington Cathedral, where Newton D. Baker will deliver an oration.

In the evening at 7:30 at the Willard the party leaders will gather for the final event, the Jefferson Day banquet. Chairman Raskob will preside. Former Gov. James M. Cox of Ohio, the 1920 nominee, will be toastmaster, and the orators will be Alfred E. Smith, the 1928 nominee; former Gov. Harry Byrd of Virginia; Gov. Ritchie and Senator James Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois.

Sailor Drowns in Bay After Parachute Escape

Oakland, Calif., April 10 (A.P.).—Joseph E. Green, 22, seaman in the Naval Reserve, drowned in San Francisco Bay today after he successfully bailed out of an airplane at an elevation of 1,500 feet.

Ensign Frank "Red" Gill, pilot of the ship, former football star at the University of California, also jumped from the plane. He made a heroic effort to save Green's life, and aided in taking his body to shore. Gill's plane went out of control while six Naval Reserve training ships were maneuvering over the bay.

Dr. Butler Says Japan Forfeits Public Esteem

New York, April 10 (A.P.).—Japan was held to have forfeited public confidence and public esteem by its recent activities in China in a report made today by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, director of the division of intercourse and education, to the trustees of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace today.

The report contained a broad review of world events in 1931 and reached the conclusion that an international situation "without parallel in history" was created.

NEW PATENT ROOMS TO BE OPENED TODAY

Talks by Secretary Lamont, Robertson and Ewing Will Be Features.

A housewarming for the 1,400 employes of the Patent Office will mark the opening today of the new quarters in the Department of Commerce Building. Addresses by Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont, Thomas E. Robertson, commissioner of patents, and Thomas Ewing, president of the American Patent Law Association, will be features of the opening program.

After the speeches, which will begin at 10:30, the guests will tour the new offices. Members of the Patent Law Association and representatives of the chambers of commerce of the larger cities are expected to be present. The guests also will lay the usual wreaths on the monuments of various prominent persons granted patents by the office. These include Presidents Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln, John Ericsson, Joseph Henry and Samuel F. B. Morse.

At 7:30 a dinner at the Mayflower Hotel is scheduled, speakers to be Charles F. Kettering, vice president of General Motors, Inc., and Frank B. Jewett, of the research department of the Bell Telephone Co. Other noted inventors and persons prominent in Washington affairs are expected to be present.

Child, 5, Graf Passenger, Is Welcomed by Parents

Buenos Aires, April 10 (A.P.).—Rudolph Lang, 5-year-old German boy, who crossed the Atlantic aboard the dirigible Graf Zeppelin on its recent flight to Pernambuco, Brazil, arrived here by airplane today and was greeted by his parents.

Goupy's

is a hole-y success . . .

One of those fluttering, flattering affairs in Banana shade eyelet organdy that is born to grace the cocktail hour. It's a deceptive little thing, for it looks so naive and young with its high-waisted girdle of brown crepe de chine caught smartly with a buckle of rose quartz and jade, but really it's one of the most worldly fashions Paris has ever sent us. The jacket features the little cap sleeve that ripples on your shoulder.

THE UNDERLYING PROBLEM.

A fresh wave of deflation swept over the country last week, leaving the people in a confused and uneasy state of mind. For a time the forces of depression were checked by the new blood poured into the veins of commerce by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and other constructive measures. But these factors were not sufficient to turn the forces of deflation into a positive movement toward recovery. It is well for the public to face the fact that heroic measures are necessary to turn the tide of depression.

A few weeks ago attention was concentrated on the extension of credit. The banks were the center of the crisis. Banks were failing at the rate of about 400 per month. Emergency measures initiated at the White House mobilized the resources of the Nation behind bank credit. The epidemic of failures was quickly cured, and the banks are in a much stronger position than before. Now they have ample money and credit reserve, but the benefits of that improved position are not flowing out to the people.

There are two chief reasons for this condition. First, the banks are reluctant to lend money because of fear that their own safety may be jeopardized. Second, even if the people can borrow, they hesitate to do so because of the uncertainty of business and because falling prices and security values make the repayment of loans an extreme hardship.

The banks are not taking full advantage of the liberal credit allowances given them in the Glass-Steagall act. Additional credit can be used only when other resources have been exhausted, and no bank wishes to admit that it is forced to resort to extraordinary measures. To this extent the working of the new regulations, which were expected to be a potent force in the restoration of normal conditions, are a disappointment. Congress did not reckon with the selfishness of some bankers who are concerned only with stabilizing their own establishments.

No elasticity of credit, however, could overcome the tendency of business to lie dormant while there is no hope of operation without fresh losses. All chance of recovery seems to hinge upon a turn in commodity prices. On April 1 a group of 110 representative commodities were selling for 17½ per cent less than they brought a year ago. This is superimposed upon a decline of 20 per cent in the previous year. So long as this condition remains unchanged business will be paralyzed. All the credit in the world can not induce business to go deeper into the red.

Value in the United States is being slowly concentrated into money. The dollar increases in value every day, while everything else loses some of its relative worth. In spite of the anti-hoarding campaign and the liberalizing of credit, this situation encourages the liquidation of all other forms of wealth. The value of the dollar has reached such a high point that the people are tempted to convert all their holdings into dollars to avert further shrinkage.

Unless this vicious movement is checked it will result in panic. The extension of credit will not be sufficient. Heroic emergency measures that will arrest the fall of prices seem to be in order. How that can be done without unwarranted inflation of the currency is not clear, but every fresh wave of deflation makes more urgent the necessity of restoring some measure of balance between money and commodity prices.

The best brains of the country ought to be concentrated on this problem. This economic malady has reached a point where it can not be expected to cure itself without leaving horrible scars. Palliatives will not yield the desired effect. Business can not turn toward stability unless the whole tendency toward lower price levels is reversed. Some powerful agency must be thrown into the breach to restore the value of goods and services against the exaggerated value of money.

The people would not countenance the manufacture of fiat money to make prices rise. But some method of currency expansion on a sound gold basis might be necessary. Emergencies of this kind call for drastic action which goes to the heart of the problem. All the benefits which have accrued through bank stabilization will be lost unless the forces of deflation are arrested. It is time for the leaders in Government and financial circles to focus their minds upon a realignment of values.

HINDENBURG WINS.

Field Marshal Hindenburg has won his fight in Germany, and once again Europe may breathe easily so far as danger of an overturn in Germany is concerned. Hindenburg yesterday received 19,367,000 votes, Hitler 13,417,000, and Thalmann, Communist, 3,705,000. At yesterday's election the winner needed only a plurality, but he actually received a majority. The total vote yesterday was about 85 per cent of the potential vote of the country.

One of the favorable features of yesterday's election was the shrinkage of the Communist vote as compared with the election of March 13, when Thalmann received 4,982,000 votes. The withdrawal of Dusterberg and Winter resulted in a gain by Hindenburg of about 1,000,000 votes, and by Hitler of about 2,100,000 votes.

The election is in effect a national indorsement of the foreign policy of Chancellor Bruening. This policy, in general, favors cooperation with other European powers, notwithstanding the fact that Chancellor Bruening has given notice that Germany can not and therefore will not pay reparations. On this point France holds a contrary opinion, and the matter is to be thrashed out at the Lausanne conference in June, if an adjustment is not reached before that time. The treaty which embodies the Young plan calls for unconditional payments by Germany, and provides sanctions which France can invoke to compel payment.

In order to hold his own at the French elections next month Premier Tardieu must maintain an unyielding front toward Germany, however willing he may be in confidential negotiations to reconcile France's demands with Germany's ability to meet them. British influence is steadily at work endeavoring to bring France and Germany into a working agreement. A drastic reduction of reparation payments seems to be necessary, whether or not the powers concerned succeed in inducing the United States to look favorably upon revision of the war debts. Great Britain intimates that it is willing, indeed, to wipe out reparation demands altogether if France will do likewise. But under all proposals to readjust reparations lies the determination to compel the United States, if possible, to make corresponding readjustments of the war debts.

The breakdown of the effort to solve the economic problem affecting the southeastern states of Europe has temporarily aroused mutual resentment in Germany and France, each accusing the other of responsibility for the failure. The problem remains, and until it is solved there will be danger of debt repudiation and economic collapse in several countries, notably Austria and Hungary. The great powers are deeply involved in this situation, not only financially but politically. An agreement among them, touching the Balkan countries, may be a necessary precedent to an understanding on still larger questions.

For the time being, however, the defeat of Hitler and the body blow struck at communism are two good strokes by Germany in behalf of European accord.

THE WISCONSIN PRIMARY.

Wisconsin has been recognized for many years as the most radical State in the Union. The La Follettes have had their own way for so long that the public has come to expect the indorsement of "progressive" ideas every time the Badger State holds an election. But this week the tables seem to have turned. The so-called Progressives are trailing behind the conservative Republicans of the State. Returns from the primary balloting indicate that delegates favorable to the nomination of President Hoover will have a substantial majority over the La Follettians pledged to Senator Norris.

This is not the first indication that radicalism masquerading as "progressivism" has fallen into disrepute. A few weeks ago Iowa, the State which contributed Mr. Brookhart to the Senate, elected a slate of delegates that is sworn to support the President. In both cases the campaign issues turned on support of the administration in Washington. It is interesting to note that Senator Brookhart, who is an archfoe of President Hoover, comes up for reelection this year. If the action of Iowa Republicans in choosing delegates to the national convention means anything Mr. Brookhart may find himself in the ranks of the unemployed.

Radicalism makes no appeal to the American people in times of distress. When prosperity is in full swing some folks like to kick over the traces and make a lot of noise. But when they come face to face with realities they recognize the folly and danger of the insurgent program. The La Follette dole, for example, is repudiated by public opinion as well as by congressional votes. Depression brings out the people's inherent common sense. It exposes the nostrums and quack remedies which are the stock in trade of the insurgents.

Defeat of the fanatics in Wisconsin is good news for the whole country. It means that the people are giving careful thought to the actual situation instead of jumping at fake remedies. That fact may well cause political shams to tremble in their boots.

AL SMITH LOSING GROUND.

Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith has become a pathetic figure in national politics. A few months ago Gov. Smith and his friends entertained hope that he would be drafted by the Democratic national convention to serve once more as the party's standard bearer. Such hope was not purely fanciful, because Gov. Smith had been the most popular figure in the Democratic party for several years. He doubtless did not realize the extent to which conditions have changed when he let it be known several months ago that he would accept the Democratic nomination if it should be tendered to him. Since that time Gov. Smith's star has been on the wane, but he will not give up.

Not long ago Gov. Smith changed his attitude of receptive waiting for a policy of active campaigning in a few States where his friends were demanding the use of his name. He now vigorously denies that he is serving as a "stalking horse" for any other candidate, and proclaims his desire to win the Democratic nomination.

Gov. Smith's prestige, both in and outside of his party, would have remained on a much higher plane if he had remained out of the race this year. It is very evident that his hold upon the party as its national leader has been weakened. Somehow he does not fit into the national picture as he did in 1928. It must be said that he has not added to his chances of reaching the White House by his advocacy of bonds to cure the depression.

The American people have high respect for Gov. Smith as an executive, as a courageous official and a friend of the common man. It is no reflection upon his ability and his past achievements to recognize that he is not now the man of the hour. Unfortunately, his friends have been unable to persuade him to withdraw from the race. But all illusions as to the possibility of his nomination must have disappeared. It may be assumed that Al is determined to go through with the fight in order to be a "good sport," and to accommodate friends who rely upon the use of his name to perpetuate their own standing in the party.

FARM BOARD PRESERVED.

A new lease on life for the Farm Board was overwhelmingly approved by the House of Representatives. The Senate will doubtless concur in this action, and the board will be able to proceed with its work of organizing agriculture. The time for its liquidation has not yet arrived.

Sentiment is strong on Capitol Hill for the abolition of useless bureaus. But the Farm Board does not fall into that class. In spite of the severe criticism that has been heaped upon the board for its stabilization blunders, farmers realize that it is performing a valuable service in their behalf.

To end the board's activities at this time would probably be extravagance rather than economy. It has on hand vast supplies of wheat, cotton and coffee that must be disposed of without imposing undue hardships upon growers of new crops. Extensive loans to cooperatives are yet to be collected, and the work of organizing farmers for their own protection and profit is far from being complete. Abolition of the board at this time would have been a severe blow to cooperative marketing, which is the foremost hope of agriculture in its struggle toward stability.

The Farm Board was not intended to be a permanent organization, and it ought not to be so considered now. But it would be folly to dissolve the board before the work for which it was created has been done. The board ought to be given a chance to correct its own mistakes and to function in normal times long enough to start agriculture definitely on the road to cooperative effort. Then Congress will be fully justified in terminating its existence.

Now that the House is willing, the Filipinos may begin to backfire on independence.

THE OLD CRACKER BARREL

(From the New York Herald-Tribune.)

To American generations of the near future references to the cracker-barrel school of politics will be as meaningless as to suggest peculiarly fixed and static qualities to the present generation by the phrase "sitting like a Stoughton bottle." For just as the squat, square bottle of Stoughton bitters, with its suggestion of utter immobility, has long since vanished from our household vocabulary, so are crackers in bulk fast disappearing from the rural scene. A questionnaire sent out among New England farmers by the New England Homestead has disclosed that fewer than 25 per cent still purchase their crackers and coffee directly from the historic barrel at the country store and that most of them now secure these commodities neatly packaged in cardboard and cellophane.

Gone, too, presumably, are most of the other distinguished characteristics of the old-fashioned country grocery; the pile of dried herring in the corner, the cannonball stove once encircled by Silas and Ephraim and Joshua on a Saturday afternoon, the small cask of ready-to-fry fishballs behind the counter, and gone with them are some of the saltiest aspects of American civilization. Gone, too, for the most part, is the cracker-barrel school of statesmen, such brave exceptions as Gov. Cross of Connecticut being the sole survivors of a brave New England legend.

To those to whom the institutions of our Yankee forefathers—town meetings, hard cider, corn huskings—were the cherished souvenirs of a more rural and individualistic era these will be sad tidings. Like the Gentle Grafter in the O. Henry story, who hoped that just once more some brother sharper would try to sell him a gold brick or a share in the Municipal Building, they may hope once more to see Uncle Si from the country in all his glory, complete with chin whiskers, carpetbag and store suit. Like the cracker barrel, he was an integral part of American history.

Now to bare a bear raid!

If Mr. Whitney's cubs have been selling U. S. short they will wish they had been hibernating even during a mild winter.

Both the bruins and the bankers will have to join the procession or produce much better alibis than they have had so far.

Unfortunately for a good many in private industry there is not much left to the argument that a Federal pay cut would set a bad example.

To make both ends meet, the Government must tax at one end and cut at the other, when Mr. Average Citizen is having such a hard time to make one end meat.

Huey Long has introduced potlikker in the Senate restaurant. It will be passed, which can not be predicted for anything he has introduced on the floor above.

Retrenchment efforts in this situation are just as vital as the necessity for digging in during the war.

If the Wall Street Ephraim Club was staging a "black Saturday" it looks as though they had traded for a blue Monday—possibly black and blue.

While offering no consolation to the desolate parents, the latest outrage in the kidnaping case, whether perpetrated by the original criminals or equally vicious imposters, should serve to rouse public spirit still further in a determination to be rid of these enemies of society.

The House economy love-feast at the White House may inspire the Senate to name a Democratic committee for an early call.

Democrats are rather up in the air over Roosevelt's decision to abstain from Jefferson Day food. They say only his nose knows their elevation.

The fact that Italy and Japan are of somewhat the same shape and size probably has nothing to do with veiled hints from both that they may abandon the League of Nations.

Nebraska will make choice tomorrow between Garner, Roosevelt and Murray. Interesting if not important.

No State primary so far was as significant as that in Wisconsin where, for the first time in 28 years, a conservative Republican delegation supplants Progressive La Folletteism.

Lawyer Darrow's imported alienists will be easily matched. No trial has ever developed so many issues that there weren't alienists to support them.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE FIRST TOOTH.

Customs change and nations fall,
Fashions come and fashions go.
Father Time may alter all
Which of pride and pomp we know,
But ten thousand years away,
With their added gains of truth,
Still will mothers hail the day
When the baby gets a tooth!

Great events may come to pass.
Marvels may be wrought by man.
Powerful microscopic glass
May discover nature's plan.
What important now we deem
May be scorned by wiser youth,
Still a triumph it will seem
When the baby gets a tooth!

Time may alter many things,
Bettering our present good,
But what change the future brings
Will not vary motherhood.
As it's now it still will be
For another million years,
Mother's eyes will dance with glee
When the first white tooth appears.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

On an August day in Carolina a farmer dropped a match near a can of gasoline and instantly was enveloped in flames.

An hour before he died he said to his physician: "No, Doc, I don't feel any pain, but I'm so cold." The garments of those who attended him were wet with perspiration, but his teeth were chattering.

Do you know why? A man's skin is more than a covering for his body. It is a vital organ—an agency to regulate body temperature—a means by which he breathes, as necessary to life as the heart itself.

As this is written a citizen of Memphis, badly burned eleven months ago, is still alive and hopeful of recovery. But he lives in an oven, heated to a temperature of 103 degrees, with only his head and arms exposed. Other victims of burns and scalds die quickly if one-third of the body surface is destroyed.

Sunburn also has been known to prove fatal. And children have been killed, as everybody knows, by painting their bodies for some fete or theatrical performance.

Does all of this suggest anything to you? If death results when one-third of the skin is destroyed, can a person enjoy good health if the efficiency of his skin is reduced by a third?

Nature provides a way to keep the skin clean. All normal people sweat constantly—not much, perhaps, but enough to keep the pores of the skin open. Artificial sweats are beneficial because they afford a house-cleaning, and their curative value has been known for thousands of years.

A porous fabric placed on a table can not be washed clean with a sponge. The dirt washed from the surface fills the pores. But if the fabric is hung on a line and water from a hose forced through it from the back, dirt is driven out of the pores and can be wiped away.

An occasional good sweat is essential to health, but equally essential is sufficient scrubbing to keep the skin functioning at top-notch efficiency.

It isn't exposure that makes the skin of the face coarse and unsightly; it is the practice of filling the pores with "beauty aids."

PRO AND CON

Outlook Not Hopeful.
Louisville Courier-Journal.

Speaker Garner's announcement of what could be done with cooperation from the executive and legislative branches is not far-fetched, in spite of the statement to the contrary by Secretary Mills. A $400,000,000 saving in the more than $4,000,000,000 of estimated costs could be effected by the elimination of waste and duplication, and a little use of the ax on the salaries of Government officers, including Congress. Senator Logan, of Kentucky, has declared that $1,000,000,000 could be saved if Congress had the courage to face the facts of a costly and top-heavy bureaucracy. But the outlook for economy is anything but bright. Even Senator Jones, with the only tangible scheme for cutting down expenses, has become hesitant. His 10 per cent cut, he now declares, may upset the Governmental departments.

Get Together.
New York Sun.

Whatever the differences between the aims of the President and congressional leaders, whatever the advantages to be gained by one party or the other, whatever the pride of position involved, it is time for all concerned to come to some workable compromise. Local, State and Federal taxes now constitute a burden which is not going to be borne patiently. The Federal Government is by no means the worst offender, but that will not excuse failure to take advantage of the greatest opportunity in years to rid the Federal Government of a major portion of the extravagance that is the inevitable legacy of bureaucracy.

Finland's Future.
Kansas City Times.

Finland now becomes the reform center of the globe. With prohibition gone, people are going to be perfectly nice drinkers, none of the liquor money will have to be spent for temperance, as planned, and the revenue will pile up to balance the national budget; because, when drink is legalized and put within easy reach, nobody wants it. That is the reason people stood in line in a sleet storm five hours yesterday, waiting for the Finland dram shops to open, the reason the restaurants prepared for a record business last night and the reason that the government stocked up with Esthonian vodka, whisky and other spirits by the millions of quarts to get ready for the first day of the new regime. Finland is off. The bootleggers soon will be saints, lawlessness will subside and a prosperous and happy people will move on to broader achievements.

Reduced Costs Demanded.
Omaha World Herald.

If senators and representatives, Republicans and Democrats and insurgents, come to understand that what the people demand from government right now is not more taxes, but reduced costs, and to act decisively on that understanding, they will finally have proved themselves to be faithful public servants. And until they do they are likely to be considered as anything else but.

Scapegoat.
Chicago Tribune.

From all the talk of the administration, Congress, and other eminent statesmen of terrible, slashing, drastic economies in the Government bureaus at Washington we expect before this month is out, this very month of April, mark you, to read almost any day in the news from Washington that the blow has fallen—a messenger boy will be fired from the Department of Commerce. Wait and see!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Massachusetts Reader Suggests Installment Plan for Paying State, City and Town Taxes.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In view of the fact that the plan of paying by installments is universally recognized as a part of our commercial policy and essentially approved in principle, however criticized by certain private interests as uneconomic and unpractical, it occurs to me that it could be applied to each State, city and town in the payment of taxes and along similar lines of the method in vogue, or, as adopted by the Government, which consists of quarterly payments of income taxes.

This arrangement could be made to apply to various forms of taxes, that would permit being distributed over a stated period and allow a reasonable time for payment, in order to provide an opportunity for saving several amounts instead of making it necessary to secure the entire amount due at a specified date. The installment paying would create better relations, while affording a budget plan to operate, equally advantageous for the taxpayers and others concerned.

The Government recognizes the necessity of allowing consideration to individual and corporation income taxpayers. It would appear equally practical to suggest that the States, cities and towns provide a similar plan for their taxpayers, particularly to encourage a cooperative relationship and a mutual understanding that will reflect in improved civic responsibility and progress.

Chinese Reader Praises Mr. Villamin's Article on "Japan and the Philippines."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As a Chinese citizen, I agree thoroughly with the thoughts set forth by Mr. Vincente Villamin in his article in The Post, entitled "Japan and the Philippines." I am especially touched by his statement that the hectoring attitude of Japan toward the Oriental peoples is "a world tragedy in an Oriental setting, for the Oriental peoples who admire Japan are prayerfully wishing that instead of an invader and oppressor she may be a leader and a friend in a civilized sense."

As I presume that Mr. Villamin is a Filipino, I salute him for his exhibition of high intelligence and courageous patriotism. I am happy that there are red-blooded Filipinos like Mr. Villamin who do not permit themselves to be charmed and lulled into submission by the siren songs which Japan so ably sings.

Let me express, in conclusion, my admiration for Mr. Villamin's command of English and his marvelous style. He takes his place as one of the intellectual leaders not only of the Philippines but of the Far East.

Mr. Young Complains of Trucks Parked in Public Streets.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There appears to be no reason why all-night and week-end parking of commercial vehicles in the streets can not be stopped at once. This does not appear to be a matter requiring serious and prolonged study by the traffic department. The number of trucks which park in the street is very small compared to the number of private cars, and the excuse that there is not sufficient garage accommodations does not hold good in the case of trucks.

But small as is the number of commercial vehicles, they are eyesores to the residents in front of whose homes they make an outdoor garage. It seems that police patroling the neighborhoods should be required to attach a caution notice to any trucks found overnight in the streets warning the owners to desist from the practice. If such warning is not heeded, the trucks should be ticketed.

The space in front of small city parks is used for overnight and Sunday parking of commercial vehicles. On Fourth street near Pennsylvania avenue southeast, a number of trucks are parked overnight and week-ends along the curb in front of Seward Square. Occasionally a small park above Dupont Circle is adopted by a truckman parking on Connecticut avenue. This use of the streets by private business interests smacks of special privilege.

Teacher of English Commends Mr. Villamin's Style of Writing.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Is the author of the series of Philippine articles in The Post, Vicente Villamin, a Filipino? Being a teacher of English and rhetoric, I wish to say that his articles are models of clear and forceful writing. His skill in marshaling the facts and making them interesting is equaled only by the force of his logic and the irresistibleness of his conclusions. It is my deliberate opinion that in composition, conception, logic, interest and terseness Mr. Villamin's article, "Japan and the Philippines," ranks with the best that has appeared in all the Washington newspapers on any subject by anybody in many years. I speak only of the composition of the articles and not of the position taken by the author on the different subjects discussed.

E. S. MASON.

Mr. Curry Compares Mr. Villamin With Joseph Conrad.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The article on "Japan and the Philippines" is splendid in every respect. It shows an extraordinary writing ability, a subtle comprehension of the facts, a well-balanced courage and an unquestioned level-headedness. Mr. Villamin may be another Joseph Conrad, the novelist, who did not learn the English language until he was 21 years old, but rose to be one of the great masters of that language.

President and Mrs. Hoover Entertain at White House Dinner; Vice President and Mrs. Gann Vermont Guests

PRESIDENT AND MRS. HOOVER entertained at dinner last evening in the White House.

Vice President Curtis and his sister, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, will be the guest speakers at the annual maple sugar party of the Vermont Association at the Willard tomorrow night. Mrs. Mabel R. Peirce, president of the association, will preside, and Senator Dale will act as toastmaster.

Ladies of the Vermont congressional delegation will head the receiving line at the reception preceding the dinner, together with Mrs. Mabel R. Peirce, Mrs. Frank E. Hickey, Mrs. Charles A. Webb, Mrs. W. W. Husband, Mrs. George R. Wales and Mrs. Joseph Fairbanks. Dancing will follow the dinner.

The Italian Ambassador, Nobile Giacomo de Martino, entertained at luncheon yesterday. Mme. de Martino was unable to be present because of illness. The guests included the Minister of Albania, Mr. Faik Konitza; Representative and Mrs. Sol Bloom, Representative and Mrs. Malcolm B. Baldridge, Judge John Barton Payne, Dr. and Mrs. Cloyd Heck Marvin, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. George P. Scriven, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Stanley Riggs, Dr. Paul Wilstach, Mgr. Francis Lardone, Count and Countess Fumasoni-Biondi, Miss Janet Richards, Miss Alice Driggs, Miss Vera Bloom, Miss Meta Morris Evans, Mr. C. P. Williamson, the Counselor of the Embassy, Count Alberto Marchetti di Muriaglio, and the Secretary of Embassy, Nobile Carlo Soardi.

Mme. Claudel, wife of the French Ambassador, has issued cards for a tea on Tuesday afternoon, April 26.

The British Ambassador and Lady Lindsay entertained at dinner last evening when the ranking guests were the Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Ogden L. Mills. The other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fletcher, Representative and Mrs. Lewis Douglas, the Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Harvey Bundy, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Delano Robbins, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Harrison, Mrs. Amasa Stone Mather, the Minister Counselor of the Embassy, Mr. F. D. G. Osborne; the Naval Attache of the Embassy, Capt. Patrick Macnamara, and Mrs. Charles Williamson.

The Bolivian Minister and Senora de Abelli entertained at dinner last evening when the guests were the Austrian Minister and Mme. Prochnik, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Norment, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Vidal, Mrs. M. Robert Guggenheim, Mr. Robert Kempton, the Counselor of the Argentine Embassy and Senora de Traverso, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Snow and Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Mallan.

Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York, has accepted an invitation to be one of the speakers at the eighth annual varsity "G" Club dinner of Georgetown University the evening of April 30 at the Willard.

Plans for the dinner are going forward rapidly and indications are that there will be an attendance of not far from 1,000. Mr. Thomas A. Cantwell is general chairman of arrangements.

Mrs. Arthur H. Vandenberg, wife of the senator from Michigan, will entertain a company of ten at the authors' breakfast of the League of American Pen Women which is to be held at the Willard on April 23. Mrs. W. E. Patterson French, wife of Col. French, will also entertain a group of ten at this affair.

Egyptian Legation Party Honors Marian Jardine.

The First Secretary of the Egyptian Legation and Mme. Aly Ismail Bey entertained at luncheon yesterday for Miss Marian Jardine, daughter of the United States Minister to Egypt and Mrs. William Jardine, who will sail on April 19 to join her parents in Cairo.

Aly Bey has recently received word from Cairo that he is to be transferred from Washington to Bucharest where he will be charge d'affaires and head of the mission there. With Mme. Aly Bey he expects to leave next month. It is with deep regret that Washington will bid farewell to this attractive couple who, during their stay here have added much to society and have made a host of friends. Aly Bey came to Washington several years ago, shortly before the recall of the former minister, Samy Pasha, and before the present minister arrived, served as charge d'affaires and host of the legation with ability and grace. Mme. Aly Bey arrived later to join him here, and has since been hostess of the legation, both during her husband's regime as charge d'affaires and at functions given Minister Secostris Sidarouss Pasha.

Sir Josiah and Lady Stamp, who have been at the Willard for a few days, left yesterday for New York City.

The First Assistant Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Joseph M. Dixon, of Wardman Park Hotel, announce the engagement of their daughter, Betty, to Mr. Marshall Winslow Stearns, son of Mrs. Stearns and the late Mr. Harry N. Stearns of Cambridge, Mass. The wedding will take place some time this summer at the Dixon home in Montana.

Capt. Gordon Gordon-Smith, of the Jugoslav Legation and Mrs. Gordon-Smith entertained on Saturday evening in honor of Dr. Leonidas Pitamic, Minister of Jugoslavia, at their apartment in the Dupont Circle. Among other guests present were Dr. Nemecek, of the Czechoslovak Legation, M. Stoianovitch, M. Kulitch and Dr. Angelinovitch, of the Jugoslav Legation, Dr. and Mrs. George Leroy Lansdale, Miss Lansdale, Baroness von Loevenfeldt, Mrs. A. H. Putney, Comte de Benque and Miss Natalie Norwood.

Senator Arthur R. Robinson, of Indiana, a native born son of Ohio, will be the guest of honor and speaker at the final meeting of the Ohio State Society at the Shoreham Hotel at 8 o'clock tonight. Dr. Ze Barney Phillips, rector of the Church of the Epiphany and chaplain of the Senate, will be a guest.

A program of songs by F. Stanley Crooks, barytone, of Columbus, Ohio, who will come to Washington for the meeting, is a feature of the entertainment of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Hale, of San Francisco, left for their home yesterday after a brief visit in New York and Washington. Mr. Hale was a guest at the Gridiron dinner on Saturday evening, and yesterday he and Mrs. Hale entertained at luncheon at the Mayflower.

Edward Pierce Maffitt and Miss Katherine Mulvane.

Miss Katherine Mulvane, daughter of Mrs. John David Mulvane, of Mayfair House, New York, was married Saturday afternoon to Mr. Edward Pierce Maffitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Maffitt, of 4520 West Pine boulevard, St. Louis, in the chapel of St. Bartholomew's Church, New York, the rector, the Rev. Dr. Robert Norwood, officiating. The church was decorated with palms, dogwood and cybotium ferns. A large reception was held in the Italian garden and Louis XV ballroom of the Ambassador.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Dr. Oswald Roberts Jones, of New York. She wore a gown of ivory satin with a bateau neckline and long sleeves. Her tulle veil was held in place by a band of the tulle. She carried a prayer book with a small spray of white orchids on ribbons.

Mrs. Oswald R. Jones, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Miss Mildred Hockstader maid of honor. Mrs. Damon de Blois Wack and Miss Mary Elizabeth Wyeth were attendants. All wore frocks of turquoise crepe and straw hats of the same shade. Mrs. Jones carried a bouquet of autumn roses while the bouquets of the maid of honor and bridesmaids were of coral sweet peas, African daisies and coral snapdragons.

Mr. Thomas S. Maffitt, jr., was best man for his brother. Ushers were Messrs. Damon de Blois Wack, Frank Wright, George Darrell, Kenyon Boocock, Andre Maximov and Derrick January.

The bride attended the Spence School and also studied in Paris and in Florence. Mr Maffitt was graduated from Yale in 1928 and from the Foreign Service School in Washington, and also studied in Vevey, Switzerland. He served as vice consul in Athens, and on their return from a trip to Bermuda he and his bride will be in Washington, where he is reporting for duty at the State Department.

Mrs. John Collins, of Buenos Aires and New York, is in Washington for a short visit, the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Enid de Lima. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hudson will entertain at dinner for Mrs. Collins this evening.

Many prominent Americans were among those entertained by his excellency, the Governor of Bermuda, and Lady Astley Cubitt at an afternoon reception held Saturday in the lovely grounds of Government House.

Their excellencies received their guests on the upper terraces, which presented a scene of great beauty and animation suggesting a royal garden party at Buckingham Palace. Naval and military officers were present in uniform and the brilliant scarlet coats of the bandsmen of the Royal Northumberland Fusileers added a vivid splash of color that delighted the eye as much as the music pleased the ear.

Top-hatted government officials and high dignitaries of church and state mingled with ladies attired in flimsy summer frocks forming a colorful picture the like of which has never before been witnessed in Bermuda.

Prominent among the guests from Washington were Miss Marion Oliver, Mrs. Thomas T. Gaff, Mr. Robert C. Hayden, Miss Florence S. Hayden, Mrs. William C. Denny, Mrs. Hamilton Parrish, the American Consul and Mrs. Graham Kemper, the American Vice Consul and Mrs. Clay Merrell.

Other prominent Americans present were Mrs. James Roosevelt-Roosevelt and Mr. and Mrs. Eliot Cutter, of New York; Mrs. Joseph N. Pew, jr., of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Leighton Brewer, of Boston, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip P. Gardiner, of Bernardsville, N. J.

Mrs. Charles H. Bergapin entertained at luncheon and bridge at the Shoreham Saturday in honor of her sister-in-law, Mrs. A. Allan Silverton, of Hartford, Conn. Her other guests were Mrs. Mason Sauber, Mrs. Morris Bluttman, Mrs. Michael London, Mrs. Maurice Schloffberg, Miss Retha Caro, Miss Bess Shoor, Mrs. Victor Silverman, Mrs. Barney Krucoff, Mrs. Ben Cohen, Mrs. Sol Friedman, Mrs. Sidney Simon, Mrs. David G. Freedman, Miss Sadye Bergazin, Mrs. Louis Krupsaw and Mrs. Sol Scher.

Mrs. Lulu Jones Downing, of Evanston, Ill., who is spending the spring at the Shoreham, entertained there informally yesterday in compliment to Mrs. Ernest Thompson-Seton and the latter's house guest, Mrs. John J. Watson, of New York, who arrived Saturday to spend the week-end with Mrs. Seton. Signor Alfredo Salmagel, the director of the Manhattan Opera Company, of New York, was also a guest of Mrs. Downing.

Miss Julia Strong has returned to Washington after an absence of six weeks in Florida and Charleston, and is now at her residence, 3 Dupont Circle.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland W. Cutler, of San Francisco, are at the Willard for a few days. Mr. Cutler attended the Gridiron dinner at the Willard on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Forster entertained a group of sixteen at the dinner dance at Wardman Park Hotel on Saturday evening, and they and their guests remained for the supper dance in the gold room of the hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Forster with their family make their home at the Wardman Park.

Miss William Healey, chairman of the Georgia Committee for Prohibition Reform (headed by Mrs. Charles Sabin), is arriving in Washington today, accompanied by the following prominent society women from Atlanta: Mrs. John Dozier Little, Mrs. James Dickey and Mrs. Leroy Childs. They will be at the Mayflower for several days.

Wife of Goucher President To Be Guest at Tea Today.

Mrs. David Robertson, wife of the president of Goucher College, will be the guest of honor at the tea this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the clubhouse of the American Association of University Women and all alumnae of Goucher are invited to be present to meet Mrs. Robertson, whether they are members of the branch or otherwise. Miss Christine Fassett will act as hostess and Mrs. Otto Veenhoff will receive with Mrs. Robertson. Miss Mary Haynes and Mrs. Charles E. Phillips will serve at the tea tables.

Mrs. W. George Brown, of Orange, Va., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Ewell at Wardman Park Hotel, having arrived here Saturday to spend several days. Mr. and Mrs. Ewell, who had been living in France for some time, came to this country a few months ago, and are now established at Wardman Park permanently.

Mr. Felix Mahoney and Mr. Charles Bittinger will be the hosts at a dinner to be given at the Arts Club tomorrow evening when Mr. and Mrs. Eliot O'Hara will be the guests of honor. Mr. O'Hara is a water-color painter of international renown and the author of a standard treatise on the art. After dinner there will be an informal discussion on the subject of water colors as a medium, and the artists of Washington are invited to take part in this discussion.

Among those who are taking tables for the National Woman's Party card parties this evening and tomorrow afternoon and evening are the following: Mrs. Rose Houchins, Mrs. Herbert Wylie Smith, Mrs. Grace T. Luers, Miss Margaret Luers, Miss I. Greenwood, Miss Myrtle Patterson, Mrs. Stanton Dorsey, Mrs. Walter Asmuth, Mrs. William Webb, Mrs. Ida Garrett Matthingly, Miss Elva McNamara, Mrs. H. C. Easterday, Mrs. Charles Hoffman, Mrs. Elmer Roberts, Mrs. Lewis Flemer, Mrs. James Sweet, Miss Mabel Griswold, Mrs. Charles Jarboe, Mrs. C. H. Curl and Mrs. Maud Bradbury.

The series of card parties will be given in the drawing rooms of Alva Belmont House, the headquarters of the National Woman's Party. The first of the series will be held at 8 o'clock this evening; the second tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, and the third and final one at 8 tomorrow evening.

A group of Republican women of West Virginia, prominent in the State's government and in political party activities, are in the city for a few days. The pilgrimage was organized by Mrs. Ellis A. Yost, member of the Republican national committee from the State.

Today is to be busy, with a drive to see the cherry blossoms, a visit to the White House to meet President and Mrs. Hoover, lunch at the Capitol with Republican members of Congress and their wives, a visit to both Houses of Congress, ending with an informal tea given by Mrs. Yost at the Dodge. At the tea, they will meet Mrs. Gann and Mrs. Doak, who has been often in West Virginia; wives of West Virginia members of Congress; Mrs. Bowman, Mrs. Bachmann, Mrs. Shott and Mrs. Hogg, and many other women of West Virginia living in Washington will assist.

Tomorrow morning they will gather at the Republican national committee headquarters to meet the staff, and in the afternoon will have tea with Mrs. Hart.

Among the women who are here with the pilgrimage are: Mrs. Mary D. Emory, Morgantown; Miss Elizabeth Stone, Fairmont; Miss May Harmison, Charleston; Mrs. Alice Taylor, Logan; Mrs. C. S. Elliott, Clarksburg; Mrs. Flora Williams, Wheeling; Mrs. J. A. Stuck, Newburg; Miss Lillian Carver, Charleston; Miss Bernardine B. Ridenour, Huntington; Mrs. Mollie J. Adams, Spencer; Mrs. John E. McGraw, Parkersburg; Mrs. T. C. Townsend, Charleston; Miss Georgia C. Wade, Morgantown; Miss Edna M. Lewis, Charleston; Mrs. Nina Blundon Wills, Charleston; Miss Margaret Carspecken, Morgantown; Mrs. Lon Barringer, Charleston; Mrs. J. C. Newcomer, Harpers Ferry; Miss Ruth Dunn, Charleston; Mrs. Lee, Charleston; Mrs. I. Wade Coffman, Charleston; Mrs. Cyrus Hall, Carleston; Mrs. Howard Lawrence, Huntington; Mrs. Frank Clark, Huntington; Mrs. W. B. Snyder, Shepherdstown; Mrs. Bonner Hill, Charleston.

Mrs. Frank J. Egan, who has been the guest of Mrs. Henry L. Doherty in her apartment at the Shoreham for several days, left for New York Saturday, where she will spend a few days prior to sailing for her home in Paris where she has her atelier and will resume her painting. At this year's Paris Salon two of her paintings were hung.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE BIERCE

Hand Care Means More Than Merely Manicuring

FOR many women hand care means merely manicuring. Their attention to the hands begins and ends with shaping and polishing of the nails. No one can deny that beautifully groomed and pinked nails are an asset, but unless these are surrounded by a soft, white, smooth skin on fingers and back of hand, the result is far from satisfactory. In fact, cared-for nails call attention to dark, discolored hands and make them look even more neglected, by contrast.

Elsie Pierce.

This is particularly true if a deep red polish is used, or any shade other than a most natural pinkish polish. As for the silver, platinum, gold, green or other pastel polishes in vogue for evening wear, only an exotic woman with the loveliest hands should venture to try them.

Hand Massage.

Some of the finer beauty salons throughout the country offer a manicure finished with a hand massage. These salons appreciate the necessity of keeping the hand itself lovely that it may the more beautifully wear groomed nails. The hand massage consists of a short treatment. A cream is used first, a cream of the finishing variety with enough oils in it to soften and lubricate. This is massaged in a firm, rotary motion, a pinching, downward movement from finger tip to knuckle, special attention is paid to the knuckles themselves and a round and round movement used on the back of the hand, to the wrist. Following the cream a whitening lotion is used, the adherent type used for face and neck as a base for powder. This is patted and blended until dry.

If you manicure your nails at home this is a simple hand massage you can try after filing and polishing the nails. Use a vanishing or finishing cream, and if you have a liquid powder of finishing lotion follow with that, or simply fluff a little powder over the hands after the cream has been worked in thoroughly.

Now that the winter is over, red hands have no place on the beauty scene. They are never in order you know, but particularly out of keeping with spring beauty. If your hands are still red or chapped, get busy and give them a nightly massage with hand lotion, your nourishing cream or olive oil.

Remember that hands give away age and neglect just as much as the face does. Keep your hands looking young and lovely. Beautiful hands add grace to every gesture. Many women are so sensitive about their hands that they try to keep them in hiding, so to speak. What a mistake. Particularly when a little daily care will soon make you proud of your hands.

My two hand bulletins are yours for a self-addressed, stamped envelope. They outline a home manicure and tell you how to care for your hands to keep them soft and smooth.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Garconne type of dress with exaggeratedly high waistline, buttoned to the figure, and white satin blouse top. (A Dah-ray design.)

NEW YORK, April 10.—How colorful are colors!

How crepey are crepes, how interesting are weaves, how delightful are materials! And how practically they are woven, too! Some are woven especially for bias cutting, and since bias cutting is usually for lingerie, the colors and weights of this weave are lingerie colors and weights. Too, a material of this type is washable. I am thinking of crepe barcarolle, or cretan crepe, two new weaves that are especially nice for lingerie.

And not only in materials for undies, either, have we a finished product that has taken into consideration every single angle of use. Certain materials that are most suitable for particular types of wearing apparel are especially woven for these types of wearing apparel and colors, weight, washableness or crushableness, are all taken into consideration when the materials are made.

For instance, velvet. Now that the little velvet evening packet is almost universal, manufacturers have experimented with velvets that can be light weight and actually transparent, some that are very, very hard to crush and wrinkle, others where the nap does not rub up and shine. Offhand I recall Medici velvet, which I saw in a lovely evening color called "Madcap Red," a velvet which is almost the same when looked at at any angle, and especially constructed to be hard to crush.

Silk and wool combinations are good for tailored daytime dresses, tailleurs, and for bags, scarfs, and even hats. They have a low lustre surface, and a roughness in texture, usually. Then some chiffons are more firmly woven, showing threads in the weave like surah, and of course, having more body, do not crush as the chiffon of yesterday, though the new version retains all of its transparency and wistfulness.

Well, I have always loved the dancer's costume that seems to do for Spanish, Apache, classical and every other type of dancing done by men . . . the satin blouse, full sleeved, the high waistline to the trousers, you know! So thought I would just have a little dress on similar lines, and, thus thinking, designed it, and here it is!

Reminiscent of the peg top skirts? I put three inverted pleats down the front of the skirt, and one on each side is an open pocket. Then the skirt buttons and the blouse are white satin, the tie flaming red silk, and oh, yes, the materials of the skirt is black suede . . . the cloth kind, of course. And the skirt is so very high that actually the girdle part seems to button to the body between the normal waistline and the bust—and I mustn't forget that the whole thing is a one-piece affair, not two. Like it?

'N' I figured out that I had this dress made for absolutely nothing! Yes, because the price of the material and the making are just what I have saved in two or three months on cleaning bills, this and that piece of lingerie, gadgets and whatnots, by knowing the secrets of a lovely lady! If you would like to know these secrets, and save enough money to have a new frock every few months just out of pennies that otherwise trickle away, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's leaflet, and learn them yourself. You'd be surprised how easy they are to know and do!

Au revoir!

How to Keep Well

SIMPLE MILK TEST.

THERE are some people who take no stock in bacteria. Since these creatures are too small to be seen with the unaided eye, and since high power microscopes are not articles of household use, most of us must take bacteria on faith, if we take them at all. And faith is selling below par in the present market.

When it comes to protecting a milk supply almost everything that is done must stand on bacteriology as a foundation stone. Since so many milk producers and distributors have no faith in this science the departments of control had too look around for some common ground the fundamentals of which must make a general appeal. They hit upon the dirt test. In making this test a small amount of milk is filtered through a piece of cotton, and the dirtiness of the milk is graded by the dirtiness of the cotton after the filtration, or vice versa.

This test is applied at creameries and milk stations especially. It is used by the buyers to prove to the dairymen that milks vary in cleanliness. It is of less service in homes because much of the milk supply is passed through clarifiers before it is bottled and marketed.

The Connecticut State department of health has perfected a method of scoring. They do this by means of a set of nine sediment standards. They reproduce accurately pictures of nine pledgets of cotton variously stained by dirt collected in the filtering of milk. These cards range from a reproduction of a white, unstained pledget labeled 0—clean, to a badly soiled one which bears the label 500—very dirty. The other reproductions are labeled 25—fairly clean, 50—acceptable, 75—slightly dirty, 100—dirty, and 125, 250, and 375, each of which has the additional label—very dirty.

The card, copies of which they sell to outsiders, is to be mounted under glass. If a milk plant has one of these cards the superintendent filters a sample of each farmer's milk, matches the pledget of cotton against the picture, and not only shows the farmer his score but allows him to do the matching himself, if he wishes.

If a farmer finds that his product is bad he can generally figure out where his production methods are at fault, and in most instances he can remedy the error without particular cost.

Health departments also can find use for these cards, though, as a rule, they will carry them into the field and use them for demonstrations on the farm and in milk plants rather than for tests made in the central laboratory.

It is true that a milk may be dirty and still be wholesome, and that clean milk may contain live bacteria capable of causing disease. But the rule is the other way. Careless milk producers are likely to get disease as well as dirt into their product.

BUBACH FOR SILVER FISH.

Mrs. McM. writes: I am troubled with little silver bugs, about ¼ inch long. They crawl real fast on the floor around the furnace. I have painted the floor, poured water on them, and sprayed with moth chemical, but nothing has helped. What can I do to get rid of them?

REPLY.

This group of bugs is known as silver fish moths. They eat book bindings and do some harm in a few other ways. They are fond of starch and glue wherever they find it. Books kept in a dry, well-aired place are somewhat protected thereby. Sprinkle fresh buhach around rather freely. This is the best of the silver fish poisons. Librarians mix white arsenic with glue or starch paste, put it on bits of paper, and leave these in places where the moths abound.

OF NO GREAT IMPORTANCE.

Mrs. M. H. writes: My 10-month-old twins urinate about every ten or fifteen minutes and their diapers are yellow. Does this denote some type of kidney trouble? I feed them cereal, orange juice, strained vegetables, milk and try to give them water at irregular intervals. I nurse them at 5 a. m., breakfast at 9 a. m., dinner at 1 p. m., supper at 5:15 p. m. They sleep good at night and take regular naps.

REPLY.

Since they are growing, thriving, comfortable and happy, the symptom is not of much importance. It may be that you are giving them too much water. A baby's food supplies almost as much water as he needs.

Chicken Croquettes With Rich Mushroom Sauce.

YESTERDAY our dinner provided chicken en casserole from which there may remain sufficient meat in the refrigerator for a second repast. But for tonight let's plan something else (preferably a supper rather than a dinner) and then tomorrow night build our menu around the tag ends of the chicken in the form of chicken croquettes with cream of mushroom sauce. This system avoids any chance comment from the gentlemen, some of whom have been heard to remark "What, yesterday's dinner again today"—or words to that effect—so rumor has it.

TUESDAY'S DINNER.

Chicken Croquettes with Cream of Mushroom Sauce
Mashed Potatoes
Scalloped Tomatoes
Prune Bread
Rice Pudding with Pineapple
Tea or Coffee

Chicken Croquettes With Cream of Mushroom Sauce.

Remove the remaining meat from the bones of cooked fowl, return the skin and bones to the liquor in which the meat was cooked and boil the liquor down to about half quantity. Mince the meat, season to taste, and add a very small amount of thick white sauce. Shape into croquettes, roll in egg and cracker crumbs and set aside for several hours. Croquettes fry better if allowed to stand after the eggs and crumbs are applied than when fried at once. Fry in deep hot fat to a golden brown.

Mushroom Sauce.

Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan and add two tablespoonfuls of flour. Blend the two and gradually add one cupful of strained chicken stock. Add a cupful of mushrooms, peeled, cut in pieces and sauteed in butter. Serve over the croquettes.

Prune Bread.

1 cupful white flour.
2 cupfuls graham flour.
2 teaspoonfuls soda.
1 teaspoonful salt.
1½ cupfuls sour milk
½ cupful molasses.
1 cupful pitted prunes.

Sift together all dry ingredients, warm the molasses and add to the milk, pour gradually into the dry mixture. Add prunes. Bake one hour in a slow oven.

Rice Pudding With Pineapple.

½ cupful sugar
4 slices pineapple.
3 eggs, separated
½ cupful milk.
½ cupful rice
1½ cupfuls boiling water
1 teaspoonful salt

Wash the rice three or four times in cold water. Put the boiling water and salt in double boiler, add the rice slowly and steam for 35 minutes, or until tender. Cut the pineapple in small pieces. Add to the rice the well-beaten egg yolks, sugar, milk and pineapple. Then fold in the egg whites, stiffly beaten, and bake 30 minutes in well-buttered baking dish. Serve with cream.

THE WEIGHT GUIDE.

For individual assistance, write to Nancy Carey, sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and give age, weight, height and habits of life.

ANSWERS TO READERS.

Dear Miss Carey—I am only 20 years old and weigh nearly 250 pounds. I am quite tall, but still look very stout. I am a heavy eater, but so many have told me it would be useless to diet because all my relatives are stout, and that it is my nature to be stout also.

Will you kindly advise me and send me a diet if you think I can reduce?

EDITH.

You have not included your height and for that reason we are unable to tell you just what your correct weight should be, Edith. However, I am afraid there is not much doubt about your needing to reduce. I should advise that you lose no time in curbing the great appetite of which you are the unfortunate possessor, and get down seriously to the business of counting calories. If you will do this now, while you are still young, you will not only achieve much quicker results, but you will also find it ever so much less difficult. As we grow older, you know, we become rather "set" in our ways of eating and walking and living in general, so that any definite change or departure from the regular routine of doing things quite upsets us physically and mentally. As a result, we give it all up in despair and determine to be satisfied with ourselves just as we are.

About this business of heredity, even though it is quite possible to inherit definite tendencies and characteristics from our forebears, as pertains to weight, build, &c., still that is no reason why these characteristics can not be overcome or at least altered to our liking. What is most often inherited in cases of great overweight is an enormous appetite. Control that appetite and you will control your weight. Learn to like and eat the foods which are best for reducing and you will soon be favorably surprised at how much better you will both look and feel.

Let us hear from you soon with a stamped, self-addressed envelope so that we may send you our folder of reducing suggestions and menus. We are most anxious to help you wherever possible.

What Today Means

"ARIES."

IF April 11 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:16 a. m. to 10:30 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2:30 p. m. and from 6:25 p. m. to 8 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:25 p. m., and from 4 p. m. to 5:20 p. m.

The stars on April 11 will cast beneficent rays upon people in all stations of life who have the courage and enthusiasm to meet the opportunities presented to them on this date by Fate. The bag of luck will contain a variegated assortment of prizes: Love, friendship, money and travel.

The child born on this April 11 will prove that naughty, mischievous children often make the most successful and interesting adults. It will not be underhanded, dishonest or cruel, but it will be strong-willed, adventurous, full of pranks and a romantic schemer. Its shoulders will always be broad enough, however, to assume troubles of its own making.

Born on April 11, you have a bright, versatile and fascinating nature. You prefer the jam of life, and only resort to the crusts through forced poverty of one kind or another. As a child you were probably dubbed "scatter brain," and you have never completely stopped your wool-gathering. You will never entirely shoulder all your own responsibilities, or ever take a prize for your powers of concentration. Up to a certain point your habitual carefree cheerfulness is an asset to you and a pleasure to the rest of the world. You do not nag, whine or cry; you do laugh, smile and cheer. Because you refuse to be bothered or worried, you do get out of things or get away with other things, which are a worry and a trouble to some other human being. Because you are a gracious, charming customer, the world takes a delight in serving you. You are one of the few people who seem able to have their cake and eat it, too.

Others envy you your talents, your quick wit, and the alacrity of your understanding, but you yourself do not half appreciate the possibilities within you. You have no desire to show off, and you have few ambitions. Discomfort in any form is the one thing which will move you to decided individual effort. You are rather greedy and extravagant in some of your tastes and desires, and will forego much for their fulfillment. As an April 11 being, you should be very fond of music and dancing.

Georgs Canning, English statesman.

Paul Dwight Moody, clergyman.

Charles W. Couldock, actor.

Henry G. Marquand, philanthropist.

Advice on Gardening

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

REGARDING FERTILIZERS.

WE can not grow flowers or even vines or shrubs without plenty of humus or plant food of a definite nutritive value and in the right proportion. Humus is a really vegetable matter in the process of decomposition. Soil containing humus is usually dark brown or black in color. Humus not only supplies the necessary food for our plants, but it makes the soil more friable and increases its capacity to hold water.

There are several ways of adding humus to the soil. Barnyard manure, turned under, makes excellent humus, but this is almost unobtainable except in the country or suburban sections. So the only thing left for gardeners in the city to do is to use peat moss or compost.

Every garden except the tiniest city garden should have a compost pile. Such a pile isn't difficult to arrange. All that is required to start a compost pile is a plot of ground 3 by 5 feet. On this ground place alternate layers of weeds, grass cuttings, vegetable residue, such as beet or carrot tops, potato parings and the outer leaves of lettuce or cabbage. These must be alternated with layers of soil.

The entire pile should be forked over every month, and during prolonged dry spells it must be thoroughly watered with a garden hose. It takes several months for the contents of a compost pile to decay, but when it does it will prove an excellent substitute for manure.

Where you have not the space to make a compost pile you can, as I suggested, use peat moss, which is really decayed or partly decayed vegetable matter from old swamps or bogs. Being odorless, it is clean and easy to use. When applied as a mulch it aids in the conservation of moisture, and when incorporated with the soil improves its texture.

All plants demand nitrogen, phosphorus and potash. To supply these elements incorporate well-rotted manure, bonemeal, dried sheep manure or some other substance with the soil.

Commercial plant foods such as can be purchased in any seed store will combine all the elements necessary to nourish plants. These foods have much to recommend them. They are easily used and their formulas have been most carefully worked out along scientific lines.

Always remember when applying fertilizer that it must not come into direct contact with the roots of the plants. Always wet the soil before using any fertilizer (this applies to top dressing), and when the operation is over be sure to soak the soil again.

AN UNUSUALLY BID SLAM.

IT IS a most exceptional thing for players at the Contract table to reach and make a Small Slam in notrump after their opponents have opened the bidding and after both players have passed their first opportunity to bid. However, when you are playing against superpsychists like my one-time teammate, Mr. John Rau, or like another brilliant young New York player, Mr. Edward Hymes, jr., anything may happen in the bidding and almost always does.

In a recent rubber game, they were pitted against Mr. William K. Barrett, also a former teammate of mine on a championship team-of-four, and Mr. Samuel Fry, jr., of New York, when along came the hand below:

South—Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

Mr. E. Hymes, Jr.
♡ K J 6 5 4 2
◇ 10 9 3
♣ 10 2

Mr. W. K. Barrett
♠ K Q 9 7
◇ A Q 6
♣ A K 9 7 5

Mr. Samuel Fry, Jr.
♡ A Q 10
◇ K J 8 2
♣ Q J 4 3

Mr. John Rau
♠ A J 10 5 2
♡ 9 8 7
◇ 7 5 4

The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♠(1)	Pass(2)	2♡(3)	Pass(4)
Pass(5)	3NT(6)	Pass	4NT(7)
Pass	5♣(8)	Pass	6NT(9)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—A venture by Mr. Rau into the realms of superpsychology, due to the scoring situation.

2—Mr. Barrett is quite certain that Mr. Hymes will bid something and give him an opportunity to enter the bidding later. Hence his pass on a 4½ honor-trick hand.

3—Mr. Hymes obliges.

4—Mr. Fry has no clue to the actual situation. The pass, therefore, is sound.

5—Satisfied that his Opening psychic has accomplished its purpose.

6—Mr. Barrett reasons that, with the enormous hand he holds, both of his opponents can not be telling the truth. With his strong holding in spades, he argues that his partner must have something in hearts, and if he bids only two notrump, his partner may think that he also has entered the misinformation class and that his bid of two notrump is based merely on a long club or diamond suit, to which he will run, if doubled. His bid of three notrump is designed to disclose the psychic to his partner.

7—Mr. Fry decodes his message.

8—In view of the previous bid and the score, the bid of five clubs is distinctly a Slam try.

9—The Slam invitation is rightly accepted.

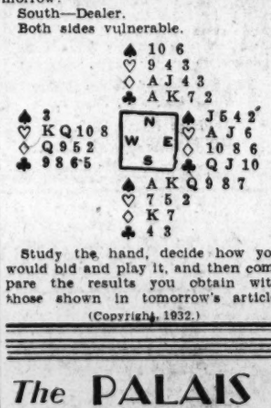
TODAY'S POINTER.

Bluff bids, so popular with many players, can not serve their purpose if the opposing players are alert. Either they are brushed aside, as though never made, or they are unnecessary, if partner's hand is a strong one.

Tomorrow's Hand.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

DRUGGISTS' SESSION WILL BE WEDNESDAY

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The annual district meeting of Group No. 1 of the Virginia Pharmaceutical Association will be held in Alexandria Wednesday in the George Mason Hotel, beginning at 9 a. m. with registration, followed by the morning business session which will start at 10 o'clock. Walter S. Nicklin, of Alexandria, vice president of the association, will preside, and H. C. Littlejohn, of Leesburg, will act as master of ceremonies. Col. Edgar Warfield is the first honorary life vice president of the State association.

The invocation at the opening session will be offered by the Rev. Ernest W. Aaron, pastor of the Washington Street Methodist Episcopal Church South, and this will be followed by addresses of welcome to the visitors by Mayor Edmund F. Tiee and Dan S. Hollengs, business manager of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce. A response will be delivered by C. W. Powers, of Roanoke, president of the association. The regular order of business will be taken up at 10:45 a. m., following a musical program.

A number of brief addresses are scheduled, among them being "The Leadbeater Store," by Howard S. Leadbeater, president of the Leadbeater Drug Corporation; "Some of the Problems Involved in Training Competent Pharmacists," by Dean Wortley F. Rudd, of the School of Pharmacy, Medical College of Virginia, Richmond; "Proprietary and Official Preparations in Prescriptions," by Dean W. Paul Briggs, of the School of Pharmacy, George Washington University, Washington; "A Glimpse of United States Revision Work," by Dr. W. G. Crockett, professor of pharmacy in the Virginia Medical College, Richmond; "Professional Pharmacy the Foundation of the Drug Store," by Dr. R. L. Swain, editor of the Maryland Pharmacist, Baltimore; "How the Commercial Auxiliary Assists the Retail Druggist," by Allen R. Cross, of Norfolk; "Legislation," by A. L. I. Winne, secretary of the association. This will be followed by the presentation of the papers and round table discussion.

After the luncheon at 1 o'clock the visitors will be taken on a sightseeing trip to places of interest in and near Alexandria.

Rehearsals are being held each night in Gadsby's Tavern for the play, "Once in a Blue Moon," to be presented on Thursday and Friday nights of this week, in the Maury School Auditorium, Alexandria, under the auspices of the American Legion Auxiliary. Mrs. J. L. Jennings and Miss Virginia Lumpkins, of Danville, representing the Oakes Studio, of Winston-Salem, N. C., are the directors.

Principal parts are to be taken by Mrs. Douglas Lindsay, Mrs. Clarence J. Robinson, Mrs. Evelyn Howard Sheridan, Miss Corinne T. Reardon, Miss Mary Davis, Allan Hunt Roberts, Frank Steele, J. William May, Richard F. Ross, Charles M. Shepperson, Jr., John Hauber, Raymond Hellmuth and Capt. John S. Arnold.

The playtime prologue will feature a number of children of the grade schools, and specialties will be a tap dance by Miss Margaret Eddington; solos, Talbott Haslett and Joseph S. Blackwell; song and dance, the Pierront twins; tap dance specialty, John Hauber; and dances, little Misses Harriet and Jane Hulfish. A girl's chorus will feature 24 high school students.

George W. Zachary, chairman of the reception committee for the Shrine ceremonial to be held in Alexandria in May, has appointed the following as members of his committee: William Lewis Allen, T. G. Ayers, D. E. Bayliss, T. A. Bayliss, C. H. Callahan, Ira E. Cannon, H. D. Carter, J. E. Cassidy, Dr. Thomas B. Cochran, R. H. Cox, S. Tifton Dove, Claude W. Fletcher, Maury W. Gaines, Joseph Haymen, Harry McP. Janney, T. M. Jones, C. C. Lamond, C. L. Limerick, Nelson T. Snyder, Charles B. Swan, G. W. Thornhill, Lewis C. Walker, Edgar Warfield, jr., J. W. May, W. L. Norford, J. L. Scruggs, C. Leo McKenney and William T. Wilkins.

The annual meeting with election of officers of the Alexandria Business and Professional Women's Club will be held tomorrow evening in the George Mason Hotel. Supper will be served at 7 o'clock, followed by the business session and election. Delegates to the annual State convention of the Virginia Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs to be held in Suffolk in May will also be chosen.

Liquor-Possession Count Laid to Man and Woman

A man and a woman were charged with transportation and possession of liquor yesterday after Prince Georges County police found six cases of reputed contraband in the back of their light roadster near College Park.

The prisoners are John W. Frederick, said to be the driver of the car, and Ruth Wright. Both said they lived in Washington. In addition to the liquor charges Frederick is charged with driving at a speed greater than reasonable and proper. The pair were arrested by Policeman Ralph Brown, who said he became suspicious of the car when it swung out of line of traffic to take a road back of the University of Maryland, near which they were captured.

Three Are Nominated For Vienna, Va., Mayor

Citizens of Vienna, Va., held a mass meeting in the town hall to prepare a slate of officers for the election in June.

Three candidates were nominated for mayor, C. A. Ashton, Arthur B. Barringer and Charles E. Burner. Eight candidates were nominated for the five offices as councilmen. These included the present mayor, Edgar T. Bennett, and Carl Allensworth, Joseph Berry, A. A. McGhee, F. N. Hagman, John Paul Jones, F. G. King and Thomas Mooreland. French N. Fritter was nominated for town sergeant.

FERVOR OF PILGRIMS HELD PRESENT NEED

Early Work of Priests in U.S. Is Lauded on Air by Father Nevils.

Turning back the pages of history to the early pioneer days, the Rev. W. Coleman Nevils, S. J., president of Georgetown University, told the story of the earliest Jesuit priests in Maryland and of their work among the Indians, at the Washington Catholic radio hour, broadcast from the Church of the Immaculate Conception yesterday afternoon.

Father Nevils discussed particularly Father Andrew White, believed to be the first priest to reach these shores; Father John Altman-Gravenor and Brother Thomas Gervase. Father White, a lecturer in sacred theology and scripture in two English seminaries established in Spain before he came to this country, was not in Maryland long before he composed a grammar, a dictionary and a catechism in the native tongue of the Indians, Father Nevils related.

Father White's most famous works, Father Nevils said, are a relation of the voyage from England and a small history of the Maryland colony, begun in 1634, and at present preserved in the Jesuit archives in Rome. Through these works, Father White is the first historian of Maryland, Father Nevils pointed out.

Tribute was paid by the Georgetown University president to the part played by Lord Baltimore and Cecil Calvert in the history of the pioneer Maryland priests, pointing out that it was through them that expeditions to the colony on the Chesapeake set forth in 1633.

"Only by returning to the spirit of the fathers of the Constitution, to the fervor of these Maryland pilgrims, to the Cross of Christ, may the people of the United States hope to form a more perfect union, establish justice, provide for the common defense, promote general welfare and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity," Father Nevils declared.

The Rev. Francis J. Hurney, pastor of the church and director of the broadcast services, presided. A feature of the service was the lighting of a perpetual light by 4-year-old James G. Rowe 3d, of Red Bank, N. J., in memory of his father, James G. Rowe, jr., the famous trainer of the Whitney stables. Many persons prominent in the horse racing world were present to view the ceremony.

The blessing of the sick and the solemn Lourdes procession took place in the grotto of Our Lady of Lourdes in the church. Miss Florence Yocum, Fred Nolan and Miss Ann Arlen were soloists in the musical program under the direction of Harry Wheaton Howard.

LOZIER TO ADDRESS ARLINGTON MEETING

Missouri Representative to Talk to Democrats at Club Tonight.

BUREAU OF THE POST,
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Representative Ralph F. Lozier, of Missouri, will be the principal speaker at the Democratic mass meeting to be held tonight in the Ashton Heights Woman's Clubhouse at 8 o'clock.

The meeting has been called by the newly organized Democratic Club of Arlington County, of which Robert N. Anderson is the president. This will be the first of a series of campaign activities for the year.

The Rosslyn Precinct Civic League will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow night in the auditorium of the Woodrow Wilson School, Fort Myer Heights, at 8 o'clock.

A feature of the meeting will be an address by Hugh Reid, delegate to the General Assembly from Arlington County, who will discuss the provisions of the Byrd road bill, passed at the recent session of the General Assembly.

Among other speakers will be Chairman of the County Board Harry A. Fellows and Fred A. Gosnell, member of the board, both of whom, it is understood, will discuss county affairs, with particular attention to county schools.

Dr. P. M. Chichester, Arlington County health officer, is announced as the principal speaker at the monthly meeting of the Clarendon Citizens Association, to be held tonight. The meeting will be held in the Reea Building, Wilson boulevard, Clarendon.

The Catholic Woman's Club, of St. Charles Catholic Church, at Clarendon, will meet tonight in the auditorium of St. Charles School at Clarendon.

Rosslyn Civic League Will Meet Tomorrow

The Rosslyn Precinct Civic League will meet tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the Woodrow Wilson School, Fort Myer Heights.

Among the speakers will be Delegate Hugh Reid, who will outline the provisions of the Byrd road bill passed at the recent session of the General Assembly, and Harry A. Fellows and Fred A. Gosnell, members of the county board.

Industrial Home Fugitive Caught

Boy, 16, Taken by Police in Falls Church; Was Planning Robbery.

Eugene Pinkus, 16, who police say escaped recently from the Boys Industrial Home in Washington, was captured early yesterday in Falls Church, Va. According to Town Sergeant Paul Herrman, who made the arrest, the boy had a kit of burglar tools in his possession. Taken to the town police station the youth confessed his identity. He said he had stolen the tools from a carpenter's box in a vacant house near Falls Church and that he was planning to rob Wares Drug Store in Falls Church when caught.

The youth was recognized by the police from a description broadcast over the Washington police radio a short time before. He was turned over to the Washington police yesterday morning.

Harry B. McClain and Walter Kinsley who gave their addresses as Washington were arrested Saturday night in Falls Church on charges of driving while under the influence of ardent spirits. Joseph E. Ball, of Falls Church, also was arrested on a similar charge. The men were taken before Mayor L. P. Daniel who ordered them held for trial. Bond was set at $500 each.

Associated Gas and Electric Security Holders

"Rights" to Subscribe to 8% Eight Year Gold Bonds have been Extended to May 9th

IN view of the many inquiries regarding Associated Gas and Electric Corporation 8% Eight Year Gold Bonds and requests for more time, it has been decided to extend the expiration date of the "rights" from April 7th to May 9th, 1932.

The response to this investment offering in the face of perhaps the most difficult security market in a generation, is distinctly encouraging, and has received the favorable comment of experienced security men. The bonds are offered first to the Company's present security holders because of their intrinsic value as an investment and because of the benefit of this financial program to all present security holders. To others, they are offered subject to confirmation.

Available in denominations of $10 and multiples in registered form and in denominations of $100, $500 and $1,000 in coupon form. Initial interest is 8½% (participating conditionally to 10%).

MRS. SABIN SCORES ENFORCEMENT COST

An attack on the cost of prohibition enforcement was voiced yesterday by Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, national president of the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform, when she arrived here for the third annual convention, which will open at the Mayflower Hotel tomorrow.

"The repeal of the eighteenth amendment, which women are advocating today because of the vicious influence of national prohibition upon home, community and government, will afford the Federal Government an opportunity to save $40,000,000 annually which is now squandered in a futile attempt at enforcement and to collect almost a billion dollars annually in taxes," Mrs. Sabin said.

Preliminary registration records show that this convention, the third annual gathering, will be the largest ever held by the group. Last year there were more than 1,000 delegates here, representing a membership of 300,000 in every State in the Union, officials said.

The purpose of the convention is to bring about "an imperative moral and social reform which is worth a billion dollars in cash to the taxpayers of this country," it was stated. The organization is working for laws to return the control of the liquor traffic to the States, relieving the Federal Government of the enforcement burden and giving it additional sources of tax revenue.

Columbia Players To Produce Drama

"Three Episodes in Life of Washington" Planned for April 20.

"Three Episodes From the Life of George Washington" will be featured by the Columbia Heights Community Center, in a Bicentennial program to be presented at Powell Junior High School Auditorium, Hiatt place, between Irving street and Park road northwest, Wednesday evening, April 20, at 8:20 o'clock, under the direction of Mrs. Edith H. Hunter, community secretary, and Mrs. Aurora M. Poston, of the Columbia Players.

The episodes were written by Maj. R. B. Lawrence, of the United States Bicentennial Commission, especially for the Bicentennial, and will be presented by the Columbia Players. Special musical numbers and dances of the period of George Washington will precede the presentation of the Bicentennial drama, and scenes from Sheridan's "School of Scandal" will be enacted by well-known actors of Washington.

Senora de Abelli Heard by Women

Feminist Movement in Bolivia, Topic Chosen by Minister's Wife.

"Bolivian women are taking part in the worldwide feminist advance. They are active at the moment in demanding the right to control their own property and equal guardianship of children," Senora de Abelli, wife of Don Luis Abelli, Minister of Bolivia to the United States, told members of the National Woman's Party yesterday at a tea given in her honor at Woman's Party headquarters, Alva Belmont House.

A native of Oregon, Senora de Abelli acquired Bolivian citizenship on her marriage. She has spent fifteen years in Bolivia, where her husband's family, owners of a tin mine near Cruro, have been prominently identified with the political and diplomatic development of the Republic.

Senora de Abelli said Bolivian women in increasing numbers are preparing themselves for the professions of law, dentistry, and medicine, as well as teaching. She attributed to the unity of family life in Bolivia and to the consideration given the opinions of women the relatively late appearance of a feminist movement in that country.

Forum Speaker Assails Good Faith of Churches

"Some Rackets in Religion" was the subject of the lecture by Harlan E. Glazier last night before the Washington Open Forum in the Sears, Roebuck Art Galeries, 1106 Connecticut avenue northwest.

"The churches are, as a rule, shot through with commercialism," said Mr. Glazier, who is a former Universalist clergyman and now engaged in newspaper work. Questioned by T. J. Morgan, director of the art galleries, as to whether he had been unfrocked from the ministry, Mr. Glazier replied, "No, I quit voluntarily. I came to the conclusion that I could do society more good in some other field of activity than in preaching." Glazier ridiculed revivals and evangelism, and said that they were money-making schemes in which the leaders profited from public credulity.

Holy Comforter Pupils To Stage Show Tonight

A Bicentennial entertainment entitled "Betsy Ross in Old Glory," will be presented by the children of Holy Comforter School tonight at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium at Fifteenth and East Capitol streets.

Principal parts will be taken by William McDermott as George Washington; Marion McGinley as Martha Washington; Thomas Dalden as Col. Ross; Ralph de la Vergne as Robert Morris; Paul McCloskey as Capt. Anderson; Catherine Bullough as Betsy Ross; Catherine Murphy as Patience, and Margaret Tandella as Penelope.

Moody Graduates Capital Girl.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

HAD I seen the act upon the stage before being led back to its star's dressing room, I probably could have done much better. It would have been very elegant, indeed, to have pilfered a page from Kearney Walton's reporter's notebook.

Lilyan Tashman.

But I had not then seen the act. And just as I arrived at the theater, a couple of the boys were going back to photograph Miss Tashman in her dressing-room at the Rialto and I was behested to await the consummation of this formal but delightful function. It was no more than the twinkling of an eye—mine don't, do yours?—before these earnest lads came tearing through the theater, across the Temple of Apollo foyer and out through the lobby to the safe haven of Ninth street, closely pursued by the anguished cries of the sore beset.

So when Mr. Collier was conducting me through that bewildering subterranean labyrinth of winding stairs, iron doors that swing, slide and fold; utter darkness and blinding light—there must have been a speakeasy back there sometime, although I can not seem to recall when—I felt a good deal like a Daniel being led into the Lilyan's den!

Which just goes to show how much further along my paresis has progressed than even I had suspected.

"RADIANT" is the word, I think, that most succinctly describes the first impression conveyed by this exhilarating young woman. "Dazzling," were it not quite so garish, would almost be it. Even on a day like Saturday, it seemed, upon opening Miss Lilyan Tashman's dressing-room door, as if the sun had suddenly come out!

She shrewdly goes in for spotlessly white personal investiture, which no doubt has much to do with it. A white silk pajama lounging suit, at the moment, if you have to know everything!

Blonde hair, trickily and expensively coiffed, with the gold showing through in any light—Miss Tashman emphatically is not a platinum—smooth, fair skin, rouged, to be sure, in the exaggerated tones of stage makeup; blue eyes—or maybe they were grey-green, I wouldn't be positive—beautifully barricaded by inch-long lashes, heavily beaded with mascara; nails blood-red that might as effectually a sea incarnadine as Lady Macbeth's "damned spots;" eyelids, deeply shadowed with the footlights' required blue-green, and lips scarlet from a lipstick of precisely the proper shade to complete an ensemble which, I should say, marks the peak of artistic achievement in personal beautification.

It was at this point in my dull-eyed observations that I passed out, as best I can piece events together, and contented myself with listening to Miss Tashman's cogent views, while she daintily devoured an orange or two to counterbalance the evil effects of a long tour of stage appearances and a bit of bungling dentistry which have left her a pound or two underweight.

Personally, with such a perfectly proportioned silhouette, I can not at all comprehend what difference a meager pound or two, one way or the other, can possibly make. But then, I wouldn't know.

"YES," I seem vaguely to recall Miss Tashman's saying, "I feel very much at home in Washington and love the place immensely. I was here, you know, in 'The Gold Diggers,' in one of George Marshall's stock companies at the Belasco; in the 'Follies,' with Will Rogers, and some other pre-Broadway openings. Then, too, many of the stage pieces in which my husband played before going into pictures, opened here. So you see!

"Since you ask, marriage, in the profession just as everywhere else, is precisely as important as you make it. Edmund Lowe and I have made ours very important. We are hopelessly in love and no marriage could have been happier than ours. If this 'personal appearance' tour doesn't end soon, I will be bankrupt, despite a higher salary than the pictures return, purely by the outrageous cost of phoning Eddie three or four times a day over the destructive toll wires of the A., T. & T., whose regular dividends I surely must personally have increased!

"Oh, let me see. Well, by the time I call it a day and get back to picture making, I will have had about nine weeks of this exciting stage business. There is a new picture awaiting me and I love making them. It is a good deal like your own racket—or is that what it is?—never two days alike; constant change, no interminable appearances in the same role night after night, after night.

"There has been a kick in this tour, at that. Just back from Europe, you know, with all the new frocks and things; two weeks, originally scheduled as one, at the New York Paramount; two at the Brooklyn Paramount; a congenial booking or two in the Middle West—it was in St. Louis that the guy pulled the wrong tooth, or did I tell you?—and now Washington! It's a great life, but, after all, what's the idea of being happily married if you are separated from your husband by 3,000 miles? I ask you."

Which reminded me that Eddie Lowe has himself a lot of luck, in addition to being a pretty good actor and handsome!

RELAUNCHING the canoe and battling the rapids from the Rialto up to the pipe-smoke carry at Fifteenth and G streets, I swam the last few miles into Hardie Meakin's office at RKO-Keith's and was piloted back to convey my further Saturday felicitations to Charley Chase upon his arrival in the National Capital during an inspiring spasm of "real California climate"—may the gods forbid!

Charley Chase.

Having been born in Baltimore and playing there during the recent snowstorm, when Ben Lyon and Bebe Daniels were endeavoring to "sight-see" the marvels of Washington as a sideline to Ben's personal appearance at the Fox, Charley was able to summon a grin and guess that in the course of time things would be meteorologically better.

Yeah, just around the corner—with prosperity and the recovery of the Lindbergh baby, victim of the most pernicious piece of deviltry ever perpetrated.

There was still some of the red paint needed for his clowning in the Al Corelli act, that closes the vaudeville portion of the program at RKO-Keith's, smeared on the Chase proboscis when I was ushered again into the dressing-room where I have had pleasant visits with Belle Bennett, Harry Langdon, Irene Rich, Kate Smith—hi, old pal!—and others whom you have met perhaps a little more intimately through this column, but it would have taken a deal more than this bit of pigment to disguise the genuineness of this favorite comedian.

CHARLEY CHASE is, in addition to being as versatile and as resourceful a comedian as the screen can boast—despite the fact that it utilizes his manifold talents principally in camera subjects of less than feature length—a family man who never glorifies his professional activities beyond the substantial demands of his duty to two charming daughters, June, 15, and Polly, 13.

The remark that he had played Baltimore in the same storm that cramped the style of Ben Lyon and Bebe Daniels here, prompted the inquiry if he and Ben might, by any happenstance, have been contemporaries in Baltimore's halls of learning, where Ben acquired his education.

"No," replied Mr. Chase, "Ben is younger than I am, but my brother, who plays about Washington almost as much as he does Baltimore, as a representative of Armour & Co., was a classmate of Ben's and we have much in common."

It was here that I mentioned the pefiance that had been demanded of Ben in making a picture for a company not his contract holder.

"Yes," said Charley, "that is often done, but just how long did Ben have to labor on this foreign set?"

"They tell me it was eleven days," quoth I.

"He got off easy," observed this fellow who ought to know. "That company has worked a lot faster than eleven days. They make many of their pictures inside the limit of a single week.

"For instance, Blanche Mehaffey, who has done a good deal of work in our short-reel units, was working on a set next to mine one afternoon when I started home to dinner. I stopped by the stage to tell her good night. The next morning at 9, when I turned up at the studio ready for work, Blanche and her associates were already there ahead of me.

"'Ah, hah!' says I. 'You beat me to it this morning!'

"'Whadda ya mean, beat you to it,' quoth Blanche. 'We've been here all night.'"

The fact of the matter is that Blanche had fainted during the long stretch of a 24-hour turn at the business of being a movie actress and had required the services of a physician during the night.

CHARLEY CHASE, though, is not a sensationalist. He approaches the task of being an ace movie comic from the viewpoint of one who has already gone through the rigors of trying to be funny to the satisfaction of vaudeville, musical comedy and motion picture audiences. He had succeeded in each field.

I should say that the boy is close to 6 feet tall. I imagine that, at the present moment he is a trifle underweight. Five feet eleven, or so in height, he should score poundage 'way up there. I doubt if he weighs 150, although he may be 'way over that.

One of the foremost of the Chase laments is that the feature screen finds it possible to make so many uses of ideas which are originated by those who first conceive the ideas for strictly short-reel comedy purposes.

For example, Charley once devised the idea of singing a quartet with himself. This was done by first singing the air for one sound track, then singing a tenor to the lead, a baritone to the lead and tenor and so on until by multiple-recording the whole business had been placed on the sound track. He resents the fact that this idea was subsequently pilfered by a feature production that starred a noted operatic barytone.

I don't blame him.

Spanish War Veterans Camp Is Planning Ball

Invitations to a Bicentennial military ball, to be given at the Willard Hotel on April 21, have been sent to President Hoover and all other members of the national and city governments, according to an announcement of the Gen. Nelson A. Miles Camp, No. 1, of the United Spanish War Veterans, which is sponsoring the affair.

Boxes are being reserved for disabled soldiers from Walter Reed and for past commanders of the camp. A feature of the ball will be a series of eight tableaux, showing scenes from the Revolutionary War, and various local theaters also are furnishing acts.

FRANKLIN PYTHIANS PLAN CELEBRATION

Oldest Lodge in Order Will Be Host Wednesday on Its 68th Anniversary.

Franklin Lodge, No. 2, the oldest Knights of Pythias Lodge in the world, will celebrate its sixty-eighth anniversary Wednesday evening, and every indication is that this will be one of the greatest Pythian meetings ever held in the District of Columbia, which is the birthplace of the Pythian Order.

Franklin Lodge, No. 2, was organized on April 12, 1864, and has since that time held the original charter. Washington Lodge, No. 1, which was the first lodge organized by Rathbone, did not survive very long and soon consolidated with Franklin Lodge, No. 2, therefore, Franklin Lodge can truly be called the Mother Lodge of the Supreme Domain.

Representative George Huddleston, a past chancellor of Alabama, will be the principal speaker, and several other representatives and senators will be on the program. The Supreme Lodge will be represented by James Dunn, of Cleveland, Ohio, and several other Supreme Lodge officers will attend. All Grand Lodge officers of the District of Columbia, as well as Pythian Sisters, will attend, and this is to be an open meeting for all Pythians, their families and friends. Refreshments will be served.

All of the nearby Maryland and Virginia lodges have been invited, and the Grand Lodge of Maryland, which will close its annual meeting in Baltimore Wednesday afternoon, is expected to come in a body. The Supreme Lodge has requested each subordinate lodge in the United States and Canada to either be represented at this meeting or send a message of greeting.

Joe King Stanley, Chris Panagos, Lewis Theon and James Carros are in charge of the program and these officials say this will be one of the best Knights of Pythias meetings ever held in Washington. Each of the fourteen lodges in the District is expected to be represented by a large delegation. The ceremonies will begin at 8 o'clock in the Pythian Castle.

Bridge Tourney Winners Listed

Trophies to Be Presented This Afternoon in Labor Building.

Winners of cups in the bridge tournament sponsored by the Federal News and held at the Carlton Hotel Friday and Saturday were announced yesterday. The tournament was one of the largest ever held here.

The trophies will be presented to the winners at 5 o'clock this afternoon in the office of the National Federation of Federal Employes in the Labor Building at Delaware avenue and B street southwest. Those receiving cups are:

The "member pair" having the largest score, Miss Eva Brauman and Miss Annie Jones, members of the women's union of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing; in the advanced contract section, the cup donated by Mr. Stockvis was won by Mrs. E. B. Swanson, and the Joseph A. Wilner cup by E. B. Swanson; Trades Unionist and Great Valley Anthracite Corporation cups were won by Charles A. Bernard and W. Frank Gibbs; the intermediate contract cups, donated by Fiester & Hippler, the Accredited Bridge Teachers Association, Palace Laundry and Federal Employes Union No. 260, of the Bureau of Standards, were won by Ina R. Hughes and Ethel Richardson and E. A. Perkins and Romayne Rowe; the Advanced Auction Federation Cup was won by Elsie Walter, and the William Wood Cup was won by Maude A. Fuschine; the L. C. Smith Typewriter and Standard Engraving Cups were won by Sallie Redd and Mattie Pinette; the intermediate auction cups, all given by the National Federation of Federal Employes, were won by Eva Brauman, Annie Jones and J. L. Luber and R. W. Carnahan. The cash prize of $10 donated by Federal Employes Union No. 262, of the Treasury Department, in the advanced contract section as second prize, won by Mrs. H. T. Wensel and H. T. Wensel, $5, and Mazie Bule and V. A. Clarke, $5.

Pictures to Accompany Lecture on Holy Land

An illustrated lecture on the Holy Land will be given next Saturday at the University Club by Dr. Earle Wilfley, under the auspices of the Phi Kappa Fraternity. Dr. Wilfley is pastor emeritus of National City Christian Church.

During 1929 he traveled extensively in Palestine, and was one of the first to go through the Holy Land after the Arab-Jewish riots. The slides which will illustrate his lecture are hand-colored and made from photographs taken by experts from the American colony at Jerusalem. Dr. Wilfley was chairman of the committee which organized the Washington Federal of Churches, and was later president of the federation.

CHEST'S ECONOMIES TOLD BY TREASURER

Expenses for First Quarter Drop, Despite Larger Amounts Handled.

Expenses of conducting the Community Chest for the first three months of 1932 were $20,000 less than for the same period last year, Robert V. Fleming, treasurer of the Chest, said yesterday. In spite of handling greatly increased amounts of money, the Chest reduced operating expenses approximately 25 per cent.

This reduction was made possible, Mr. Fleming said, by economies effected in handling the 1932 campaign, especially in the Government departments, where a committee of Government officials took over the work of organization and solicitation, and by the fact that the Government departments and a large number of firms in the group solicitation unit are handling their own collections.

The report shows the Chest disbursed to member organizations $728,397.14, as compared to $428,082.40 in the first three months of 1931, an increase of approximately $300,000. The increase, it was stated, was made necessary by the unemployment situation and consequent increased demands for relief.

Based upon this average of $300,000 more to the agencies in three months, the Chest would face an alarming deficit, it was pointed out, as the payments would mean increases in a year of $1,200,000 over payments last year, while pledges were only $500,000 more than those of 1931. Part of the increase, however, was paid to the District of Columbia Committee on Employment, which will have received its final funds from the Chest on May 1, so that this $250,000 will not be paid out in the next three quarters.

40 Traffic Lights To Be Transferred Signals Will Be Placed at Intersections Where Need Is Greater.

Forty traffic signal lights are to be switched from their present locations to intersections where the flow of traffic has been shown by surveys to indicate the greater need of light control. This move was indicated by Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer after studies at ten intersections had shown there was no need for traffic lights at those points. Instead of scrapping the lights, however, it was decided to place them at points where they would be of use.

The traffic head would not specify the crossings to which the lights would be moved or those from which the lights are to be transferred. Approval of the action by the Commissioners is expected.

Workmen for the Potomac Electric Power Co. today will begin work at 105 intersections installing secondary timing apparatus on lights at those points. Officials expect that the flexible progressive system thus enabled will help greatly in relieving traffic congestion on arterial streets.

Erskine to Speak Tomorrow Night

"Music in Our Daily Lives" to Be Topic at Central High Center.

John Erskine, one of America's distinguished and brilliant novelists, essayists and critics, author of "The Private Life of Helen of Troy," "Galahad," "Adam and Eve" and other equally popular works of fiction, will be the speaker in the final event on the lecture course of 1932 offered by the Community Institute of Washington.

Prof. Erskine, who is president of the Juilliard Foundation and School of Music in New York, will be heard in a lecture, "Music in Our Daily Lives," tomorrow night at 8:15 o'clock in the auditorium of Central High Community Center, Thirteenth and Clifton streets.

Dr. Erskine's appearance is the twelfth biweekly event of the institute course for the season, which has been notable for a number of outstanding speakers and musical programs. This is the longest series ever undertaken by the board of directors of the Community Institute.

Depression Not Caused By God, Pastor Says

"The depression of society is caused not by God, but by social foolishness or ignorance," said the Rev. Russell J. Clinchy, pastor of Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, yesterday in his sermon "Does God Cause a Depression?"

Dr. Clinchy assigned two main reasons for depressed conditions. One was "world debts which can not be paid." The other was "the construction of the machine within a social system that was not devised to control it."

THE THEATER YESTERDAY

"THE GIRL FROM THE REEPERBAHN." Talking Picture Epics release of the Sonor Film picturization of the story "Das Madel von der Reeperbahn," by Benno Vigny, featuring Hans von Schlettow, Olga Tschekova, and Trude Berliner. Directed by Karl Anton. At the National Theater. Reviewed by W. A. Whitney.

Lighthouses have infrequently been used as motion picture locales, but when they have been employed a highly entertaining picture has resulted. "The Girl From the Reeperbahn" is no exception. It is a masterfully constructed drama whose understanding and appreciation is not at all handicapped by its being all German. Naturally, a better than working knowledge of the language is advantageous, but far from being necessary, so clearly are the characterizations drawn and the story told.

In a picture such as this, names mean little to the American public; yet Hans von Schlettow and Olga Tschekova, as the light-keeper and his wife, are those with whom there ought to be greater familiarity.

Three songs—"Du bist fur mich," "Wir wollen Tango tanzen" and "Ein Madel von der Reeperbahn"—are worked into the action in an admirable manner.

Rounding out a German afternoon, there were shown "Johann Strauss," one of the Fitzpatrick music master series, and "Submarine U-35," an official German record of the "spurlos versenkt" activities of this craft.

"RUNACUORI." Cines-Pittaluga picturization of a story by Gino Rocca and Dino Falconi, featuring Armando Falconi, supported by Mary Kid, Grazia Del Rio and Tina Lattanzi. Directed by Guido Brignone. At the National Theater. Reviewed Sunday evening by W. A. Whitney.

A rousingly hilarious comedy this, which runs its farcical course uninterrupted by any semblance of seriousness and full of situations which, in any man's language, mean fun—and loads of it.

It is the frequently told story of a philandering business man who unwittingly becomes embroiled in a jewel robbery. In his efforts to return the gem to its rightful owner, he is ever being blocked by his wife's jealousy and that of the husband of the pendant's owner. Finally all is explained—but the old boy is not cured of his weakness.

The other members of the cast are known but, unfortunately, credit for especially commendable performances can not be placed with the proper names. Suffice it to say, however, that it is an exceptionally capable cast.

To complete an all-Italian evening, the Vitaphone short, "The Troubadour," with Giovanni Martinelli, and "Ninna Nanna delle Dodici Mamme," a composite picturization of twelve mothers' interpretations of the old Italian lullaby are shown.

"WHY DIDN'T I SAVE $15.80 On My Automobile Insurance?"

CONSIDER THESE SAVINGS in this $23,000,000 Company

This chart shows how much the Liberty Mutual dividend has reduced the cost of complete insurance on cars in Washington. Liberty Mutual has paid 20% dividends off standard rates to every policyholder every year for 20 years.

UP TO $15.80	UP TO $12.00	UP TO $10.79
Monthly payments, if desired

"WHY SHOULD I pay $15.80 more for my car insurance than my friends who buy their insurance direct from Liberty Mutual?

"My broker doesn't like it. That's natural because the Liberty won't pay him a commission. They sell direct and pass along the savings to you in dividends. Liberty Mutual spends only one-third as much as other companies spend to sell a dollar's worth of automobile insurance.

"Liberty Mutual accepts insurance from careful drivers only. This reduces accidents and results in further savings for policyholders.

"Liberty Mutual has no stockholders. It pays all dividends to its policyholders in cash.

"This plan would have saved me $15.80 on the insurance of my Cadillac in 1931.

"Liberty Mutual has an unbroken record of earning and paying 20% dividends off standard rates to its policyholders for 20 years and has added substantial sums to surplus and reserves each year. The company now has assets of over $23,000,000 and is the largest mutual liability insurance company in the country. 99% of its cases are settled without trial in court, which proves that Liberty Mutual must be fair and prompt in making settlements.

"Liberty Mutual has more than 100,000 policyholders—responsible, careful-driving car-owners. They have saved over $32,000,000 for their policyholders—and I could just as well have had my share of it."

MONDAY APRIL 11, 1932 SPORTS

NATS DRILL IN RAIN FOR SEASON'S OPENER TODAY

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THIS column long ago nominated for oblivion the "Did You Know That—" columnist. He gives me the same feeling of revulsion that does the fellow who squeezes your tube of shaving cream in the middle. They are my pet aversion. It's just their way of parading before the public the fact that they do know something. Usually it's freshly acquired knowledge that the "Did You Know" boys are taking a bow on. They seem as if they're poking fun at our own ignorance, and taking a secret delight in it under the guise of columning.

But I have received in the mails a pamphlet from the Hon. William Harridge, president of the American League, containing the league regulations for 1932, a veritable fund of information, and I am passing it on in the belief that they are of interest to the lay fans.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

—No American League player should ever appear in a soiled uniform.

—Home clubs must deliver to the umpires fifteen minutes before game time four dozen balls for each game.

—One umpire in uniform must be at the park and take charge of the field one hour before the advertised time for starting the game. It is the duty of this official to see that the visiting club is allotted —Twenty minutes' batting and fielding practice.

—Twenty minuets' batting and ten minutes' fielding practice is permitted the visiting club.

—A fine of $5 will be imposed by the umpire on any player conversing with the spectators before or during the game.

—Umpires must compare their watches each day with a Western Union clock before starting for the ball park.

—Advertisers installing clocks in the outfield are compelled to check up the accuracy of the clock one hour before each game.

—When two games are advertised for the price of one admission, the first game must be completed before the second game can be started.

—Before a Sunday game is started in Boston the umpire in chief must notify both managers that no inning will be started after 6:15 p. m.

—Players must not throw the last ball in play to boys who crowd on the field or into the stands at the conclusion of the game.

—After taking his position at the plate the batter leaves the box at his own risk unless the umpire calls "Time." The umpire always calls "Time" when requested to do so.

—One infielder and the catcher may approach and talk to the pitcher when he is in trouble. All other players must remain in their positions.

—A manager may approach a pitcher only once for the purpose of consulting with him about his ability to continue in the game.

—American League pitchers are not permitted to work with ragged or "slit" sleeves which have the effect of confusing the batsman.

—If a fielder falls into the stand after catching a fly ball beyond the outfield end of the players' bench, the base runner shall be entitled to advance only one base.

—When a pitched ball sticks in the screen or goes into the stands or the dugouts or is touched by a spectator, the base runner is entitled to advance only one base, and the ball is dead.

—When a player or manager has been put out of the game by an umpire during the first game of a double-header, he is through for the day and will not be permitted on the field for the second game.

—Notice that a game is being played under protest must be given the umpire in chief by the captain or manager during the progress of the game or before the team leaves the field.

—When a pitcher in the bull pen removes his sweater it must be placed on the bench.

HAWKS NEED PLAYERS.

The Hawk Midgets are in dire need of additional players to bolster the team for the 1932 campaign. Those interested should call Lincoln 8367-J.

OTHER BIG LEAGUE TEAMS WILL OPEN SEASON TOMORROW

Mack Sees Loss of 1931 World's Series Boon to Athletics; New York Fans Claiming Pennant for Yankees.

ST. LOUIS, April 10 (A.P.).—With retention of their National League pennant as their goal, the world champion Cardinals will open the season Tuesday in a game here with the Pittsburgh Pirates. The St. Louis Browns will be in Chicago the same day for their first American League game, but any title hopes held by this St. Louis team have not been broadcast by its members.

Flint Rhem, who pitched the Cardinals to victory in their opening games of the last two years, will be given the opportunity again this year. Rhem was credited with a victory over the Browns Saturday in the first of the spring series between the Browns and Cards for the hometown fans.

Tigers Hope for Pleasant Surprise.

Detroit, April 10 (A.P.). — There will be something of neighborhood rivalry and a good deal of ceremony Tuesday when the Detroit Tigers open their 1932 baseball season at Navin Field. The opposition will be furnished by the neighboring Lake City of Cleveland, a team local followers of the sport particularly like to see beaten.

The ceremonial pitching and catching of the first ball by the governor and mayor will start a season which everybody connected with the Tigers hopes will bring some pleasant surprises. There has been less optimistic predicting than in some former years, and that very fact appears to have inspired a hope that the Tigers may climb into the first division.

Vic Sorrell and Harold (Muddy) Ruel comprise the probable Tiger battery for the opener.

The club made no announcement as to advance ticket sales, but indications were that, with fair weather, the stands and bleachers would be well filled.

Red Sox Going Somewhere, Says Collins.

Boston, April 10 (A.P.).—Now that the Boston Red Sox have lost their last place complex, they are going to get somewhere in the American League race, Manager "Shano" Collins predicted today.

"While I don't want to be too optimistic over the coming season," he said, "I can not help believing that the club will be better this year than it was in 1931.

"The boys have lost their inferiority complex and when we are playing the Athletics or Yankees, they'll battle them just as confidently as they would the St. Louis Browns or Chicago White Sox."

Manager Bill McKechnie appears equally sanguine about the Braves' prospects. He believes he has the best outfielding trio that has worn the tribal spangles in years.

"Our pitching is going to be much better this year, although the 1931 collapse could not be traced to our hurling," he said. "We had too many youngsters on the club last year, but they all came through the mill and are now seasoned enough for major league ball."

Three Flag Contenders In New York.

New York, April 10 (A.P.).—New York will start the major league season with three pennant contenders two of them bona fide, the other perhaps just hopeful.

The Yankees expect to give the Athletics their greatest opposition in the American League and the Giants figure to finish one-two in the National. The Brooklyn Dodgers, rebuilt by Max Carey, may surprise the National circuit if "key" men in the line-up come through.

The Giants will have only one newcomer, outfielder Len Koenecke, in the opening line-up against the Phillies although Hal Schumacher may prove a useful addition to the pitching staff. Freddie Lindstrom, handy man of the club, will be in center field as long as Second Baseman Hughie Critz's arm holds up. Walker or Fitzsimmons will pitch the opener.

The Yankees will try two new men in the infield, Jack Saltzgaver at second and Frank Crosetti at either third or shortstop, and Sam Byrd may get the call over Earle Combs in center field. Vernon Gomez or Charlie Ruffing will pitch the opener against the Athletics.

Brooklyn will present virtually a new club with Hack Wilson expected to take up the clean-up role vacated by Babe Herman. Glenn Wright is the only infield holdover with Joe Stripp at third, Tony Cuccinello at second and "Long George" Kelly at first until the ailing Del Bisonette returns to action. Waite Hoyt, principal addition to the pitching staff in the off-season, probably will pitch the opening game against the Boston Braves.

Both Teams Improved, Say Philadelphia Pilots.

Philadelphia, April 10 (A.P.).—Just one of baseball's vagaries is the apparent paradox in the attitudes of Philadelphia's two teams as they take the pennant trail on Tuesday.

Connie Mack thinks the Athletics have lost some of their confidence by their world series defeat and have improved accordingly. Burt Shotton thinks the Phillies have gained confidence and have improved accordingly.

The Associated Press consensus rated the Phils to wind up in sixth place in the senior circuit this year, but that didn't stop Connie Mack from expressing the thought that the National Leaguers might cop the pennant. He said it after his A's had been soundly trimmed in the annual city series.

Phil Collins, the fidgety, has been nominated to take the hill for the Phils when they open at the Polo Grounds Tuesday. Connie Mack, as is his custom, has declined to announce his starting pitcher, but the "experts" think the Yankees will face George Earnshaw at Shibe Park.

Indians Hope to Furnish Upset.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 10 (A.P.).—The Cleveland Indians jump into the American League race Tuesday at Detroit with all the potentialities of a monkey wrench in the well-known machinery.

Materially strengthened at the Formal Opener Apr. 20 If It Rains Here Today

In case today's scheduled 1932 opening game between the Nationals and Boston Red Sox is called off on account of rain, the Washington Baseball Club announces that the formal opening, with President Herbert Hoover tossing out the first ball and all of the ceremonies scheduled for this afternoon, will be postponed until Wednesday, April 20, when the Red Sox again visit the Capital. The same tickets, calling for the same seats, will be good on that date.

The Nationals play here again before April 20, being booked to meet the Philadelphia Athletics at Griffith Stadium next Sunday, but local club officials have voted down any proposition calling for a formal Sabbath inaugural.

Navy Marathoners Lead K. of C. Race

Moylan and Nagonbe Run 1-2 Ahead of Agee in 15-Mile Jaunt.

Navy runners led the field home in the 15-mile practice run staged by the Knights of Columbus yesterday. R. J. Moylan negotiated the distance in 1:33.02 to finish first, and H. L. Nahgonbe crossed the finish line in second position, completing the run in 1:33.05.

Bill Agee, nationally known marathon runner, and Pat Denges, both of the Stonewall Democratic Club, of Baltimore, tied for third place. They were clocked in 1:33.24. Bill Greiner, K. of C., was fifth. His time was 1:39.57. Mike Lynch, local veteran, jogged the distance in 1:45.39 for sixth position, and Haskell Clark, of the Stonewall Club, was seventh. He was timed at 1:48.26. Bill Dias, Carl Anderson and Jerry Looney dropped out after running more than half the distance.

The trial was held over the new Mount Vernon boulevard. The start was made at a point one mile north of Washington's famous homestead, and the finish was at the K. of C. Hall, 928 Tenth street northwest. Over this same course the District of Columbia marathon championship will be contested next month, and the national in August.

Pitching Nominees for Inaugural Game

FATE BRINGS RAY BOWEN CHANCE

Gets Nursery Card Battle Due to Injury to Burns.

THE whims of fate controlling Ray Bowen, popular local lightweight, have brought him back to the ring sooner than he had hoped for, following the disappointing cancellation of his District welterweight championship bout with Sammy Braunstein. Bowen was to have fought Sammy for the title last Tuesday but an eye infection prevented.

Bowen is to fight tomorrow night on the Day Nursery benefit card at Alexandria, his chance presented through an accident suffered by Bobby Burns, of Baltimore. But Braunstein is not his opponent. He will face Tootsie Bashara, hard-hitting Norfolk Assyrian, whom Burns was scheduled to meet in one of the three eight-round features.

Injury to Burns Gives Bowie Chance.

The eye disorder cleared up shortly after Ray's physician ordered a layoff from action, but as the Braunstein scrap already had been canceled. Bowen's immediate future didn't seem rosy.

Then fate again intervened. Burns was defeated Friday night by Eddie Cool in Philadelphia, sustaining a deep cut over one eye, which required three stitches and made impossible his appearance tomorrow night. Notified late Saturday night of Burns' misfortune, Frankie Mann, Nursery matchmaker, started combing the ranks of possible substitutes, and the first one he raked in was none other than the popular Ray Bowen.

Bowen grabbed the opportunity like one of the unemployed does a turkey sandwich. He was happy not only to secure an engagement so soon after his own disappointment, but to be able to meet the fighter who avoided him a couple of months ago. Bashara looked the other way when offered a match with Ray in Norfolk.

Having shown rare form in stopping the winning streak of Patsy Lewis a while back, Bowen will go to the post with plenty of support. Bashara is due for trouble. Another incentive for Bowen is the opportunity of avenging the knockout of his stablemate, Sailor McKenna, whom Bashara recently stopped in two rounds.

Boxer vs. Slugger to Clash.

Bowen is more of a boxer than a slugger. Tootsie is strictly a slugger. So with the weights favoring him—probably 140 to 135—Bowen is expected to stand off the rushing little Assyrian and teach him that a good left hand, speedy footwork and right-

LIVELY MAT BOUTS HERE TONIGHT

Pojello - McGill and Martin-Laditzi at Bolling Field.

TWO wind-ups of exceptional promise will feature an all-star wrestling card tonight when the Bolling Field Athletic Association offers its regular Monday night show. Hostilities begin at 8:30.

Outstanding will be the finish go involving Karl Pejolle, Lithuanian idol, and Pat McGill, Irish giant. Scarcely secondary in interest, however, will be the other star grapple in which "Bool" Martin, "uncrowned king" of Bowser's belligerents, does battle with rough Rudy Laditzi, a hot contender for Martin's mythical laurels.

Seldom have Washingtonians been treated to a more promising match than that featuring Pejolle and McGill. Evenly matched, clever and colorful, these resourceful artists may be counted upon to provide some of the liveliest rassling seen here in some time.

Martin and Laditzi In "Natural."

Martin and Laditzi shape up as "naturals" in every sense of the word. Naturally rough and ready, both will be set for a wild evening.

Supplementaries are to involve Sam Cordevano and Joe Massime, Danny Winters and "Bull" Garnon and John Siejack and Fred Locke.

Tickets are to remain on sale at Goldie Ahern's until 5 p. m. today, ladies being charged half-price, due to the expense of the card.

RAIN HALTS TOURNAMENT.

The miniature tournament scheduled for today on the course of the Indian Spring Golf Club, under the auspices of the Women's District Golf Association, has been postponed until tomorrow because of the wet condition of the course.

Capital City Midget Nines Meet Tonight to Organize

THE first conference of the season for managers of teams planning to enter the midget division of The Post's Capital City League, will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the office of the Playground Department at the District Building. Representatives of all teams desiring franchises in the loop are requested to be present. As in the past, The Post will award individual gold baseballs to the team winning the city championship.

This division was one of the smallest in the entire league last year, but the brand of play exhibited by the teams more than offset the lack of numerical strength. The 1931 campaign was one of the bitterest in the annals of the league. Although all of the teams had a hand in the melee, the Wonder Boys, coached by Bill Poole, and Spengler Post, under the guidance of Jim Hayre, furnished the chief attractions.

Spengler won the first half flag, and the Wonder Boys the second half bunting. Three torrid games were played with the city title at stake, and Spengler finally gained that honor in the waning innings of the third and deciding game. Another such race is anticipated this year, the general improvement of the midget teams leads observers to believe the race will be wide open.

Important changes in rules will be discussed tonight, a tentative schedule drawn up, an opening date selected, and other matters pertaining to the league disposed of. It is imperative that all team pilots attend tonight in order to obtain correct information concerning the activities of the league.

Two other divisions of the circuit are scheduled to meet this week. The unlimited teams will hold their second confab Wednesday night, and the Insect division program will be mapped out at a conference Friday night. Both meetings will start at 8 p. m., in the Playground Department office.

FINNS CLEAR NURMI OF CHARGES

Distance Star Given Clean Slate in Report to I. A. A. F.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, April 10 (A.P.).—Finnish athletic authorities took a long step forward today in their effort to clear Paavo Nurmi of charges of professionalism and lead to his reinstatement by the International Amateur Athletic Federation.

The Finnish Athletic League through President Kekkonen, announced it had formally protested to the I. A. A. F. against Nurmi's suspension, declared the charges against the famous distance runner were false and that his disqualification was unwarranted.

This action was taken to mean that the league vouchsafed for Nurmi's eligibility as an amateur and that it was now up to the I. A. A. F. either to lift the suspension it placed on Nurmi a week ago or investigate his status through its own organization.

The consensus was that the international organization would lift the suspension for its general policy always has been to accept without question the decisions of its member associations in such matters.

The suspension it voted on Nurmi was a temporary one pending the results of a Finnish investigation into Paavo's status. With Nurmi cleared by Finland there seems to be little doubt the I. A. A. F. suspension will be lifted.

In his formal protest to the international federation, President Kekkonen referred to "second-hand tales" and "absolutely unfounded reports" regarding special compensation allegedly paid to Nurmi in connection with competitive appearances in Europe, notably Germany, Poland and Italy.

Kekkonen admitted that the general situation with regard to amateur athletics had been doubtful for some time and that the exact circumstances concerning Nurmi's appearances are not quite clear.

He argued, however, that the individual athlete should not be penalized in view of the general uncertainty surrounding amateur athletics.

The Finnish League intends, he said, to watch carefully arrangements for future athletic contests and reserve the right to call them off on 48 hours notice if there is any question of professionalism.

Helsingfors, Finland, April 10 (A.P.). Banns for the marriage of Paavo Nurmi, noted Finnish athlete, and Miss Syvi Laaksonen, daughter of a soft drink manufacturer at Abo, were published today.

Londos Risks Title In Pinetzki Bout

Pair Clash Thursday on Mat in Feature Bout at Auditorium.

Jim Londos, acknowledged as the best mat artist of them all, will risk his crown in a bout with Leo Pinetzki, who is unopposed in his claim to the title as the largest muscle masher in the business, in a match to be staged Thursday night at the Auditorium. The bout represents the greatest bit of matchmaking Joe Turner has engineered during his regime as a wrestling promoter.

Londos adheres to the age-old quip of the larger they come the harder they fall, although it may take a trifle longer and cause him to work a bit harder. Pinetzki, after a pair of defeats at the hands of Dick Shikat, is yearning for revenge. Until meeting Shikat he was undefeated. He is not particular on whom he will vent his ire, nor how.

A well-balanced card of preliminary bouts, featuring such grapplers as Freddy Grobmeier, Howard Cantonwine, Tony DeVito, and Frank Speers, has been arranged. The free list has been suspended for the evening.

LLOYD BROWN BACK WITH ARM CURED; CROWDER TO PITCH

President and 25,000 Expected to Be on Hand.

Southpaw's Return Brings Staff to Normalcy.

Infielder McLeod to Join Team; Bison Game Is Off.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

RAIN yesterday made the Nationals' scheduled preseason finale with the Buffalo International Leaguers out of the question, but the day was not a total loss to Manager Johnson's charges. The Nat leader was most hopeful that the game could be played, as he hoped to use it for the purpose of putting on some finishing training touches for this afternoon's American League inaugural.

Although the affair was declared off about noon, Johnson had all of his charges out and in uniform and every member of the cast got in some work. All of the pitchers took good warm-ups, while the others confined their efforts to games of catch and ended their work with a run around the stadium.

Brown, Back, Reports Arm O. K.

Pitcher Lloyd Brown, the southpaw who along with Carl Fischer, practically carried the Nats in the early days of the 1931 flag race, rejoined the team yesterday. For the last three days he has been at Chattanooga under the care of a muscle manipulator in whom he had unbounded confidence. "The old flipper feels great," the young pitcher told Skipper Johnson, "and give me a couple of days to get the kinks out of it and I'll be ready to go." All of which was good news to the Nat pilot.

Bob Burke, who also has been complaining of a sore arm, thinks he is about O. K., meaning that the Washington mound staff is now intact and about normal. And, as Johnson, along with the fans, believes that the pitching department is his team's weaker link and contains the big "if" in the flag prognostications, having all of the moundmen in good physical condition and apparently farther advanced than they were at last season's opening means considerable.

While President Clark Griffith will continue to closely scan the waiver list in the hope of picking up the utility infielder the Nationals need, some help has been furnished by the Chattanooga Club, which has returned Shortstop Jimmy McLeod, who is due to report here this morning. The Lookouts did not return McLeod as a favor, but because Manager Bert Niehoff thinks he has picked up a better infielder.

McLeod Looked Good Against Nats.

McLeod, however, not only fielded but hit well against the Nats when they played the Chattanooga Club last week and Manager Johnson was glad to get him back, for the time being, at least.

There still seems to be some doubt as to whether or not Shortstop Joe Cronin will be able to take his place in the Nats' line-up today. He was just discharged from Georgetown University Hospital yesterday and in view of the bad weather Washington has been having, it is hard to figure how a fellow who has been in bed since Tuesday with sinus trouble, inflamed tonsils, and toxic poisoning could be of much help to the team, not to mention the fact that his being called upon too soon under these conditions is likely to send him back to bed again, for an extended period.

Catcher Roy Spencer, the Nats' other near casual, reported himself feeling "pretty good" yesterday and there is no question but what he will be on the job. He slightly pulled a groin muscle last Tuesday at Knoxville and gave it another yank in Tuesday's game against the Boston Braves while running out a double.

Last spring, it will be remembered, Spencer did the most of the Nats' timely hitting in the early days of the season and his work during the training season just ended indicates that he again will add considerable punch to the lower end of the batting order.

Red Sox Beat Braves To Deadlock Series

Boston, April 10 (A.P.).—The Boston Red Sox today defeated the Boston Braves, 4 to 1, before 6,500 shivering spectators to end their preseason exhibition series in a 1-to-1 deadlock.

Both teams were held to light hitting, but the American Leaguers managed to score three of their runs in the fourth and fifth innings when Bruce Cunningham passed seven of the Sox and then aggravated his situation by hitting Urb Pickering.

Earl Webb and Art Shires belted out doubles.

Watkins accounted for two more and Derringer for one.

SWANN PLAYERS SIGN.

The Swann Service Seniors will gather at 1443 Girard street northwest, Tuesday night at 8 o'clock, when uniforms will be issued for the season. Contracts for the Capital City League, in which the team will strive for the senior crown, will also be signed.

Cubs Slug Ball to Win Over Kansas City, 8-

Kansas City, April 10 (A.P.).—The Chicago Cubs batted out an 8-to victory today over the Kansas City Blues and left for Cincinnati, where they start their chase for the National League pennant next Tuesday.

The Blues played on nearly even terms with the invaders until the eighth when the Cubs forged definitely ahead with a three-run assault. Stanley Hack's long triple to right scored Grimm and Warneke who had walked. Hack counted on Cuyler's infield out.

FAVORITES HAVE WON 15 OF 56 RACES AT BOWIE MEETING

Robertson's 9 Wins Top Jockeys

Workman, Gilbert and Hanford Have Won in Six Races.

Meeting Ends Thursday With Program for Charity.

By WALTER HAIGHT.

THREE more days of the regular program and Thursday's charity card and the races will say good-by to Bowie until fall. Most of the horses at the nearby track will be shipped to Havre de Grace for the meeting which opens on Saturday.

Three races other than claiming are on today's program, offering an interesting card. The District Line, for 3-year-olds, has been divided into two sections and both bring formidable fields to the post.

Tomorrow will bring the Bowie Kindergarten, $2,500 added, which is expected to draw the majority of the 2-year-olds that have scored here. Wednesday's feature is the Baltimore Handicap, $5,000 added, for 3-year-olds and older horses.

Racing Secretary McLennan has announced his charity day program to be made up of five $1,000 purses and two $1,200 purses.

One New Record Established.

Favorite players, who took a beating at the start of the Bowie meeting, fared a little better as the racing progressed, and the percentage of favorites to step down on the winning end showed a high mark for the meeting toward the end of the week.

In the 56 races to date, 15 public choices have managed to collect the big end of purses. Of the remainder, 14 have run out of the money.

Despite a fast track a majority of the days, only one track record has passed by the boards. Air Pilot, Audley Farm's hope, turned the trick at the seldom-used 5-furlong route.

Albert Robertson, C. V. Whitney Stable's contract rider, is showing the way to the jockeys at Bowie both in the number of winning mounts and percentage of winners. Robertson has jogged to the post 26 times and has brought home 9 winners for a percentage of .346.

Sonny Workman Close Second.

Second, and close on his heels, is Sonny Workman, Washington boy and also a Whitney rider. Workman began the meeting with a rush, winning three straight races, and now has 6 winners in 18 mounts, for a percentage of .333. Johnny Gilbert, leading 1932 rider as the result of his triumphs at Havana, and Buddy Hanford have 6 winners each out of 23 mounts. Jimmy Smith, the New Orleans boy, has 5 of 21.

Hank Mills, the Florida sensation, has been busy, accepting 35 of a possible 56 mounts. He has been in the money 23 times and has 4 winners to his credit.

Here are the figures:

D. C. Grid Officials To Give Spring Party

The District of Columbia Football Officials Association will give a spring party May 6 at the Racquet Club, it was announced yesterday. Walter Okeson, commissioner of Eastern officials, will be the honored guest and principal speaker. Mathew Wall, president of the sportsmanship brotherhood, will also address the gathering.

Coaches of Washington and other institutions hereabouts will attend the party. Invitations are to be mailed in the near future by Bernard L. Eberts, secretary.

PRO GRID COACH SIGNS.

Portsmouth, Ohio, April 10 (A.P.).—Potsy Clark, of Indianapolis, today signed a contract to coach the Portsmouth Spartans of the National Professional Football League, during the coming season.

Under Clark's guiding hand last season, the Spartans landed in second place in the league. Clark is a former Illinois University quarterback, and before coming here he coached at Illinois, Butler and Kansas.

OCCOQUAN NINE AHEAD.

With Ralph Sheppherd holding the opposition to a lone safety, Occoquan High School defeated Nokesville High School by a score of 4-1. Sheppherd was in fine fettle, fanning no less than 13 batters. The winners were able to get but 5 hits off Fountin, Nokesville twirler, but they bunched these at opportune moments to clinch the decision.

JOE AND ASBESTOS —By Ken Kling

Foul Tip won Saturday at $6.70. It came right from the famous trainer, Jim Healey, himself, and that man knows his oats. Our secret code horse also won at better than 2½ to 1. We can not publish names of code horses but the first one cashed.

The bank roll is now $16.10, but you haven't seen anything yet.

AT THE POST
with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL, BOWIE RACE TRACK.

Tred Avon did not need racing. What Tred Avon needed last Saturday was competition. What we both need is more winners and longer prices. What this country needs is a good five-cent hot dog.

Wonder where that daily double window is at Bowie? Haven't heard a word about it since the publicity of last winter. Will ask Mr. Boyle about it today and let you know.

Towee in the mud. Where did you read that?

Now for the George Washingtn Bicentennial Trophy and a $1,400 purse that has attracted a better-than-average group of sprinters to compete at 6 furlongs.

AVALON toyed with his field opening day and meets better horses here, but I regard the Trueman-trained colt equal to taking this purse. Gets in at 105 pounds, but will have to add some weight if Workman rides. Believe Sonny is worth the difference. ON TAP can beat the top one if the track turns fast. Won easily first time out this year. PIGEON HOLE is a fast horse at present and should be third here.

FIRST RACE—MINTOGEE raced four time in Florida and showed a keen effort behind Foul Tip to recommend her as strong contender in this field. Ran best race on a slow track. SINGLE HEART was beaten only a half length for a purse last week and on that showing can not be overlooked. BLAZING CRIMP goes to the post for the second time. Did well before and can take third money here.

SECOND RACE—DURVA had a mighty busy winter in the South and turned in some fine races. Appears to be a solid filly here. Likes Bowie and a 6-furlong race. Expect a winning rush in the stretch. BENISH WAY has an even race of opening day to recommend him. Sprinted well in cheaper company last fall and has a chance to take it all. POLYFON, off some races in the South, can take third money.

THIRD RACE—VISHNU and WISE COUNT should stage a stretch duel in this race and it may be Workman against Robertson. WISE COUNT would take VISHNU on a fast track. That condition is hardly likely, so I am naming the Nevada Stock Farm colt. Finished eased up last Friday. THURSDAY can battle it out with the others.

FOURTH RACE—LADINO went stale at Bowie near the close of fall campaign, but at Laurel this colt upset good ones. Has filled out now and clockers say he's ready for a best effort. INDIAN RUNNER disappointed an army of backers first time out. Smart and speedy youngster last year and may find racing legs today. MEXICO must be better than that showing Saturday. Looked good behind Air Pilot and another like that will put the Labrot colt third here.

SIXTH RACE—SISTER ZOE may not be played in this company, but may take the purse. Won so easily last week that I believe the old mare is ready to score over classier opposition. Jimmy Smith may break her on top and make every post a winning one. ALDERSHOT scored here in good time and is the one to beat. The latter beat BUBOLA last time.

SEVENTH RACE—LILLYBET ran an even 6-furlong race against better horses than she will meet in this race. Has never been the route but has shown no signs of quitting in her sprints. Has speed enough to get away in the first flight and may surprise. SINGLE KAY has knocked at the door in distance races and finished third to Happen at this track. The entry of FAIR BILL and WANDERING GOLD for third.

FATE PUTS BOWEN ON PORTNER CARD

hand uppercuts are at least equal to long, wild overhand chin-breakers.

EAGLES RAINED OUT.

The game scheduled between the Eagle Athletic Club and Lakedon, Md., yesterday, was canceled because of wet grounds. The Eagles will go to York, Pa., April 24, for a game with the York Senators.

OTHER CITIES AWAITING OPENERS

Big League Season Opens Tomorrow Elsewhere.

weaker points and certainly improved all along the line, the Tribe returns to the Sixty-eighth street reservation this season showing greater promise than in any year since 1926.

Roger Peckinpaugh's braves look like a first division team on the strength of their spring training and there are those who predict them to finish third next fall.

Wes Ferrell, who opens against Detroit, is in better form than at any time last summer. Winning better than 20 games for the last successive three seasons, the Indian ace is counted on to duplicate again this year.

The infield, with Eddie Montague performing sensationally at short and Hodapp doing well at second, is much improved over the notoriously weak defense of last season. Freed from the disastrous losing streaks of the last two years, the Tribe figures as a tough barrier for the Athletics and the Yankees.

Pirates Expected to Do Better.

Pittsburgh, April 10 (A.P.).—With a new manager at the helm, the Pittsburgh Pirate brig will set sail on the baseball seas at St. Louis Tuesday a trimmer craft than that which finished fifth in last season's pennant cruise.

George Gibson, Pirate of old, is the new skipper, and he and the experts who figure things out in advance with pencil and paper feel that the Bucs will perform better this year than last.

The batteries for the opener against the National League champs have not been picked yet, but it is likely either French or Harris will be on the mound for the Corsairs.

Chicago Teams Rated Better Than in 1931.

Chicago, April 10 (A.P.).—Chicago's two major league entries, the Cubs and White Sox, open their drives Tuesday with two new owners, a new manager and good prospects for improved showings.

Since last season, both veteran owners of the teams passed on, J. Louis Comiskey inheriting the White Sox from the celebrated "Old Roman," Charles A. Comiskey, and Phil K. Wrigley succeeding his father, William Wrigley, jr., as owner of the National League pennant contenders. The managerial change is in the White Sox family, Lew Fonseca, the youngest pilot in the majors, taking over the reins dropped by fiery Donie Bush.

Batting punch and one or two reserve pitchers comprised the problem confronting Manager Rogers Hornsby as he started his second year at the helm for the Cubs. Added to his worries was the sad announcement yesterday that his star shortstop, Woody English, had broken his finger and would be out of the game for one or two months. Charlie Root was his selection for the opener at Cincinnati.

The White Sox were confident of causing trouble and landing fifth place. Their pitching staff looked excellent and their fielding improved, but more punch was needed at the plate. "Bump" Hadley or Vic Frasier will start against the St. Louis Browns Tuesday.

Reds Hope to Climb Out Of Cellar.

Cincinnati, April 10 (A.P.).—With prospects of improving their showing of last year when they finished in the National League cellar, the Cincinnati Reds will open the pennant chase here Tuesday with the Chicago Cubs.

Manager Dan Howley feels his club has been considerably strengthened in a trade with Brooklyn in which he acquired Babe Herman, right fielder, and Lombardi, who is expected to make a great showing as a catcher.

The opening of the baseball season is a festive occasion here, and a packed field of 33,000 to 35,000 customers is expected. Either Si Johnson or Lucas will pitch for the Reds and Lombardi is slated to catch.

Maryland Nine Seeks First Win Today; Faces V. M. I.

Physioc Slab Choice in Opener of 2-Game Stand at Lexington; G. U.-St. Mary's Will Clash Tomorrow.

SEEKING their first victory of the season, Maryland University's baseball players departed by bus yesterday for Lexington, Va., where today they open a two-game stand against V. M. I. Tomorrow Coach Shipley's lads will engage Washington and Lee.

Steve Physioc, sophomore right-hander, probably will hurl for the Old Liners today and Ray Davidson, another sophomore, but who flings 'em from the portside, is slated for duty tomorrow. Bill McIlwee, veteran left-hander who has been ailing ever since the start of the campaign, and Ralph Ruble, orthodox sophomore, will be available for relief work.

Spencer Chase, lanky first baseman is still nursing a broken finger. His place will be taken by Hymie Gorman, last year's regular first sacker who has been doing outfield duty. The outfield will be composed of Bob Maxwell, Paul Cronin and Buckey Buscher. Willie Wolfe, second base; Shorty Chalmers, shortstop; Bozie Berger, third base, and Ralph Sterling, catcher, complete the line-up for today's game.

Ten contests in all are carded this week for college athletes of the Capital area. The local highlight of the program is Georgetown's baseball game with Mount St. Mary's tomorrow on the Reservoir Road diamond. The Hilltoppers and Saints are old rivals and usually stage exciting baseball battles. Edelin, Mount pitcher whom Clark Griffith cast kindly eyes upon last year, will attempt to duplicate an easy victory inflicted on Georgetown in 1931. The veteran Harry Noznesky or Herb Feaney will draw Georgetown's slab assignment.

On Wednesday the golf and tennis teams of George Washington swing into action, the former meeting William and Mary, probably at Indian Spring, and the latter opposing Johns Hopkins at Baltimore.

St. Louis City Title Captured by Cards

St. Louis, April 10 (A.P.).—The world champion Cardinals won their first city series since the World War from their American League colleagues, the Browns, here today 6 to 2.

After the Cardinals won 5 to 2 yesterday, the fans looked to see the Browns even the two game series, but the redoubtable Pepper Martin was there with a triple and a double, accounting for three runs, one scored and two driven in.

Chocolate Retains Junior Light Crown

Havana, April 10 (A.P.).—Kid Chocolate, flashy Cuban boxer, retained his somewhat synthetic junior lightweight championship here today by outpointing Dave Abad, of Panama, in a fifteen-round bout.

The decision was unpopular with most of the 5,000 fans, Abad getting the larger share of the cheers after the rough and tumble battle. The Associated Press score card gave each fighter five rounds and called the others even. Chocolate weighed 128½ pounds, Abad 129¾.

Abad carried the fight to the "Keed," pounding his body until, at the close, every punch had Chocolate grimacing. The champion occasionally speared Abad with long jabs and rocked his head back with short uppercuts, but he found the ducking, bobbing, weaving Panamanian no good target. Chocolate missed badly throughout the fight.

There were no knockdowns, although Abad tumbled through the ropes in the twelfth round when he and Chocolate were half wrestling and half fighting. He took a count of three protestingly.

VINES LOSES IN FINAL TO ALLISON

No. 1 Netman Beaten in 3 Hard Sets at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, April 10 (A.P.).—Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Tex., today won the singles title in the Tulane University Tennis Club's invitation tournament here by defeating Ellsworth Vines, No. 1 ranking player of the United States, 7—5, 7—5, 6—4.

These two Davis Cup players then teamed against Frankie Parker, national boys champion, and J. Gilbert Hall, of Orange, N. J., to win the doubles championship, 7—5, 6—3.

In deciding the singles issue, Allison played steady tennis. Vines displayed scintillating shots on many occasions, but he lacked consistency.

Allison's performance, which seemed conservative in comparison with the slashing game displayed by the Californian, was not without its thrills, however. The Texan made good many seemingly impossible shots.

The outcome of the match was always in doubt. For the ten opening games of the initial set, neither could get an advantage of more than one game, but most of the time Allison was in front, with Vines striving desperately to catch up.

Pfeffer, Old-Time Diamond Star, Dies

Chicago, April 10 (A.P.).—Fred Pfeffer, star second baseman for the Chicago White Sox in the late '80's and early '90's, died of heart disease at his home today. He was 72 years old.

Pfeffer arose to stardom principally because of his fielding genius, although in 1887 he rang up the then remarkable hitting average of .326 and caused a sensation by hitting a home run a day for three days. Around the keystone bag, Pfeffer had no peers in the early days. As an example, he handled 15 chances without an error one hot July day in 1883, and 16 more in an 11-inning game without an error on a chilly day, May 24, 1894.

After his retirement from baseball, he operated the bar behind the old McVicker theater. When prohibition came, he closed up and sold his fixtures for $1.50. In recent years he was employed in charge of press boxes at Chicago race tracks.

Central High Classes Ready for Track Meet

The annual Central High School interclass track meet will be held Wednesday, at 3:30 p. m., in the school stadium. All boys, with the exception of those who have won their letters in sports, are eligible to compete. The "C" Club has donated a silver trophy, to be awarded the cadet company scoring the most points. Dr. Echardt, president of the Central Parent-Teachers Association, which is sponsoring the meet, will award a handsome trophy to the freshman section scoring the highest point total.

Seventeen events in all are listed. Gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded the first three boys to finish in each event.

Bobby Jones, Partner, Win in Special Match

Atlanta, April 10 (A.P.).—Bobby Jones, grand slam golf champion, came out of retirement long enough today to shoot a 33—34—67 at East Lake, and, with George Sargent, administered a 5 and 3 drubbing to the ambitious youngsters, Ernie Ball and Charlie Yates.

KOONTZ SENIORS BOOKING.

The Koontz Service Seniors have the use of the Fairlawn Park diamond this month and would like to book games with teams in their class. Teams interested should call Manager Ricker at Lincoln 9217-J.

D. C. MATMEN IN A. A. U. BOUTS

Preliminaries Listed Tonight at Boys Club.

THE best field ever to enter a District A. A. U. wrestling championship will set out for the eight amateur championships tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Boys Club. Every weight division is represented in tonight's battles, ranging from grapplers as big as Pinetzki's little finger to maulers as huge as the Pole's right leg, including the varicose veins.

Tonight's pairings will send some of the best boys in the tournament into action. One of the most interesting matches listed is the 115-pound event in which Shockley, crack Y. M. C. A. color bearer, who was undefeated while with Oklahoma A. and M., tackles Iskow, of the J. C. C. Shockley is defending champion.

Goldman Gets Test From Brothers.

Hailed by Joe Turner as the best local product in many years, Harry Goldman, J. C. C. 155-pounder, will have his mettle tested tonight in a set-to with P. M. Brothers, unattached husky. Action should be hard and heavy in the unlimited section when Ballard, of the Y. M. C. A., couples with Silverman, big J. C. C. representative.

The overseers of the tournament were named last night as follows: Referees—Tom Clayton, Mr. Barnes; judges—R. C. Duncan, E. Fournier; timers—Julius Eanet, Winfree Johnson; administrative — Earle Weeks, Jim McNamara and Harry Child.

The admission fee is 25 cents. The final round will be held Wednesday night, also at the Boys Club, Third and C streets northwest.

Tonight's feature pairings:

135-POUND CLASS—W. McGrath (Y. M. C. A.) vs. P. Sargent (Y. M. C. A.).
155-POUND CLASS—H. Goldman (J. C. C.) vs. P. M. Brothers (unattached).
165-POUND CLASS—R. J. Whitworth (Y. M. C. A.) vs. D. W. Armstrong (Y. M. C. A.).
175-POUND CLASS—Joseph Paul (Y. M. C. A.) vs. Alan Cohen (J. C. C.).
UNLIMITED CLASS—J. C. Ballard (Y. M. C. A.) vs. Silverman (J. C. C.).

Shred, at 2 to 1, Wins Longchamps Feature

Paris, April 10 (A.P.).—Edward Esmond's colt, Shred, took the Prix Juigne, $4,000 feature race of the Longchamps program today. Maj. Dome was second and Mon Cher third.

Shred won by a length and a half and paid 2 to 1 in the betting.

MAJESTICS BEATEN.

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Va., April 10.—The Majestic Radio Baseball Team, of Washington, D. C., launched its season here today, losing to the Everett-Waddy nine, 8-2, in a game marred by rain and cold. The visitors could get but five hits off the combined offerings of a trio of Everett twirlers, while the locals were pounding out fourteen off three Washington pitchers. Fox's home run featured the victors' attack.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

PHAR LAP COMES HOME.

THERE the thoroughbred immortals
Graze in pastures ever green,
And the steeds of song and story
Feel the touch of hands unseen,
There's a whinny in the distance
And a pawing at the gate,
As the big, stout hearted Phar Lap
Joins the Legion of the Great.

II.

Where the horses famed are ranging
Over acres rich and fine,
And the coats of turfdom's monarchs
In the brilliant sunlight shine,
There's a snorting in the shadows
And a pricking up of ears,
As another racing stalwart
On the borderline appears.

III.

In the thoroughbred Valhalla
Where the bravest hearted go,
And there aren't any seasons
When the blue grass doesn't grow—
Where there's no fierce grind of training
And no further stakes to win,
There's a stirring in the paddock
As another canters in.

IV.

In the Paradise of horseflesh
Where the gamest of the game
Frolic through an endless summer,
Done with glory and with fame,
Where no barriers spring upward
And no turmoil fills the air
Sysonby, Carbine and Hindoo
Turn and see the "Red Flash" there.

V.

Up beyond the eyes of mortals
Where there is no muddy track—
Where there are no gruelling stretch runs
And no added weight to pack;
Where the kings of far-flung ovals
Play and scamper as they will
There's a neighing as great-hearted
Phar Lap gallops o'er the hill.

VI.

Where there are no "culls" or "castoffs"
And no spineless "also rans"—
Where the horses have a record
Treasured by the racing fans
There's a pawing and a neighing
Where the lion-hearted roam,
And a whinnying of welcome—
Phar Lap—"Big Red"—Has come home!

PROBABLY.

THEY gave an elephant at Atlantic City a drink of whisky the other day for a cold and it fell down and broke its leg. Somehow or other it sounds more like party gin.

"Broke its leg?" says Elmer Twitchell. "I once gave an elephant a spoonful of synthetic rye and in ten seconds both tusks flew off."

"Short," a wired-haired terrier, barked into a microphone and heard his bark come back after a trip around the world the other day. And many people thought it was just one of those sustaining program barytones.

NOBODY CAN TAKE IT RIGHT ALONG.

For the second time the premier of Newfoundland has been beaten up by an indignant mob of citizens. He should resign before he gets punch-drunk.

The dry chiefs are to take a census of all New York speakeasies to determine just how many there are. It would be a far more simple matter to check those that are not.

Any man who makes $100,000 a year will have to fork over $20,000 and then pay 40 per cent on any excess. But he can get even, suggests Elmer Twitchell, by not using matches and boycotting chewing gum and candy.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

NOTED orchestra conductors and bandmasters were asked by Orrin Dunlap, jr., New York radio authority, what procedure should be followed when the "Star Spangled Banner" is played over the radio. Shouldn't those listening in the home stand up, or what?

"When the 'Star Spangled Banner' is played all those who are outside stand at attention and give the prescribed salutes during the playing of the colors," Lieut. Charles Benter, leader of the Navy Band replied. "If they are indoors they stand at attention, no matter where they are, when the national anthem is heard.

"I should think this same procedure should take place inside the home because "The Star Spangled Banner" is our national air, and we should certainly stand up and discontinue playing bridge, poker or pinochle when it is heard on the radio."

"I DO not think the patriotism of participants in a bridge game should be questioned if they do not arise when the national anthem comes to them over the radio," Capt. Taylor Branson, leader of the Marine Band, said.

"At the same time, if one is entertaining visitors, and all are seated around conversing in a natural sort of way, I think it would be rather courteous to rise when "The Star Spangled Banner" is played."

"In his comprehensive volume, 'The Flag of the United States, Its History and Symbolism,' Col. James A. Moss, U. S. A., retired, says in regard to standing when the national anthem is played over the radio," "It depends on circumstances," Capt. William J. Stannard, leader of the Army Band, replied.

"Generally speaking," Col. Moss continues, "if it seems natural and not forced to stand and uncover, it should be done; otherwise, it should not. For example, if eating at a table, lying in bed, or working in the kitchen, standing at attention would be forced and unnatural."

THE opening of the big league baseball season, signalized by the game between the Washington and Boston clubs, will be described by Ted Husing over WMAL at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon.

Five men mentioned as possible presidential candidates on the Democratic ticket will speak during a single program on Wednesday night. The broadcast will come from the Jefferson Day dinner at the Willard Hotel here over WRC from 10 p. m. until midnight. WMAL will broadcast a portion of the program, beginning at 10:45 p. m.

The speakers will be Albert C. Ritchie, Governor of Maryland; Harry F. Byrd, former Governor of Virginia; J. Hamilton Lewis, senator from Illinois, and James A. Reed, former senator from Missouri. James M. Cox will serve as toastmaster.

Station WMAL will broadcast portions of the proceedings of the Jefferson Day luncheon on Wednesday, when Representative Mary T. Norton, Representative Henry T. Rainey, Senator Joe Robinson and others will speak. Claude G. Bowers, historian and writer, will deliver an address immediately after the luncheon in eulogy of "Thomas Jefferson, the First Democratic President."

Later in the afternoon the broadcast scene will shift to Woodrow Wilson's tomb in Washington Cathedral, where Newton D. Baker will eulogize the dead President.

WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY in Lexington, Va., will pay tribute to the memory of George Washington in a special program from the university over Station WRC tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Addresses will be made by Sir John Josiah Stamp, of London, on "British Recognition of Washington;" Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, of the D. A. R., on "Educating Historical Sentiment;" John Hill Morgan, of New York, on "How Washington Appeals to a Lawyer," and Representative Sol Bloom, on "Washington and the Nation."

Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont will speak over WRC at 11 o'clock this morning during a special program celebrating the opening of the new Patent Office.

"AMOS 'N' ANDY" will be guests of honor when Station WMAQ, which first sponsored them celebrates its tenth anniversary of broadcasting Wednesday night over the WJZ network * * * Joe Palooka, comic strip character, makes his radio debut (WMAL, 6:45 p. m. tomorrow * * * Alfredo Codona, circus aerialist, will be interviewed tonight (WMAL, 8 o'clock) * * * Lanny Ross, tenor, will sing his own composition, "Lonely For You," tonight (WMAL), 7:15 o'clock) * * * A Romberg program has been prepared for the WRC program at 9:30 p. m. on Wednesday * * * Frank Crummit has dug up another English song, "Months and Months and Months," for his program tomorrow night * * * The Palmetto State will be visited in the parade of the State series tonight, featuring Erno Rapee's orchestra, with Elizabeth Lennox and Phil Dewey * * * "Mount Vernon," an operatta, by R. Spaulding Stoughton, will be presented by the Young Artists Light Opera Company tomorrow afternoon over WRC.

REORGANIZATION of the departments of the Government, a subject that has loomed prominently during the past few weeks in connection with efforts to balance the budget, will be explained by Senator Arthur H. Vandenburg (Republican), of Michigan (WRC, 10 o'clock tonight).

Famous detective and mystery tales will be presented in a new dramatic series to begin over the WJZ network at 10 o'clock tonight under the title of "Master Mysteries." Robert Louis Stevenson's "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" will be the initial offering. The adaptation is the work of Finis Farr, author of the "Mystery House" series.

A new song series, "Do You Remember?" will be inaugurated over Station WRC tonight by Kay Donna, 18-year-old Pittsburgh girl. Miss Donna, who has a contralto voice, has been on the air for some time over Station WTAM, Cleveland, and previous to that was on Station KDKA's wave length.

AN ensemble of twelve women's voices, directed by Otto T. Simon, will be heard over Station WRC on Wednesday at 6:15 p. m. The program includes the Twenty-third Psalm, as set to music by Schubert; "The Nile," by Leroux; "Orpheus With His Lute;" "How Sweet the Moonlight," and the One Hundred Fiftieth Psalm, Caesar Franck.

WHEN the Mills brothers go on the air under their new contract tomorrow night (WMAL, 7:15 o'clock), their vocal harmonies will be augmented by an orchestra. As most listeners know, the Mills brothers use only one instrument—a guitar. Vocally, the quartet imitates many wind instruments, including trumpet, bass horn, tuba, saxophone and trombone.

The music played by the orchestra on their new program will be in direct contrast with the vocal-instrumental imitations of the four brothers. The orchestra, directed by Victor Young, will include four violins, cello, marimba, celeste, xylophone, string bass, Hawaiian guitar, steel guitar, mandolin, accordion, piano and drums. There will be no brass, no woodwinds. It is planned to fade from the vocalizing of the Mills brothers right into the orchestral numbers, thus bringing out the contrast.

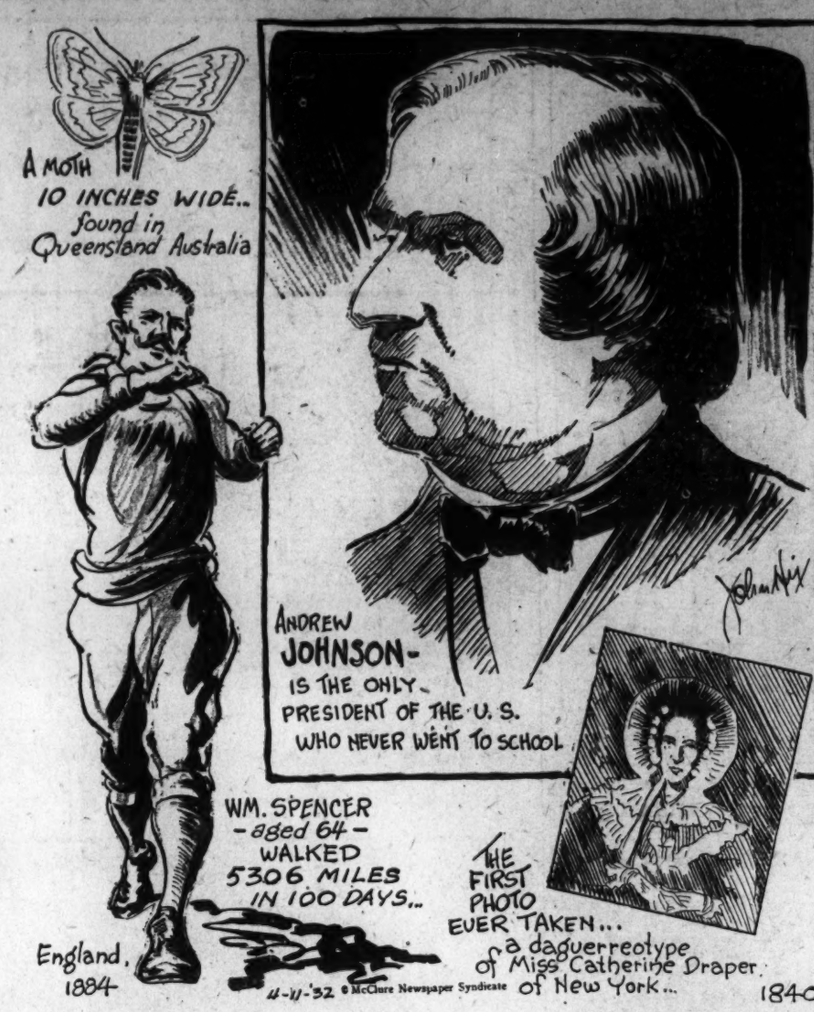
REDUCING NATURE'S WAY

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix



ANDREW JOHNSON was the son of simple and poor parents. He was born at Raleigh, N. C., December 19, 1808, and because of the death of his father was put to work as a tailor's apprentice at the early age of 10. With the help of his fellow tailor apprentices, the boy learned the alphabet, and then set about to teach himself to read.

At the youthful age of 16, he settled in Laurens, S. C., as a journeyman tailor. In 1826, he moved to Greeneville, in eastern Tennessee, where he wedded 17-year-old Eliza McCardle. The young wife was far superior socially and intellectually to her husband, and it was she who taught the seventeenth President of the United States to write and to do simple problems in arithmetic.

The first real portrait of a human face ever taken was a daguerrotype of Miss Dorothy Catherine Draper. It was made by her brother, Prof. William Draper. The subject had to sit motionless in bright sunlight for six minutes.

What's in a name?

In Lawrence, Kans., a sign reads C. A. Smart, lawyer.

There is a Dr. Skeleton in Meadville, Pa.; Dr. Willcutt in Minneapolis, Dr. Hollers in San Antonio, and in Millersburg, Pa., Drs. Good, Mustard and Pickle.

Chamber Opposes Potomac Line Bill

Harry King, president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, in a statement issued yesterday, voiced opposition to a bill, expected to come before the House today, which would fix the Virginia-District of Columbia boundary line at the low-water mark of the Potomac River, and urged that no immediate action be taken on its passage.

"If enacted into a law," Mr. King declared, "this bill would establish the District line on the Virginia side of the Potomac at the low-water level and from headline to headline, despite the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the Smoot sand and gravel case, which held that all land up to the high water mark belongs to the Federal Government."

Mr. King said that he had learned that certain low-lying areas in the section in question recently have been patented at nominal costs to the present owners, who expect this bill definitely to establish the validity of their titles and to pave the way for the sale of these lands to the Federal Government or other purchasers.

FUNDS PLEA MADE BY RELIEF GROUPS AT MASS MEETING

Letters Supporting Measure Received From Capper and Mrs. Norton.

Asserting that social agencies now extending relief to the unemployed would be forced to shut their doors if additional funds were not obtained, leaders of the social relief group of Washington yesterday at a mass meeting made a plea for the support of citizenry of the measure now pending before Congress that would make available $600,000 for the continuation of the District committee on unemployment.

The relief funds, speakers urged at that meeting held in the United States Chamber of Commerce Building, could be obtained from the Municipal Center project appropriation, in the 1933 District bill without delaying the center's completion.

Support of the Board of Trade, the Chamber of Commerce and the labor organizations was solicited for a concerted appeal for relief for unemployment through Government funds. Letters addressed to the relief organization by Representative Mary Norton, chairman of the House District committee; Senator Arthur Capper, chairman of the Senate District committee; Commissioner Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman of the board, and Fred C. Croxton, assistant director of unemployment relief, indorsing the appropriation of the additional funds were read at the meeting.

Action Not Yet Taken.

As yet Congress has taken no action on the proposed measure, but efforts have been made to defeat the appropriation. The meeting indorsed the measure and the chairman was instructed to appoint a committee to secure support of the bill.

The Rev. John O'Grady, head of the Catholic Charities, said that the elements opposed to public relief were remnants of the past, when individual efforts were rewarded with a living wage.

Walter S. Ufford, of the Associated Charities, asserted that relief work would cease because of lack of funds in the near future if additional resources were not made available.

Relief Pleas Gain Cited.

Representing the United Hebrew Charities, Mrs. Charles A. Goldsmith sketched the condition of the Jewish relief organizations. A large increase in persons appealing for relief was evident, she said, adding that a 25 per cent increase over the money appropriations of 1931 was necessary to carry on the work of the institutions.

"The Salvation Army will be forced to draw down its blinds," Maj. James Asher of the Salvation Army said. "An ever increasing number of applicants for aid are evident, and the funds to grant them relief are fast becoming smaller. Additional funds are the only hope we have to enable us to continue our work."

Paul L. Benjamin, executive secretary of the employment committee, was among the speakers who voiced their approval of the appropriation. Others who addressed the gathering were: Fred Frazier, department commander of the American Legion, who advocated a campaign to not only provide relief but to create work; I. Geraci secretary of the Journeyman Tailors Union, who said his organization supported the appropriation, and Miss Mary Henaughan.

Man, 42, Is Injured In Hit-Run Mishap

Hubert A. Thebo, Linotype Operator, Is Victim in Northwest Section.

Hubert A. Thebo, 42-year-old linotype operator, was struck down and painfully injured by a hit-and-run machine early yesterday morning just after he and John J. Ferber, a neighbor, had alighted from a taxicab. His condition was described at Emergency Hospital last night as undetermined.

Ferber, who lives at 5325 Fifth street northwest, said he and Thebo dismissed the cab at Fifth and Hamilton streets northwest, a point half way between his and Thebo's home at 615 Hamilton street. They parted and he walked toward his home. He heard a thud as of a vehicle striking a body, Ferber said, and, turning around, saw Thebo lying in the street.

A car that appeared to be a coupe was speeding up Fifth street, Ferber said, but he could give no further description. He summoned police, who took Thebo to Walter Reed Hospital, where first aid was rendered. Thebo was later transferred to Emergency Hospital.

ROCK CREEK CHURCH PLANTS LARCH TREE

The men's club of the Rock Creek Episcopal Church yesterday observed Arbor day by planting a larch tree on the church lawn. ADVERTISING OF GOD IS URGED IN SERMON

Lutheran Minister Tells His Hearers Religion Should Be Put in Business.

"If you were to meet me on the street car some morning and ask me my profession I would say, 'I am glorifying God,'" said Dr. Henry W. Snyder, speaking yesterday morning at St. Paul's English Lutheran Church.

"You would perhaps give me a quizzical look, change the conversation quickly, and after a while report to your friends that I had gone out of my head on religion. And yet would that be a fair judgment?" Dr. Snyder asked.

The preacher was talking on the subject: "Advertising God," his text being taken from twelfth verse of the first chapter of the second Thessalonians: "That the name of our Lord Jesus Christ may be glorified in you, and ye in Him, according to the grace of our God and the Lord Jesus Christ."

Business to Make Money.

"You tell me that your business is carpentering, selling, healing, or what not, now is it? Would it not be nearer the truth in many cases to say, 'My business is to make as much money a year as possible, and carpentering, selling, or what not are simply my means to that end?' Can it not be said then just as reasonably, My business is to glorify God; the crafts, the professions, the industries are simply each man's respective means to that end? Blessed is the man who can have as his objective then to glorify the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, to advertise Him to a needy world.

"Some one may ask, why advertise Christ by glorifying His name? The other day we received a personal letter from a friend, but he had written it on the stationery of his firm and on that stationery was quite an amount of information regarding the firm. Business houses send out monthly statements, but scarcely one reaches your home without some inclosures advertising a special item. Why do they do it? The answer is obvious; that business is their source of livelihood, and they want to promote it.

"Now, shall we not make the same parallel application to our religion? From God has come everything we have; blessings for this world, and the next, are the gift of His love. As we love our work, and seek to promote it, since it is the source of our temporal blessings, so our very sense of gratitude leads us to glorify the name of our Christ.

Put Religion in Work.

"Many are the means suggesting themselves for glorifying the name of our Lord. First, I should mention that we ought to put our religion into our work. It is a mistaken idea to suppose that our religion is a philosophy for death; it is a philosophy of life. As we put its principles into practice daily, we ourselves are conforming to the image of Christ, and advertising His name. So my work presents to me an opportunity for spiritual growth; for the development of patience, thoroughness, the practice of all Christian virtues of honesty, purity and truth.

"What now is the inevitable result of advertising God by glorifying the name of Christ? Look once again at my occupation, my line of business; if you like it, if I seek to promote it so that men want the product of my toil, I in turn am sure to profit. This natural law is bound to carry over into the spiritual world. We have the Christ's own words for it. No man has given up anything for the cause of our God, but that he is going to receive a hundredfold return in this life. All of us like success, glory, triumph; we shun disgrace, failure and disappointment.

"If we glorify our God, we are going to have glory for ourselves in turn. The surest way to get the satisfaction that our souls really crave is to glorify God; then will glory and triumph crown us eternally," Dr. Snyder stated.

Church Club Plants Larch Tree in Yard

The Men's Club of Rock Creek Episcopal Church, Rock Creek Church road and Webster street, yesterday morning planted a larch on the church lawn, with appropriate Arbor Day exercises, at which Dr. Thomas B. Symons, director of the extension service of the University of Maryland, delivered the address. The larch replaces the historic tree which was lost in the drought two years ago.

The exercises, attended by several hundred persons, opened with the singing of "America," followed by prayers and readings from the Scriptures by the Rev. Dr. Franklin J. Bohanan, rector of the church and chaplain of the club, assisted by the Rev. Claude S. Ridenour, who read the lesson from the 22d chapter of Revelations. The audience joined in the responsive reading of the first Psalm, and James F. Madison recited Joyce Kilmer's poem, "Trees." Dr. Symons presented his subject in a brief and entertaining manner.

During the planting of the tree, Thomas Wiltberger, grandson of a former rector of Rock Creek Church, and who for 30 years was superintendent of Rock Creek Cemetery, tolled the historic old church bell, which is suspended from a sturdy oak near the church.

Arrangements for the exercises were under the direction of Dr. Bohanan, Walter B. Patterson, senior warden; J. Fred Parsons, president of the club, and Roy Mathews, who were assisted by the vestry and club directors.

TRIO HELD IN THEFTS FROM PARKED AUTOS

Boys Admit Robberies After Fight to Escape Arrest Is Failure.

The activities of a trio of youths, who, according to police, admit that during the past month they have been responsible for numerous thefts from automobiles parked on streets throughout the city, were curtailed last night when the three were apprehended as they were allegedly in the act of rifling the machine of a member of Congress.

The boys, ranging in ages of 10 to 16 years, were taken into custody by Detectives H. H. Prince and E. L. Dalstrom, of the Third Precinct. The policemen, passing Sixteenth street and Massachusetts avenue northwest, noticed the youths acting in a peculiar manner, and upon investigating, found they were looting an automobile parked at the curb.

The young robbers took to their heels as the detectives approached, but after a short chase, the youngest of the three was overtaken. He later led police to Seventh and P streets northwest, where the other two were found as they were about to enter a motion picture theater.

They, however, were not so easily taken into custody. They put up a brief battle, but were soon subdued and placed in a taxicab. En route to the Third Precinct, the boys, all of whom are colored, again attempted to gain their freedom. During the melee, several windows were broken from the cab.

Once at the station house, the youths readily admitted the robbery, police said, and told of numerous other thefts they had committed during the past month. A valuable camera, police said, was found in their possession, having been taken from the automobile they were looting when captured.

The youngsters worked with the precision of professional thugs, police declared. All three wore gloves to eliminate the possibility of leaving fingerprints. One did the actual robbing, another acted as lookout, while the third "spotted" cars found to be unlocked.

Hares and Hens Disappear, Leaving Police in Quandary

Some one is needed who can make Spencer H. Miser's rabbits reappear. Nine Belgian hares were stolen from his garage in the rear of 2200 Randolph place northeast. He valued them at $60.

Another animal robbery was reported yesterday. It was the theft of six chickens from the ice box of the New Colonial Hotel. They were cooked.

BODY OF TELEGRAPH MANAGER IS FOUND

Coroner Believes That Roy Barnes, Drowned in Tidal Basin, Was Suicide.

The body of Roy F. Barnes, 40, night manager for the Western Union Telegraph Co. here, was found floating in the Tidal Basin early yesterday morning. The opinion was expressed by Dr. Joseph D. Rogers, District coroner, that Barnes was a suicide.

An autopsy performed by Dr. Rogers indicated drowning caused Barnes' death, but traces of a corrosive poison were found in the man's stomach. Dr. Rogers withheld issuance of a certificate until chemical examination of the substance had been made.

Dr. Rogers expressed the possibility that Barnes may have taken the potion with the intent of ending his life and had jumped into the basin while in the throes of terrific pain.

Mrs. Audrey M. Barnes, wife of the dead man, identified her husband's body. She said he had not been at their home at 1909 Nineteenth street northwest since last Thursday. She could assign no reason for Barnes desiring to end his life.

Funeral services for Mr. Barnes will be held tomorrow from the S. H. Hines funeral parlors at 2901 Fourteenth street northwest at 2 p. m. Interment will follow in Laurel, Md.

Crispus Attucks Statue Campaign Announced

A campaign for erection of a monument to Crispus Attucks, was announced yesterday by Dr. S. P. W. Drew, under auspices of the Ministers and Deacons Union of the District of Columbia.

The matter is subject of a joint resolution by Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, and Representative John J. Boylan, of New York, which would "authorize the director of public parks to erect within the triangular plot of ground located at the intersection of Tenth and U streets northwest, a monument to the memory of Crispus Attucks, who died on March 5, 1770, in the massacre of Boston Commons."

Man Shot Cleaning Gun.

William Weltshire, 46 years old, of 3213 Thirteenth street northwest, was treated at Sibley Hospital last night for a gun shot wound in the right knee, received, police say, when a gun he was cleaning accidentally exploded. His injury was not serious.

DR. SIZOO ATTACKS SITE FOR BUS DEPOT IN WEEKLY SERMON

INDORSED IN ACTION BY VOTE OF ASSEMBLY

Destroy Surroundings and Shrine Will Lose Its Permanence, He Says.

"Destroy the surroundings of a shrine like this and you destroy its permanence," declared Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, preaching yesterday morning at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Sizoo referred directly to a plan to establish an interstate bus terminal on a piece of property adjoining his church. Following his sermon in which he protested against this move the congregation voted unanimously to support him in his efforts to keep the bus terminal away from the church area.

Under a recent ruling of the Public Utilities Commission interstate buses were prohibited from using terminals within the "congested area." The decision made it necessary for one large company operating from a terminal on the south side of New York avenue to find a new site, and the company's officials have announced they will soon move to a terminal on the north side of the street, just outside of the "congested area."

Will Present Their Case.

Dr. Sizoo and a representative number of his congregation will call on the District Commissioners tomorrow morning to present their case and make a final appeal that the bus company be prohibited from using the new site.

In speaking before his congregation yesterday, Dr. Sizoo said, in part:

"This is not simply a matter of pushing a church building out into oblivion. If this order is passed by the city leaders it will push out of existence a great shrine of our common faith.

130 Years of Age.

"For 130 years this church has stood here bearing witness to those everlasting forces that make a city and a nation great and abiding. Here the great of this Nation and the great of earth have come to worship and to pray and to find courage, and they have not come in vain. It was from the pulpit of this historic church that Lafayette spoke his word of farewell to the American Nation. It is in this shrine that Lincoln came to pray and to worship. It is holy ground. These walls bear witness to a tragic era in the life of our Nation. We have not shrines enough in this country. I did not make it so. I have simply entered into its inheritance. God called me here and I am honor bound before God to defend its place and its maintenance. That I propose to do, so help me God.

"If this matter were projected in any other city in the United States the whole city would cry out against it. There is nothing narrow or provincial in this appeal to the leaders of the city. I have communications from all phases of religious life, priests, rabbis, ministers. All these cry out in their souls against it."

10-Year-Old Boy Loses $5 to Young Footpad

A 10-year-old boy last night fell victim to the wave of holdups that swept over the city over the weekend. He was robbed of $5 by a colored youth, who stopped him as he walked along the street near the Public Library.

The boy, Frederick M. White, of 415 Sixth street northwest, told police he was accosted by a colored youth about 18 years old. On threat of harm, White said he was forced to surrender his billfold containing $5 in cash and personal effects.

Bishop Freeman Declares Religion Is Recovery Need

Return to Spiritual Ideals and Principles of Nation's Founders Urged in Bicentennial Talk at Washington Cathedral; Notables Attend.

An appeal to the leaders of Government, Congress and of commerce and industry to turn back to the spiritual ideals and principles which motivated the founding of the Nation was made by Bishop James E. Freeman, of Washington, in a patriotic Washington Bicentennial service yesterday in the Bethlehem Chapel at Washington Cathedral.

Ambassadors Claudel, of France; May, of Belgium, and Von Prittwitz, of Germany, together with French Strother, one of the President's secretaries, representing Mr. Hoover, attended the service, which was sponsored by the Daughters of the Cincinnati, national patriotic society. Mrs. Russell Evans Tucker, of New York, president of the society, presented a flag of the order to the cathedral, which was blessed by Bishop Freeman. Fifteen other patriotic organizations also attended the service with their colors.

"The world is drifting today with no leader to step forward to guide it back into normal paths," Bishop Freeman said. "What America and the world need to bring back recovery can not be obtained through materialism, but through a wave of restored spiritual and righteous ideals."

A large delegation from New York of the Daughters of the Cincinnati attended the service, and today will be received, together with the Washington members of the society, by Mrs. Hoover at the White House.

"America, because of its haste and speed, is too prone to forget the past," Bishop Freeman declared. "It is well that we have anniversaries so we are compelled to think backward and reflect on those who founded our Nation. If we are wise to think not only in this year of the character and achievements of George Washington, but of those principles and ideals which controlled him."

"The first President believed," he continued, "That Christianity in its higher ideals of life was fundamental to the progress of the country and without spiritual vision the American people would not go forward. The tragic need of the present is to study those ideals which were predominant in the birth of the Nation, and be guided out of the present crisis by their definiteness of direction, objective and destiny.

"Turn to the old paths, fashioned by the great of American history, such as Washington. The recovery which is now being sought can not be achieved by material means or legislation, but by again invoking the spiritual ideals of the amazing men who laid the foundation of the Republic.

"There must come and come speedily into the life of the United States," Bishop Freeman concluded, "a new wave of spiritual idealism and righteousness to spread through the State, home, society, industry and commerce before a recovery can be gained."

The other organizations, besides the Daughters of the Cincinnati who were represented at the service and bore their colors in the procession, were the color guards of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, the American Red Cross, the Aztec Club of 1847, Colonial Dames of America, Daughters of the Revolution, Descendants of Signers of the Declaration of Independence, League of American Penwomen, Military Order of the Loyal Legion, Military Order of the World War, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Sons of the Revolution, R. O. T. C. Association of the United States, Sons of the American Revolution, and the Wheel of Progress.

DO WE FOLLOW GOD? IS DR. DEPP'S TOPIC

Courage of Jesus Stressed by Methodist Pastor in Sermon.

"We are apt to make religion a matter of membership in the church, or even in a particular church with its doctrines and sacraments," said Dr. Mark Depp, speaking yesterday morning at the Calvary Methodist Church.

"Jesus made it a man's belief in and response to what he believed to be higher and better than himself," Dr. Depp went on. The speaker's topic was, "Do We Follow Jesus?" He continued:

"Jesus manifested a willingness to break with established tradition, the customs and precedents of His day, and blaze new trails. That the past has values, especially when viewed as the accumulated wisdom of experience, no one will deny. The world is old, and the race has learned valuable lessons on its march through the years which it would be folly to ignore.

"But are we more concerned with what has been, or what is, than with what ought to be? Do we not believe with old John Robinson that 'God has more light yet to break out of His Holy Word?' To think that God spoke in ancient times, but with never a word for our own day is the prize heresy of our time," Dr. Depp emphasized.

"Consider the courage of Jesus in applying religion to every circumstance in life. It will not do to dismiss the Gospel as impractical, a dream too good ever to come true, a lovely ideal but out of the question for our kind of a world. Christianity is not a noble aloofness, too aloof to mingle in the muddy stream of actual affairs. Do we dare to carry religious convictions into the problems of government, or does the cry about the church in politics frighten us away from what is at once our opportunity and our responsibility?

"Do we dare thrust our moral earnestness into industry, or does the accusation of impractical idealism silence us in the face of a tangled economic situation that desperately needs to hear the truth of God about life and for life?

"We must not smother the cross in the Christian religion with flowers or pulpit rhetoric, but look at it squarely for what it is, a perpendicular set up in the midst of our indolences and indulgences, a perpetual rebuke and a perpetual challenge. Do we follow in His train?" Dr. Depp concluded.

Long and Short Wave Radio Broadcast Linked

The first broadcast on long wavelengths of the short-wave conversations between air mail dispatchers and pilots was put on the air last night on the N. B. C. chain between 11:30 and midnight, after an introductory speech by Postmaster General Walter F. Brown.

Those who listened heard dispatchers forwarding weather forecasts to pilots and pilots reporting weather conditions in their vicinity to ground stations and other fliers. The feature was made possible by cooperation between the National Broadcasting Co. and the United Air Lines, which runs planes from New York to San Francisco and through the Middle West.

PEOPLE HELD LOSING SOULS IN BUSY LIFE

Health and Home Ties Fading Along With Spiritual Loss, Minister Says.

"As men and women are busy here and there they are losing their souls," declared the Rev. R. Y. Nicholson, yesterday morning, preaching at the Rhode Island Methodist Protestant Church.

The Rev. Mr. Nicholson's topic was "Being Too Busy." He continued in part:

"They are losing their souls not by being busy in questionable things, but by being so busy with things that are good and essential to life they have no time for soul culture. Soul culture is a thing of time as truly as mental culture. It takes time to develop a soul life, but people are so busy making a living they haven't time to make a life.

"The three most important things in life are health, home life and soul. But people are so busy in getting things for the body they are losing health, so busy getting and maintaining a house they are losing the home life, and so busy with physical, material, mental life they are losing their souls.

Most Popular Gospel.

"This age may well be called the busy age. The most popular gospel in this busy age is the gospel of work. The god most worshipped is the almighty dollar.

"But there are reasons why these things are true. The competitions of the day are so great, the rewards of the strenuous life so alluring, the bread and meat question so acute, the thoughts of old age so repulsive people are living the gospel of work and worshiping the almighty dollar.

"But by living this gospel and worshipping this dollar to the present extent people are losing the three greatest things in life, namely health, home life and soul.

Successful Man's Disease.

"As men and women are busy here and there they are losing their health. They are acquiring the succesful man's disease, that baffling disease that attacks no particular organ but makes you feel generally wretched. By living this gospel they are burning up in 50 years the energy intended to carry them to 70.

"As men and women are busy here and there they are losing their home life. There are young people so busy with a daily job, school in the evening, pleasures until the wee hours of the morning, they have no time to make home life. There are great numbers of women with daily employment outside of the home who, after the day's work is done, return home and endeavor to crowd into the evening, housekeeping, social and fraternal engagements, and they have no time for home life.

Men by the thousands are driven like machines from morning until evening at the place of business, return home for the evening meal, hurriedly eaten and they are gone again. They have no time for home life," he concluded.

Two Adjacent Jewelry Stores Are Burglarized

Jewelry stores only four doors apart were entered some time over the week-end by thieves who used the same method of entrance for both, smashing the padlock on the front doors with a brick.

The store of Charles A. Reher, of 722 Eleventh street northwest, was robbed of $94 worth of jewelry, and a small clock and a raincoat was stolen from the store of Cornelius R. Littlehale, of 730 Eleventh street.

Glassford's Tour Develops Ideas for Police Changes

Refreshed by his tour of Eastern cities where he studied police methods, Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, is at work on a plan by which he can incorporate in the local police system good points he observed in Boston, Philadelphia, New York and Providence.

No radical changes are contemplated, says the police head, but there is "room for considerable improvement" along certain lines which he would not specify. He did say, however, that the present method of keeping homicide records would be revised in keeping with procedure observed in other cities.

Traffic regulation was particularly studied by Brig. Gen. Glassford and he said that he would soon introduce methods he observed during his tour.

The police head has had a long conference with Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby and officials of the Police Department with regard to the forthcoming announcement of the grading of detectives in the three classes designated several months ago. Gen. Glassford attended several classes of the detective school in New York.

POLICE SAY 2 ADMIT ROBBING TAXI DRIVER AS HOLDUPS PERSIST

WIELDER OF RUSTY GUN GETS $8; FLEES ON FOOT

Son of Bargagni, Fireman, Is Included Among Victims Over Week-End.

Although the attempt of two Traffic Bureau policemen to trap two colored men in the act of robbing a taxi driver failed, the men were arrested and are said by police to have admitted robbing and cutting Rezby Brymas Saturday night in one of the week-end's many taxi holdups.

The arrests came early yesterday morning after the officers, W. H. Hinson and W. M. Sanford, had become suspicious of two men who they saw get in a taxi at Seventh and P streets northwest.

The policemen thought that the two colored men intended to rob their driver, so they followed the car across the city and into Deanwood. They stayed far behind, so as not to arouse the men's suspicions.

Ordered to Town.

The taxi driver, James Robinson, of 2048 Eighth street northwest, was ordered to turn around on one of the streets by the two passengers.

When the policemen realized the car was being driven toward them they knew the men would observe them and would not attempt to rob the driver. They ordered the cab to stop when it passed.

One of the men escaped but the other, Cornelius Gross, 21, of 1419 Tenth street northwest, was captured. He was booked on charges of investigation and the policemen went to his address and arrested William Johnson, 21.

Police said that the men confessed to robbing Brymas and said that they intended to rob Robinson.

11 Robberies Reported.

The tenth taxi holdup of the week-end was reported to police yesterday by Jack Tallon, of 815 M street northwest. He was robbed of $12 and his cab by a passenger who produced an automatic pistol after he had ridden from Sixth and H streets northeast to Second and G streets northeast. The cab was found abandoned later.

Robert More, colored, 21 years old, of 1813 Twelfth street northwest, reported last night that he was held up at the point of a gun by two white men, who robbed him of his cab and $2 in cash.

William A. Miles, a cab driver of 629 H street northwest, told police that he was robbed of $8 by a colored man who hired his taxi at Sixth street and Massachusetts avenue northwest. The holdup man, he said, used an old rusty pistol, and escaped on foot after obtaining the money.

A colored man who hailed his taxi in the downtown section, produced a gun and forced Philip Kline, of 915 New Hampshire avenue, to surrender $4.50. Kline told police the man escaped on foot.

Joseph Bargagni, 23-year-old hacker and son of Sergt. A. J. Bargagni, well known fireman, was robbed of $8 at the point of a gun by a Negro fare.
